Mull crisis options

Nixon, economic advisers huddle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon called in his top economic advisers today to consider options should the energy crisis cause a downturn in the economy.

Besides the so-called quadriad, Nixon summoned John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, to the meeting which began shortly after 10 a.m. EST. White House aides said in advance there would be no announcements following the meeting.

Administration economists have forecast a slowdown in the economy to near recession levels during the first part of 1974 if the Middle East oil boycott continues.

Nixon was studying reports of airline and auto industry layoffs, gas station closings, and disruption in industries which are affected by the nationwide energy shortage.

The economic quadriad that serves as Nixon's chief advisory team includes Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Chairman Herbert L. Stein of the presidential Council of Economic Advisers, Budget Director Roy L. Ash and Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve.

There have been some forecasts —chiefly by critics of administration policies —that unemployment might reach 8 per cent next year because of layoffs resulting from industrial cutbacks due to fuel shortages.

A housing industry leader predicted unemployment would be widespread, accompanied by business failures and housing shortages, because of administration policies.

George C. Martin, president of the National Association of Home Builders, told newsmen the administration had taken a negative approach to housing production.

Israel, Egypt agree separation of forces must be top priority

By United Press International

Israel and Egypt agreed today in separate meetings in Cairo and Jerusalem that the separation of their forces along the Suez Canal must be the first order of business at the Geneva Peace conference opening Tuesday, but there was no assurance Israel would actually attend the talks.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred in Cairo with President Anwar Sadat and the ambassadors of Britain, the Soviet Union and France and then flew on to Saudi Arabia. He said he and Sadat had agreed that the separation of forces must be the first item of substance at Geneva.

The Israeli government met for more than four hours in Jerusalem in an inconclusive special session devoted to discussion on how Israel planned to approach the Middle East peace talks in Geneva. A spokesman said disengagement of forces was a principal topic discussed.

The cabinet ministers emerged grimfaced from their four-hour and 30 minute session with Prime Minister Golda Meir and declined to comment on the proceedings. They walked quickly to their waiting automobiles. But a spokesman said the issues were not resolved and another meeting would be necessary.

Forecaster says damp—no rain

A cold front moving through the area brought fog and drizzles to Pomona Valley early today. The damp weather will continue Saturday, except for a brief respite in the afternoon when the sun is supposed to make an appearance.

The official forecast from the National Weather Service calls for low clouds and fog late tonight and early Saturday with partial clearing Saturday afternoon.

Today's high should reach 50 degrees and a slightly warmer 65 degrees is forecast for Saturday. No rainfall is expected this weekend.

Thursday's high temperature was 56 degrees, followed by a low this morning of 44 degrees.

Elderly burglary victim exchanges shots with gunman; wife wounded

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — A gunman robbed an elderly Fort Lauderdale couple of $40,000 in jewels Thursday night, fleeing on a 10-speed bicycle after exchanging shots with the victims and slightly wounding the wife.

Police said the bandit barged into the home of retiree Paul Weidenbacher in one of the city's most fashionable neighborhoods while the Weidenbachers were watching television.

The young bandit forced Weidenbacher into the bedroom to get the family jewels. While in the bedroom, Weidenbacher grabbed a gun from a drawer and exchanged shots with the burblar.

The man grabbed an 11-carat diamond ring, some other jewelry, and $100 in cash and fled into the living room where he and Weidenbacher again exchanged shots. One of the shots wounded Mrs. Weidenbacher in the right breast, police said.

As the man fled on a bicycle, Weidenbacher fired four more times, apparently missing, according to police.

Mrs. Weidenbacher was treated for a flesh wound at the house.

RTD facing new crisis: shutdown by mechanics

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

With the threat of the fuel shortage already hanging overhead, the Southern California Rapid Transit District now faces a new crisis that could shut down its entire operation indefinitely and leave thousands of area residents virtually stranded.

Some 700 mechanics have threatened to walk off the job at midnight tonight, unless their representatives can reach an agreement in negotiations with RTD officials over a pension-boosting plan.

A strike, if it comes, is expected to shut down the entire RTD operation in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, and leave more than 450,000 persons who rely on the bus service for inter-community travel without their usual means of transportation.

In the Pomona Valley, RTD officials have estimated that some 2,400 people use their service daily, and about half that many rely on it on Sundays.

A shutdown will also eliminate city bu service in Pomona, an RTD spokesmai said today. "It will affect our service ev erywhere," he said.

The spokesman was unable to give an estimate on the number who ride city buses daily, but, based on reports when the city of Pomona ran the operation, buses carried approximately 15,000 passengers a week during the Christmas season two years ago.

Students are also heavily dependent on city bus service to get to school and back home, since the Pomona school district does not provide its own bus service.

RTD directors were expected to meet earlier today to discuss the issue before going into final bargaining talks later in the afternoon.

"I cannot believe this thing is really happening," said Jerome C. Long, president of the Amalgamated Transit Workers Union Division 1277. "Yet here it is Thursday night and we are getting absolutely no place in negotiations."

Negotiations between the two sides have been going on for over a year. In an attempt to break the deadlock, Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed a three-man commission to help settle the dispute, but RTD officials have so far rejected the commission's pension recommendations without commenting why.

The commission reportedly recommended a settlement which would boost expected revenue from pension fund reserves from 4 per cent to 5.5 per cent, and with anticipated added revenue RTD would be able to improve the mechanic's pension program.

IN TWISTER'S PATH

A tornado hit Gainesville, Ga., Thursday, taking the roofs off a number of homes and buildings. Twisters and thunderstorms struck across Tennessee, north Georgia and South Carolina, killing three persons.

3 dead, 47 injured as twisters hit in South

NINETY SIX, S.C. (UPI) — Three persons were killed and at least 47 injured Thursday as tornadoes ripped across three southern states, causing millions of dollars in damage.

Two women were killed when a twister cut a swath a mile long and nearly 100 feet wide through this rural area. It struck the Ninety Six Manufacturing Co., destroying a cloth separating building where they worked. A 15-month old boy, Brandon J. Farr, died in an overturned mobile home in Newberry County, S.C.

Twenty-six persons were injured in a tornado which struck Gainesville, Ga., shortly after noon. At least 44 houses were destroyed along with two trailer parks, two downtown businesses and a church.

Another twister ripped the roof off an elementary school in Conasauga, Tenn., Thursday morning, injuring three children. Several other children were trapped briefly in the rubble but were uninjured.

The worst damage was reported in Greenwood County, S.C., where Ninety Six Fire Chief Bubba Summers estimated damage in the millions of dollars. At least 18 persons were injured.

The tornado ripped through the Edgewood School community, a new housing development near Ninety Six, damaging nearly every house in the development and unroofing many of the structures.

The South Carolina National Guard was called to duty to prevent looting.

The workers killed at the Ninety Six Manufacturing Co., were identified as Charity Griffin and Ozala Thomas, both of Ninety Six. The plant was destroyed by the twister.

The basketball team at Mid Carolina High School in nearby Prosperity narrowly escaped injury when the gym roof was blown off.

In Gainesville, Ga., County Civil Defense Director H. D. Ward said it was an "unusual" tornado in that it "was narrow in width but it hit in so many places." He estimated damage at more than $2 million.

"You wouldn't believe what was done to those houses and trailers," Ward said. "A lot of times you couldn't tell whether a lot had a house on it or it was just a cleared out place."

In Conasauga, Tenn., two miles from the Georgia-Tennessee line, the five-room Conasauga Elementary School was flattened. The three children who were injured were not believed seriously hurt, however.

A tornado also struck Dayton, Tenn., demolishing two mobile homes and heavily damaging five others. Damage was estimated at $60,000.

Meany blisters oil profiteers

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, Thursday quoted large profits reported by the oil industry and urged that the burden of the fuel shortage be shared by industry as well as the public in general.

"We don't think it's fair that working people should lose their jobs to the energy crisis while the fat cats get fatter," he said at an Israel Bonds dinner.

"Just as we were willing to accept wage and price controls so long as they were fair and equitable, we will accept whatever energy conservation programs may be necessary, so long as they are fair and equitable," he added.

House OKs compromise DST bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved by voice vote and sent to the Senate today compromise legislation to return most of the country to year-round daylight saving time as an energy-saving measure.

If the Senate acts quickly and the bill is signed into law before next Sunday, Americans will turn their clocks forward one hour on Sunday, Jan. 6. If enactment is delayed until next week, DST will go into effect Jan. 13.

The country would remain on year-round daylight time until the last Sunday in April, 1975.

The bill would allow President Nixon to exempt a state from the advanced time or to realign time zones within a state if the state's governor issued a proclamation saying the action was necessary to conserve fuel or to prevent hardship.

Such a request would have to be made before DST goes into effect. The President could ignore the request.

The legislation exempts Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands from daylight time. Indiana, which exempts one time zone from daylight time, would be allowed to continue the practice.

Advisers urge Nixon: fight back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Advisers close to President Nixon, both inside and outside of the White House, have been urging Nixon to make a forceful counterattack on critics of his financial record.

"The President is being urged to make a public statement insisting that his political critics make their income tax returns public and that they provide an audit showing their personal cash flow," said one source.

The sources said proponents of the counterattack strategy were suggesting that Nixon single out some members of Congress, including Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., who have questioned tax deductions Nixon took and the tax rate he has paid while in office.

The sources said Nixon's challenge would ask critics to fully disclose their personal financial records to show "they aren't living in glass houses while they throw their rocks" at him, White House sources said Thursday.

"The President at present is resisting the advice and I don't know exactly why," said one source. But he said Nixon was weighing the idea carefully and was expected to make a decision shortly.

Earlier in the day, a White House spokesman said Nixon "welcomes the examination" of his entire financial record by Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation and that "if the competent authorities find that the President owes further taxes, he will pay them of course."

The White House sources reporting Nixon's consideration of a counterattack said Nixon made his taxes public because he wanted to rebut publicized charges against him. Some of his advisers now are convinced, they said, that Nixon opponents are intent on using the tax information to further undercut the President.

A mod approach to an old carol

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — The staff of the Oregon attorney general's office Thursday released its fourth annual Christmas Song Book.

One of the pieces, sung to the tune of the Twelve Days of Christmas, is as follows:

On the twelfth day of Crisis, my true love gave to me
Twelve cops policing,
Eleven truckers trucking,
Ten stations closing,
Nine stocks a-falling,
Eight short recessions,
Seven pounds of beefsteak,
Six books of food stamps,
Five cords of wood,
Four jerry cans,
Three match books,
Two candle sticks,
And a battery-powered T.V.

Head of FCC resigns post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Communications Commissioner H. Rex Lee said today he has submitted his resignation to the President, effective Dec. 31, 17 months before his term was to end.

Lee, 63, is the second Democratic commissioner to resign within 10 days. Commissioner Nicholas Johnson recently quit after serving six months past expiration of his seven-year term.

"I have been in government for 38 years and I decided I wanted to do something else," Lee said. "I decided now is a good time to retire."

The Rigby, Idaho, native said he had no immediate plans, but that he would stay in Washington and "remain active." He said he is in "excellent" health and did not resign early because of any policy disputes.

Americans meeting crisis but pinch broadens

BULLETIN

A tractor-trailer was blown up at a truck stop today scattering wreckage for 50 yards, Arkansas State Police reported. It was the most violent incident reported since independent truckers mounted their two-day protest against rising fuel costs and lower speed limits.

No one was injured in the predawn blast, police said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newly released figures indicate Americans are complying with administration appeals to cut their use of energy.

Gasoline consumption dropped 15 per cent in the three weeks ending Nov. 30, and the combined consumption of gasoline, heating oil, diesel fuel and jet fuel was down 29 per cent, administration officials reported Thursday.

That involved a 1.1 billion barrel a day decline in the use of crude oil, out of which gasoline and other consumer petroleum products are made.

"Americans are responding. They must be thanked for their efforts," the administration's energy chief, William E. Simon, said.

But the picture was not all rosy.

Repercussions of the energy crisis were reflected today on a broadening scale —from U.S. highway truck routes to the topmost levels of government in Washington, London and Tokyo.

The major manifestation in the United States was the spread of a work stoppage by independent truckers protesting incresaes in diesel fuel prices and lower speed limits on major highways.

In Ohio, some drivers who declined to participate in the stoppage reported their rigs were fired on. Near Dayton, 450 to 500 trucks were "corralled" on an interstate highway and not allowed to proceed.

In Delaware, a leader of the truckers protest and three companions were arrested when a state patrol search of their auto turned up a handgun. One of them was John Sassi, who testified at a Senate hearing in Washington early this week.

In Missouri, protesters blocked exits at two truck stops in the St. Louis area but did not impede highway traffic.

On the government level, Vice President Gerald R. Ford presided at a White House meeting of top energy advisers to discuss the general situation and the need for further legislation next year.

President Nixon also met with economic advisers to consider possible options should the energy crisis precipitate a slump.

The President was studying reports of airline layoffs, closing of gas stations and other segments of the economy being hit by the fuel shortage. Some airline pilots were suggesting a pilot strike just before Christmas to protest what they said was inequitable government fuel allocations.

In England, the British people began buckling down to a program of austerity which may bring about unemployment and pay cuts for an estimated 3 million workers. Harsh energy conservation measures were ordered, ranging from a cut in the work week to three days and a ban on television broadcasting after 10:30 p. m.

In Tokyo, Japan's vice minister of international trade and industry, Hideaki Yamashita, warned the Japanese economy faces disintegration if the squeeze triggered by an Arab oil embargo and accompanying inflation continue into next year.

Yamashita said even if the Arabs and Israelis made peace and the oil situation improved during the coming six months, "it would take three years for the Japanese economy to be fully recovered."

On the diplomatic front, Arab representatives flew uninvited to the Common Market summit conference in Copenhagen demanding European governments take decisive action to force Israel to give up Arab territory.

Abu Dhabi Minister Adnan Al-Pachachi said however a suggestion by U. S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for a new world effort to solve the oil dilemma "deserves careful study."

"Already our revenue has decreased and we have had to freeze some development projects in our countries," he commented.

In the Middle East, Kissinger flew to Riyadh to meet with Saudi Arabian King Faisal and to urge lifting of the oil embargo if the Geneva peace talks on the Mideast open on Tuesday as scheduled.

In the U. S. Congress, the House of Representatives approved and sent to the Senate a compromise bill that would put the United States on daylight saving time next month on a year round basis as an energy saving measure. If the bill is enacted by this weekend, DST will take effect Jan. 6.

The House also worked on a string of amendments to the legislation to empower Nixon to take broad emergency action to deal with the crisis.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the Senate might put off a scheduled Dec. 21 adjournment if need be to pass the emergency measure.

On the positive side, newly released statistics indicated Americans are cooperating with administration appeals to cut their use of fuel and energy.

Ray of hope for car makers in sales trend

DETROIT (UPI) — For the first time since mid-September, U.S. auto makers have reported they sold more cars in a 10-day sales period this year than they did during the same period last year.

They credited a steady switch to smaller cars for the reversed trend in declining sales, a 1 per cent increase over the Dec. 1-10 period in 1972.

Mack W. Worden, GM vice president for marketing, said the new car markete "continues to reflect buyer indecision resulting from confusion and uncertainty with regard to the energy situation and its related impacts."

Nearly every small car model available showed an increase over last year, as did many of the intermediate models. The automakers sold 182,436 cars in the Dec. 1-10 period—a modest 1 per cent jump over a year ago.

It was the first time since the 1974 models were introduced that General Motors, the industry giant, showed such a gain. GM sales were up 2.8 per cent while American Motors continued its strong pace with a 43 per cent jump.

Ford Motor Co. sales were down 6.1 per cent, but small cars — the Pinto, Maverick, Mustang II and Comet— accounted for one of every two sales. Mustang was up 185 per cent from a year ago, Pinto was up 39 per cent, and Maverick showed a 25 per cent jump.

Chrysler was down 1.1 per cent, primarily in the big car area. Sales of the compact Valiant were up 64 per cent, while Dart sales increased 41 per cent.

Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend, in a year-end statement Thursday, said his firm's production would be more than 50 per cent small cars by mid-January. The company is indefinitely idling 2,100 workers at two big car assembly plants while converting its Newark, Del., facility to Dart and Valiant production.

GM Thursday said it, like Ford and Chrysler, will take the $150 maximum allowed increase in the price of its new cars, which works out to $188 for the average vehicle at the retail level.

GM upped the price for its Vega coupe to $2,491, compared with $2,442 for Ford's similar two-door Pinto.

Social Security increase bogged in bitter dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Social Security benefits increase that appeared to be breezing through Congress has become bogged down in an increasingly bitter dispute between the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee.

Unless someone backs down or finds a face-saving compromise before Congress adjourns next week, 30 million Americans will have to wait a few months longer to get their increased monthly checks.

The Social Security administration says it needs about four months to program its computers to handle benefits increases. If Congress waits until after it returns Jan. 21 to resolve the problem, no increase could be paid until this summer, although payments could be made retroactively.

Ironically, the increase itself is not a part of the dispute. Both the House and Senate have passed a two-step, 11 per cent increase for 1974. The only difference is that the Senate would give the first 7 per cent increase immediately but the House would wait until April checks. Both bills would give the additional 4 per cent in July.

The dispute revolves around a raft of non-Social Security amendments added by the Senate, including a guaranteed "work bonus" for the working poor of up to $400.

Normally differences between the House and Senate bills would be worked out in a joint conference committee. But the House refused even to appoint conferees.

"Procedurally there is no way we could deal with all the complex matters the Senate put on this little technical bill," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The "little technical bill" Ullman referred to is part of the dispute. Instead of amending the House-passed Social Security bill, the Senate attached its Social Security bill to legislation passed earlier this year making small technical changes in the Social Security law. Ullman took this as an insult.

Ullman said the Senate could settle the whole problem by simply passing the House bill, which technically is still pending in the Senate.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he would wait for a House-Senate conference, and "I find it very difficult to understand why any House member would refuse to even talk about measures to help the poor, the aged, the sick and the blind of this country."

Both sides realize the political dynamite they are playing with, and each side is attempting to keep the dispute low-key.

Lands back in cell penniless

Jailhouse Santa puts up $2,405 to bail out himself, 23 others

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — A New York youth who bailed himself and all the other inmates out of the Key West jail Thursday with $2,405 was back behind bars today, unable to raise $102 bond money.

Robert Vincent Palmieri, 20, of New York City was dubbed the "Santa" of Key West after paying fines ranging from $27 to $189 and posting bonds up to $252 to bail out himself and 23 other inmates.

But Thursday night, Palmieri was arrested again on a charge of indecent exposure.

"He just took off all his clothes on South Beach," said Jailer Robert Hatt.

He was being held under $102 bond and none of the prisoners he had bailed out earlier had come forward with any cash for their benefactor.

"All he's got left is 41 cents," said Hatt.

Palmieri, short and stocky with curly light brown hair, was barefooted, dressed in dungarees and a faded red corduroy shirt when he was arrested on Key West's mainstreet at 1:20 a.m. Thursday on a charge of drunkenness.

"When I got here about 7 a.m. (Thursday), this kid tells me he wants to get all of them out," said Sgt. Louis "Sweetwater" Cuervo, senior jailer.

Authorities telephoned Palmieri's mother in New York and were told that it was her son's money, earned last summer at a golf course, and he could do with it as he wished.

So he cleaned out the jail's 18 cells of the assorted fellow drunks, trespassers, vagrants, nude bathers and profanity users.

"They went walking out of court with grins splitting their faces from ear to ear," said Hatt.

Cyclone sinks ship; 54 are missing

SUVA, Fiji Islands (UPI) — Officials reported Thursday that 54 persons were missing in the sinking of a cargo ship by a powerful cyclone packing 100 mile an hour winds.

There were 41 known survivors among the 95 passengers on the inter-island vessel Uluilakeba which sank Monday off the southern tip of Fiji enroute from Vatoa Island to Ogea Island.

Among the missing was Dr. Melvin Hill, chairman of the music department at Pacific Union College near Napa, Calif., and his wife, Jean. Mrs. Hill is an assistant professor in the school's art department.

3 sewer workers killed by fumes

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Three workmen cleaning a big, muck-filled sewer pipe in the Jersey swamplands were killed Thursday when they were overcome by toxic fumes, police said.

A police spokesman said two scuba divers who were called after rescue workers were driven back by the gases pulled the bodies from the 4-by-6-foot, 750-foot long pipe.

Saxbe approved by committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the expectation of new assurances from President Nixon on the independence of Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, the Senate Judiciary Committee has approved Sen. William B. Saxbe to be attorney general.

The committee voted 15-1 to approve Saxbe after Republican Leader Hugh Scott agreed to seek "clarification" from the White House on the agreement under which Jaworski's independence and jurisdiction is protected.

Earlier Thursday, committee liberals had demanded that Nixon submit written assurances to the committee before Saxbe was approved.

Scott called their demand "a tempest in a teapot" but said he would try to obtain the assurances before the expected Senate vote to confirm Saxbe on Monday.

"After the swearing-in," Saxbe said, "I'll tell you how I feel."

The only vote against the Ohio Republican came from Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who felt that a constitutional problem over Saxbe's pay had not been cleared up.

1962 romance between JFK, Marilyn Monroe reported

NEW YORK (UPI) — Syndicated gossip columnist Earl Wilson reported Thursday that Marilyn Monroe had a romance with President John F. Kennedy. Just before she died of an overdose of sleeping pills in 1962, Wilson reported, she said, "Say goodbye to the President."

Wilson said he withheld the story for years but finally decided "to set the record straight" because of a book on Miss Monroe which dwelled on her friendship with Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, written by Norman Mailer.

Miss Monroe's relationship with President Kennedy is detailed in Wilson's own book on the life of the late actress, to be published early next year. He said he undertook a three-year investigation to establish a "dalliance" between the blonde sex goddess and the president.

Wilson said the affair went on for almost a year before Miss Monroe's death. He said she was sometimes a discreet guest at little dinners arranged by President Kennedy, usually at the Hotel Carlyle in New York where the Kennedys maintained an apartment. He said Miss Monroe once wore a black wig as a disguise.

Wilson said Peter Lawford, a Kennedy in-law, believed he was speaking with Marilyn on the phone when she lost consciousness Aug. 5, 1962, after taking a lethal overdose of sleeping pills. He told the columnist her last words were:

"Say goodbye to Pat (Pat Kennedy Lawford), say goodbye to the President, and say goodbye to yourself because you're a nice guy."

Bleak Yule at Chrysler plant

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

DETROIT (UPI) — The string of Christmas lights behind the bar did little to brighten the spirit of the few men on a break from Chrysler's Jefferson Avenue Assembly plant.

The automaker had just announced 1,700 hourly workers out of a total labor force of just over 7,000 had been laid off with no idea if they'll be called back. The remainder are getting an extended eight-day "vacation" after the normal Christmas shutdown.

"Everybody's feeling down and so's my business," Silas Shaw, the 61-year-old proprietor of Paul's Lounge, about a block from the back of the gate of the plant, told a newsman.

Kennedy Flowers, the president of United Auto Workers Local 7 which represents workers at the "Jeff Plant," said more layoffs probably will be announced after Christmas.

"I'm not optimistic at all," he said. "I asked them last month what they were going to do. I got no promises about anything."

They build the big cars at Jeff Plant—full-sized Chryslers and luxury Imperials—and the energy crisis and uncertain economic conditions have crippled sales. In November, 10,250 Chryslers were sold, compared with 17,392 the year before.

"It's grim inside that plant," said one young worker, emerging into the rain Thursday when his shift ended. "There's all kinds of scuttlebutt and rumors about what's going to happen.

"It's a hell of a thing to have happen right before Christmas," the assembly line worker said. Like most of the men, he didn't want to give his name, saying only that he worked "on the line, tightening bolts."

Now 960 Chryslers and Imperials roll of the line every day at Jeff Plant. Production will halt Dec. 21 for the annual shutdown which normally ends Jan. 2. This year, the assembly line won't start up again until Jan. 14 when just 640 cars will come off the line each day.

The "big problem," said an older worker at Paul's Lounge is that Jeff Plant turns out only the big cars. It's the only plant that puts together the Chrysler and Imperial models.

"Jeff can't be changed cheaply from producing Imperials and other big Chryslers, because that's the kind of lines and conveyors it has," said one of the factory veterans.

"So our only chance is if Chrysler consolidates most of its American big car making here, maybe including some models with smaller motors to increase sales," he said.

"If they don't do that, Jeff will be down to one shift within a few weeks," said another veteran employe. "Employes and production will be cut in half."

For workers with more than one year seniority, state unemployment compensation and company-paid supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) will give them up to 95 per cent of their weekly pay, less $7.50 for expenses they normally pay in coming to work—things like bus fare or lunches. Those workers with less than one year can count only on state unemployment compensation and the prospect that it will be a long time before they're back to work at Chrysler.

In L.V. elections

5 take out papers

LA VERNE — Five additional persons have taken out nomination papers for city offices in the March 5 municipal elections, raising the number of candidates here to seven.

Four of the five aspirants seek posts on the City Council. The fifth wants to be mayor.

They join as candidates Mayor Mike M. Morales and Councilman Harrison Sanborn, both of whom already have announced their intentions to run for mayor.

The newest mayoralty candidate is Mrs. Danita R. Peterson, a housewife and a frequent critic of the council.

Taking out nomination papers for council seats were:

Incumbent Councilman Frank Johnson, a filling station owner who seeks his fourth term; Walter F. Morrison, owner of Walt's Hardware Store; Robert Neher, a biology professor at La Verne College and chairman of the Commission on Environmental Quality; and D. Allan Mackay, manager of personnel and industrial relations at Johnston Pump Co. and a member of the Planning Commission.

Three terms will expire on the council next March, with two incumbents seeking reelection. Councilman Jack Russi, completing his first term on the council, is not running for a second term.

The nomination papers must be filed by Dec. 27 at noon.

An opinion by City Atty. Gene Axelrod, disclosed today, also cleared up the problem of what happens in the event that Sanborn should win the mayoral election.

Sanborn still has two years to serve on the council, so if he loses, he will simply return to the council to fill out his unexpired term.

If he wins, however, he will move up to the mayor's post leaving a two-year opening in this present post.

According to Axelrod, the council then will have 30 days to appoint someone to the unexpired term. Should the council fail to exercise that prerogative, it will have to call a special election to fill the vacancy.

Axelrod said the council is not committed in any way to award the seat to the next highest vote getter in the municipal election.

Pomona man charged in assault case

MONTCLAIR — A 25-year-old Pomona man was booked in West End Jail this morning on an assault charge after he allegedly threw a four-pound terrainium and a tricycle at a Montclair woman Thursday night.

Lonnie K. Tuff of 766 Dudley St., Pomona, was arrested by Montclair police on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon at the Pomona Police Department several hours after the incident occurred.

Police said that Tuff went to visit with his estranged wife about 11:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Delores Churchill, 10390 Kimberly Avenue.

Tuff apparently got into an argument with his wife, and Mrs. Churchill asked him to leave, police said. When Tuff refused, Mrs. Churchill told him that she was going to call police. The suspect reportedly picked up a four-pound terrainium and, after threatening the woman, threw it at her. The heavy glass bowl hit the wall over Mrs. Churchill's head, with glass fragments cutting her hand. Police said that Tuff then picked up a child's tricycle and threw it at Mrs. Churchill.

Police said Mrs. Churchill ducked behind a bar and the tricycle missed.

3 youths arrested on weapons charges

POMONA — Three youths were arrested on weapons charges Thursday morning in an incident apparently connected to recent racial problems at Garey High School.

Police learned that one youth was seen examining a pistol stashed in a hedge in the courtyard of an apartment building in the 1900 block of S. Park Avenue. Officers who arrested him later reported that they found a loaded, .32-caliber pistol in his possession. The youth, 16, was booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and carrying a loaded firearm.

Two of the suspect's companions also were arrested. The youths, both 17, were charged with illegal possession of billy clubs.

The three were arrested in an alley in the rear of 1900 S. Park Avenue by officers who stopped their car there. Besides the gun, police said they found a cut-down pool cue and a piece of lead pipe in the car.

Confrontations between Negro and Mexican-American students earlier this week resulted in several arrests. The situation apparently has relaxed on and around the campus at 351 W. Lexington Ave.

Galindo was admitted to the Chino General Hospital with a head injury but was released Thursday.

Chino officers said Watson told them that he was wounded while walking near Walnut Avenue and the Pomona Freeway. Thursday he said he was shot here by someone with whom he was rolling dice.

2 Uplanders slashed in dispute at tavern

UPLAND — Upland police arrested a Fontana man early this morning after he allegedly stabbed two persons during a fight at Boudene's Tavern, 1869 W. Foothill Blvd. about 1:30 a.m.

Kenneth McIntosh, 25, and Frederick Schmidt, 25, both of Upland, were rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital with knife wounds shortly after the fight was reported to police.

Schmidt is listed in fair condition at the Upland hospital with a face wound. McIntosh was given first aid treatment for neck and hand wounds and transferred to the San Bernardino County Hospital where he is listed in fair condition.

David Ray Brown, 26, of 7640 Juniper St., Fontana, was booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. Sheriff's deputies said that Brown later posted $2,500 bail and was released.

TURNS TO INDUSTRY — Lt. Col. Donald "Digger" Odell, who spent 5½ years in a North Vietnamese prison camp, is currently on a 10-month Education With Industry program. Here he visits UPI in Detroit.

Demo chief raps Reagan energy policy as 'Mickey Mouse'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Democratic chairman of the Assembly subcommittee on state energy policy has accused the Reagan administration of taking "a Mickey Mouse approach" in dealing with the energy crunch.

Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, voiced the criticism after Wes Bruer, Gov. Ronald Reagan's energy coordinator, testified at the subcommittee's hearing on the energy crisis.

Warren criticized the administration for offering "kind of a Mickey Mouse approach to a serious problem."

"What we've seen so far consists of recommendations that have little impact," he told newsmen during a break in the proceedings. He called the overall approach "patchwork and cosmetic."

Bruer testified that "at a minimum" the energy shortage would continue from 3 ½ years to four years and could linger as long as five or six years.

"It's going to get worse, then hopeully it's going to get better," Bruer said.

He declined under questioning to estimate how extensive the shortage would be, saying any figures he might offer would be "hipshot." He said the administration was preparing a thorough study which should be completed by the end of the month.

This brought a charge of "giving vague answers" from Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, who sat in on the hearing. "It does nothing to help the public confidence."

"If there is a cold January, there is going to be a shutdown in industry," Nejedly said. "what are we going to tell these people, that we'll have a report by the first of the year?"

Following Bruer's testimony, Warren, a legislative specialist on energy matters, told reporters. "Obviously the state is not prepared at this time to offer solutions to the energy crisis simply because it doesn't know the nature and extent of that crisis."

Warren said the administration was placing its faith in the federal government, an act which he called "misguided." Warren said the federal government's, "state of preparedness is about that of California's."

He said the Reagan administration appears to be moving toward curtailment, such as rationing. He cited Public Utilities Commission proposals to rotate power blackouts and limit new businesses as examples.

Instead of curtailment, he argued, a better answer would be to conserve existing energy.

John Zierold, spokesman for the Sierra Club, told the subcommittee that the crisis will result in increased pollution and a decline in the quality of life "only if government allows it to happen by way of a panic-stricken response."

Gerald O'Hara, assistant director of the California Teamsters Legislative Council, testified there has been "little sign of layoffs" of truck drivers so far due to fuel shortages. But he said shortages are "sure to bring unemployment in the trucking industry."

Court martial ordered for 'Navy Sikh'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Navy has ordered a court martial for PO 3C Ronald Singh Sherwood, 22, of Houston, for refusing to take off his turban.

Sherwood says that on his Thanksgiving leave he was converted to the Sikh religion, which requires its male adherents to wear a turban at all times and not to shave. The Navy maintains that a sailor in a turban, with an untrimmed beard, is out of uniform.

The case presents a conflict between the First Amendment guarantee of religious freedom and the Navy's uniform regulations, according to Sherwood's lawyer, Ram Das Singh, a Sikh.

Ex-POW, family plan Christmas snow trip

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

DETROIT (UPI) — After spending 5½ years in a North Vietnamese prison camp, Lt. Col. Donald "Digger" Odell is hoping the energy crisis won't ruin the first Christmas with his family since 1966.

"We're all going to finally do something together," the trim Air Force officer said. "The kids are really looking foward to a snowmobile trip in northern Michigan. That is, if we can get enough gas."

It will give Odell a chance to spend some time with just his wife and four children. The youngest, David, is 7. He was just an infant when the Odells last spent Christmas together. The other children are Carol, 14, Barbara, 12, and Paul, 9.

"We're not planning anything special for Christmas day. We'll just spend a quiet day packing all the things for our trip," said Odell, who was released by the North Vietnamese on March 14.

Odell says he's changed since he went over to Karat, Thailand, on Aug. 31, 1967, as a fighter pilot. He flew his first missions on Sept. 4 and his F105D fighter-bomber was shot down Oct. 17 on his 17th mission.

His wife Shirley noticed the change immediately when he returned to their home in Mount Clemens, near Detroit.

"Before, maybe I was, of course, tied up with my work or a little short on my patience or temper," he said. "But now I seem to have more time to devote to my children, and I take a greater interest in them.

"I'm more lenient and I let them get away with things that I'd never done before," said Odell. "Shirley says she could see that right away. She also says I seem a lot more concerned about other people."

Odell's concern with people may lead him into a new career. He was on convalescent leave until the end of September, but spent much of that time on a speaking tour.

He's now taking part in a 10-month Education With Industry (EWI) program that's put him with Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors. He'll spend three or four weeks in different departments at Pontiac and maybe stay with the automaker after the program ends.

"I'm in public relations right now, and I really like it. I also like the marketing aspect," he said. "Part of my decision whether to stay with the Air Force will depend on whether I get promoted to colonel.

"I'm 39 now and still young enough to make the change."

3rd graders ignite state legislation

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A bill designating the firefly as Pennsylvania's official insect was introduced Wednesday.

The proposal originally came from third-grade students at the Highland Park Elementary School in State Rep. Frank Lynch's district. Lynch, who introduced the bill, also had supporting petitions signed by more than 2,000 voters.

Claremont Colleges get $100,000 grant

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Colleges have received a $100,000 grant from the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations of Miami, Fla., marking both the beginning of an effort to augment the colleges' library system and to solve a financial problem.

The colleges are seeking $5.5 million in acquisition, capital and operating funds for the libraries. Of that sum, $200,000 had been earmarked to retire an interest-only loan negotiated in 1970 to complete the construction of the Seeley W. Mudd Memorial Library.

The grant will pay off half the debt, establish a Davis Collection in the Social Sciences and help the colleges in their plan to use the loan interest payments to set up a book acquisition fund.

Bugliosi will run for attorney general post

LOS ANGELES — Former Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi announced Thursday that he is a candidate for the Democratic party's nomination for state attorney general.

Bugliosi jumped into prominence four years ago when he successfully prosecuted the Manson family for the Tate-Bianca murders.

The 39-year-old candidate also was in the limelight earlier this year when he ran unsuccessfully for the post of Los Angeles County district attorney. He is now in private practice.

He said he was running for the state post because "I am terribly concerned about the corruption in our government and the many problems facing law enforcement because of the people's understandable loss of respect for our system of law and justice."

Bugliosi is a resident of Glendale. He and his wife, Gail, have two children.

Death toll in Bangladesh storm to be in thousands?

DACCA, Bangladesh (UPI) — The official death toll from a cyclone that hit southern Bangladesh Sunday stood at 89 Wednesday, but independent news reports said several thousand persons may have died in the storm.

A Dacca newspaper, the Janapad, said the cyclone and tidal waves affected 2.5 million persons and destroyed and damaged property and crops worth $133 million.

Most of the fatalities were fishermen caught in the Bay of Bengal when the cyclone moved toward the Bangladesh coast, news reports said.

The newspaper Dainik Bangla said at least 200 fishermen died in a fishing town on the Bay of Bengal coast.

Another newspaper, the Bangabarta, said the unofficial death toll was now 2,000 and if missing fishermen remain untraced, the toll will rise even higher.

Popularity of Golda, Dayan still dropping

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Israel a significant outgrowth of the Yom Kippur war with the Arabs has been a steady decline in the popularity of Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

An early result has been a certain modification of the peace terms which Mrs. Meir's ruling Labor party says it will seek to achieve at peace negotiations following national elections Dec. 31. The changes were comparatively modest but were achieved under pressure from moderate doves against party hawks with whom both Mrs. Meir and Dayan are associated.

A newspaper poll published Nov. 30 showed Mrs. Meir receiving support from 24 per cent of 1,000 persons polled.

An earlier poll showed that 45 per cent of those queried wanted her to continue as prime minister.

A poll taken before the war gave her 65 per cent.

Dayan, who has taken most of the blame for Israel's lack of preparedness at the outbreak of the war, lost half the support he enjoyed only a week ago in his post as defense minister. He slipped from 70.7 per cent to 36 per cent. Only two per cent supported him for prime minister.

Also of significance was the support received by opposition leader Menahem Begin who received 17 per cent, more than any others behind Mrs. Meir, for the prime minister's post. He is on record as favoring outright annexation of the West Bank seized from Jordan in the 1967 war.

Others mentioned in the poll were Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, former Chief of Staff Yitzhak Rabin, Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Commerce and Industry Minister Haim Bar-Lev.

The significance of support given the latter is that all are members of Mrs. Meir's Labor party and all are classed as moderates or outright doves. Eban, for example, has come under frequent attack from the hawks for his allegedly soft stand toward the Arabs.

Allon is the author of the "Allon plan," which would establish Israeli paramilitary settlements along the Jordan River, while returning a demilitarized West Bank to Jordan.

Rabin is a former ambassador to Washington. Begin, advancing in the field from far behind, is a former commander of the underground Irgun movement which waged a terror campaign against Britain before the formation of Israel.

By papering over differences within the party, most observers believe the Labor party has a good chance of returning to power in the December elections, especially since most Israelis join them in rejecting Arab demands for the return of Jerusalem to Arab hands and the unequivocal return to the lines of June 4, 1967.

As compromised the party platform calls more specifically than before for "territorial compromise."

From the polls and the Labor party platform a conclusion may be drawn that Israelis are ready for some compromise but nothing to the extent demanded by the recent Arab summit in Algeria.

Pet lovers pour it on

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — Animal lovers, annoyed by criticism of a $500 Christmas dinner of turkey and rabbit planned for stray dogs, sent in more money. Now rice pudding has been added to the feast.

"Many animal lovers are so disgusted by the criticism of the dinner," said superintendent Ken Taylor, "they have said they will not contribute to appeals for human beings.

L.A. may seek Edison Co. help in energy pinch

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The city council, which Thursday imposed mandatory electricity cuts backed by the threat of no service at all, would like to talk to Southern California Edison Co., which purportedly is not seriously pinched by the energy shortage.

The city's Department of Water and Power supplies electricity to 3 million persons — and their factories shops and businesses—in the city proper. Much of the rest of Southern California is served by Edison, which covers an area with 11 million inhabitants.

Even as it took firm steps Thursday, the council heard testimony that while the DWP is in a serious bind because it depended on oil from Arab nations for much of its supply, Edison is not as severely affected because it gets oil from Indonesia.

The testimony came at a session at which the council unanimously approved a tough two-stage cutback plan. Under phase one, which goes into effect next Friday, residential and industrial users must cut their electricity consumption 10 per cent, based on their usage from July, 1972 to June, 1973.

Commercial users will have to cut back by 20 per cent.

Under phase two, expected to go into effect Jan. 15, the cutbacks will be increased to 33 per cent for commercial users, 16 per cent for industry and 12 per cent for residences. Other measures include a ban on heating or lighting swimming pools.

Those exceeding their quota will be slapped with a 50 per cent surcharge—the equivalent of an extra month's bill for home users—the first time it happens. Second offenders will have their service cut off for two days. A third offense brings a cutoff of five days, and successive violations cutoffs of from five to 30 days.

Mayor Tom Bradley said he would take the new laws to Washington with him today, as he tries to get federal help to find more oil for the city's generators, to show that Los Angeles is trying hard.

Councilmen Ernani Bernardi and Edmund Edelman took DWP General Manager Robert Phillips to task for making the city dependento n Arab oil.

"Was I to forecast the Arab embargo?" Phillips replied.

Bernardi noted that Texaco supplies up to 6 million barrels of oil a year, from its Los Angeles refinery, to Edison, although the refinery depends on the DWP for power. The city burns about 500,000 to 1 million barrels a year to supply power for Texaco's refinery, the councilman said, but gets no oil in return.

"Shouldn't we try to get Southern California Edison to provide Texaco with 1 million barrels (worth of power), instead of our doing it?" Bernardi asked.

"That's a possibility," Phillips said.

"I don't see any great concern, over there at Edison, Bernardi said, noting that Edison has not imposed stringent cutbacks as the DWP has had to do.

Edison is better off than DWP, because it gets almost half its oil from Indonesia, which does not support the Arab embargo, he said.

Phillips offered in DWP's defense that the Burbank, Glendale and Pasadena power suppliers are "worse off" than Los Angeles.

Bernardi said he thinks Edison, Texaco and Union Carbide, a large user of DWP electricity, should be asked to send representatives to meet with the council and discuss whether they are willing to help out the city. The water and power committee was told to consider the idea.

Phillips said that maybe the DWP could buy some electricity from Edison, but noted that the state Public Utilities Commission is already holding hearings on a mutual assistance program to spread the shortage around evenly.

Wedding gift from the Nixons

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Peggy Sue Wallace, soon to be married daughter of Gov. George C. Wallace, has received an engraved porcelain figurine as her wedding gift from President and Mrs. Nixon.

Although among the about 600 persons invited, the first family was not expected to attend the church wedding Saturday of Miss Wallace and Mark Kennedy of Greenville, Ala.

Miss Wallace, 23, said the gift, identified as "Boehm's Bird of Peace," depicted a duck sitting on a lily pond. "It is the most beautiful piece you've ever seen," she said.

The delicate figurine arrived at the executive mansion here, wrapped in paper heavily embossed with the presidential seal. The Nixons' name was engraved on the bottom of it.

"I saved the paper and think I will frame it, too," Miss Wallace said.

Two nominated as ambassadors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nominations of Viron P. Vikay, a career Foreign Service officer, and Lloyd I. Miller, a Cincinnati lawyer, to be ambassadors to Colombia and Trinidad and Tobago respectively was announced Thursday by President Nixon.

Vaky, 48, Corpus Christi, Tex., now ambassador to Costa Rica, will succeed Leonard J. Saccio, who has resigned.

Miller, 49, chairman of the Cincinnati Transit Co. since 1956, will replace Anthony D. Marshall in Trinidad and Tobago. Marshall recently was nominated ambassador to Kenya.

Nixons mail Yule cards—50,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just like millions of other Americans, President and Mrs. Nixon send cards at Christmas—50,000 of them to be exact.

The White House mailed the cards, which feature a reproduction of a White House engraving as it looked in 1848, Thursday. They went to foreign heads of state, foreign and U.S. diplomats, government dignataries, friends and close supporters of the Nixon.

Drawn by August Kollner, the cards contain a view of the north portico as seen from Lafayette Square. They are on a background of Christmas red with gold undertones.

The greeting on the inside, printed in black and engraved in black script on white vellum, reads: "With all best wishes for a merry Christmas and a happy New Year—the President and Mrs. Nixon."

Ex-governor back in politics

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former Pennsylvania Gov. George M. Leader has reentered the political arena, but not as a candidate. He will direct the statewide committee for the re-election of Gov. Milton J. Shapp and Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline.

Shapp announced Thursday that Leader agreed to serve as chairman of the Pennsylvanians for Shapp-Kline.

Leader, a Democrat who served from 1955 to 1959, praised Shapp for the "beautiful team you put on the field in Harrisburg and the splendid job you've been doing.'

Gets BA degree 25 years later

CHICAGO (UPI) — Frank A. Wood Jr. was to receive his bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago today— almost a quarter of a century after he left the school one exam short of his degree.

"I didn't get my degree in 1951 because I wasn't able to take my final German exam," Wood, of Denmark, Wis., said Thursday. "So this past summer, I returned to the university and did well enough in my German course that I didn't even have to take the test."

Wood, 44, holds a master's degree from Marquette University and an associate professorship at St. Norbert College in DePere, Wis.

He said he was admitted to graduate studies at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis., on a condition basis and completed his master's in history and English.

"But my degree from the University of Chicago remained unfinished business," Wood said. "I never would have been satisfied if I hadn't completed that education. And besides, I have eight children—four of them in college—and maybe this will serve as an example for them."

Illegal tapes seized from L.A. shops

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Downtown shops were raided of some 4,000 illegally produced recording tapes recently and police said complaints against shopowners would be sought.

Authorities said they seized "bootlegged," discounted versions of Spanish and Mexican recording tapes. The alleged distributor of the tapes will be sentenced in federal court next week for copyright violations in similar cases.

Bunco-forgery officers said 16 shopowners who had been warned twice about marketing the tapes would be prosecuted for selling merchandise illegally.

The tapes, pirated versions of major recording company tapes selling for $6, were being sold for under $2.

Alleged distributor Arpad Leocsky has already been convicted once of illegally copying such tapes.

Crippled girl discovered in chicken coop has surgery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A crippled orphan girl from Mexico who was forced to spend her days in a chicken coop underwent the first round of surgery Thursday that will allow her to walk for the first time in her life.

Doctors operated four hours on the left foot of Rosalia Avila, 12, born with club feet and discovered crawling and scratching in a chicken coop at a remote farm near Guadalajara more than a year ago.

Surgery on her other foot was postponed for three weeks after damage to the right foot proved more extensive than X-rays had shown, doctors at California College of Podiatry said.

Doctors hope that being able to stand erect like other people will cure Rosalia of her emotional infancy, which they say apparently was caused by her having crawled all her life.

"She thinks like a baby because she had to crawl so long," a hospital spokesman said. "Doctors believe she can be cured emotionally when she can stand up."

The girl was abandoned by her parents as an infant, but was kept by a family with a small farm near the Mexican town of La Piedad. But her foster parents could not care for her during the daytime hours and put her in a chicken coop with the chickens.

She was found there by Sister Bravo, a 72-year old Mexican woman who had lived in San Jose, Calif., most of her life but retired to Mexico.

Sister Bravo used her U.S. Social Security check to take care of 40 youngsters in an orphanage she founded with help of friends in the San Jose area.

Her friends arranged to bring Rosalia to San Francisco for the operation by Dr. Thomas Sgarlato.

Rosalia will spend the Christmas holidays with a San Jose family before undergoing further surgery. Doctors say she should be able to return to Mexico and begin walking by her 13th birthday next June.

BABY, IT'S COLD INSIDE — With gas unattainable for Paola, Kan., schools, thermostats recently were set at no higher than 40 degrees. Classes were held with children wearing heavy coats, gloves, long underwear and hats. Here one pupil blows on hands to keep warm.

Moving day included body of woman, 69

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Arthur McGill said Wednesday he carried the dead body of his former wife's aunt to a taxi and took it nine blocks to his new residence because he "wanted her body to be in a reposed position."

Police said the woman, Rosalie Graham, 69, died Tuesday in a cold, barren apartment from which McGill was moving. Miss Graham, who had cared for the McGills' three children during the years the couple was separated, apparently died of natural causes while the family was moving to a new apartment, police said.

"I wasn't about to leave her and have them come without a place to lay her down," McGill said. "I wanted her body in a reposed position."

McGill, a former Air Force medic, said he carried the woman's body to a taxi and took it nine blocks to his new residence where he placed it on a bed and covered it.

"Would you consider it ghoulish to lay a freshly deceased person on a floor?" he said. "In my estimation, it would be humanitarian not to.

"She was in the last bedroom and I carried her into the bathroom, where heat would be retained when I disconnected the utilities. I left the youngest daughter attending her and I kept looking in on her. About the fourth time I looked, I saw her pallor and felt her pulse. That told me she was in the throes of death. I made a further check and ascertained she was dead."

He said he called a taxi, put the body inside and told the driver, "The woman just died, but I don't want the baby to know about it. Let's keep it quiet. Let's shoot on up."

After he carried the body into the new residence, McGill said, "I put her into a bed and covered her." Then he called Miss Graham's sister, insurance companies and a funeral home before notifying police.

"I kept it from (the youngest daughter) until after the body had been removed," McGill said.

A police spokesman said the law prohibited the removal of a body.

"Charges could be filed," he said, "but none have been. It is against the law unless it is a case in which a person died en route to a hospital. But if a person expires at home, they should be left there."

The Orleans Parish Coroner's Office said an autopsy had been performed on the woman, but pathology reports were not available and no cause of death had been determined.

Record drops predicted in construction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five housing economists said today 1974 would be a year of record declines in the construction of homes and apartments.

The economists, speaking at the third annual forecasting conference of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, differed only to the extent of the fall in housing starts.

Dr. Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders, said housing starts would average about 1.3 million units on an annual basis, about one-third below the 1973 level.

Other economists, including Lacey C. Hunt, of Chase Econometric Associates; Gary Fromm, of Data Resources, and Kenneth J. Thygerson, of the U.S. League of Savings and Loan Associations, predicted higher annual rates of construction for 1974.

They set the annual rate at a range from 1.7 million to 1.9 million units.

Edison aide says

U.S. can correct energy woes if ecologists help

POMONA — The United States has the raw natural resources to become domestically sufficient for its energy needs by 1985 if the environmentalists will work with business in a responsible way, according to Frank McCracken of the Southern California Edison Co.

McCracken, who is manager of environmental planning for the power utility, told the Chamber of Commerce Vital Issues Breakfast meeting in Buffums' Thursday morning that the legitimate concerns that the environmentalists have for preserving the natural resources have been recognized.

"But turning everything off, stopping the construction of nuclear plants and delaying the Alaskan oil pipeline is a faster road to disaster," said McCracken.

"We do need to drill the Santa Barbara Channel for oil and we need to mine coal," he said, pointing out that such operations can be accomplished in such a way that the quality of life and quality of the environment can still be preserved.

McCracken said that "if the environmentalists continue to say 'stop, don't do this,' they will do such serious damage to the public welfare that there will be a backlash that will destroy the environmentalists themselves."

He said that if the national will can be motivated, by 1985 the nation can be self-sufficient for its energy needs. And it can be done, he said, "without indefinitely raping the earth."

McCracken predicted that by the year 2000 the nation's sources of fossil fuels will have been about depleted, with the exception of coal. He said the nation will then be dependent on solar and fusion energy "in a big way." Wind and tidal power are other possibilities, he said.

He said that large fusion plants could be built in remote places where the people aren't and moved to the market place where the people are.

In response to a question from the audience of about 150 people, McCracken said that there is considerable visible evidence that people are making an honest effort to use less electrical power. "Where we can save without hazarding employment, we have to do it," he stated.

Purse-snatch suspects face court appearance

POMONA — Two teen-age boys who knocked down an elderly woman here and stole her purse Sunday have been confined at Juvenile Hall and petitioned to Juvenile Court.

The pair, 16 and 17, were captured by several young men who chased them immediately after the attack. The youths live in the Boys Republic residence at 733 N. Garey Ave. They face charges of robbery, assault and theft.

YMCA employe Dennis Palmer, 25, Montclair, said he saw the pair knock down Mrs. Minnie M. Patterson, 93, near the Y at 350 N. Garey Ave. He and Val J. Newton, 18, Glendora, chased the pair and caught one in the 200 block of Pomona Mall West. The second was arrested in the 200 block of W. Third Street.

Mrs. Patterson, Pomona, told police she was walking on Garey Avenue north of Commercial Avenue when the two youths stopped and told her they wanted her money. When she refused one hit her, knocking her down. They grabbed her purse, containing just over $2, and fled.

POMONAN AIDS SENATOR'S PROBE

Mrs. Von Maxine Clark, left, of 212 E. Center St., Pomona, led state Sen. George Moscone, a Democratic candidate for governor, on a 1½-hour trip Wednesday by rapid transit buses to the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center outpatient clinic. Mrs. Clark, an ailing woman, told the legislator she has to get up three times a week at 4 a.m. to make a doctor's appointment at the clinic at 8 a.m. The state Senate majority leader is investigating transit and energy problems in Southern California.

Questions on smog device for older cars answered

A news release in your paper Nov. 1 carried this headline: "CARB okays anti-pollution auto device."

It stated that owners of most of the 1966-70 model cars in California would be required to install a $35 anti-pollution device.

Exemptions will be listed in a five-page document to be mailed to "Class A" repair shops authorized to certify installations.

How do I know where a Class A shop is? Are there other classes of repair shops?

Why can't this list of exemptions be printed in the paper, thus saving us from having to hunt up one of these shops just to find out whether we need the device?

Even though we do not need the device, are we charged an inspection fee?

These anti-pollution devices are to reduce the oxides of nitrogen by 42 per cent. Is this of the average car or does it mean reducing the oxides of nitrogen now present in our air by 42 per cent? — D. A., San Dimas.

The answer to your questions came from the California Air Resources Board Laboratory in El Monte.

Class A licensed installers will be found at service stations and garages diplaying a blue shield with yellow lettering which reads Official Pollution Control Device Station.

Although the Air Resources Board does not distribute a list of stations, there are approximately 4,000 licensed stations in the South Coast Air Basin. CARB says they are easily identified.

Even if the exemption list were printed, you might not have the information you are seeking. It contains six general categories and approximately a page and a half of exemptions. The remainder of the five pages consists merely of examples.

You would have to go to a Class A station anyway since exempted vehicles must be certified. Stations may charge a nominal certification fee, usually $2 or $3.

The device installation, claims CARB, has the effect of reducing oxides of nitrogen emissions in individual vehicles by at least 42 per cent.

Is it possible to find a person who had surgery for a "total hip replacement" correcting an old hip fusion after many years?

I would like to see and talk with someone who has gone through this type of surgery successfully.

I am contemplating having surgery of that type done. My hip has been fused for more than 46 years. It can now be undone and needs to be to correct a spinal problem. — Mrs. B. T., Pomona.

You told us that you have consulted doctors and read literature about total hip replacement.

You are hoping that someone among our readers has actually experienced the surgery and will talk to you about it.

Can you help me obtain enough yarn to finish a shawl that I began last June?

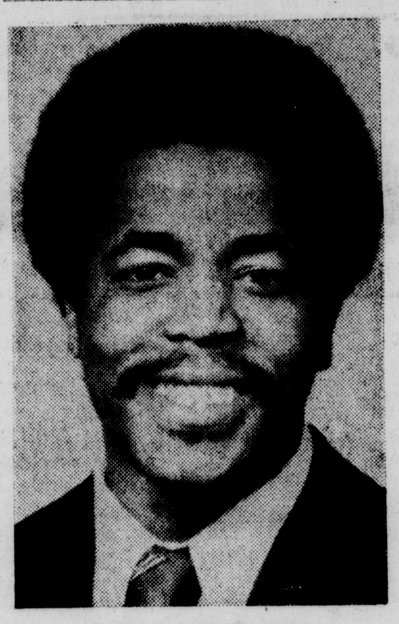
I purchased yarn and a pattern. According to instructions, more yarn would be available from the company upon request.

On a previous occasion, I ran short of yarn, notified the company of the colors I needed and received them promptly.

This time I wrote twice and received no reply. Since the shawl is to be a Christmas present, I would appreciate help. — B. M., San Dimas.

You listed the colors you needed and we wrote to the needlecraft company in New York.

You received the yarn and wrote us a thank you note. We're glad our stitch in time saved you a Christmas shopping errand.



JAMES E. STEWART

New principal appointed for San Antonio

POMONA — James E. Stewart, 28, assistant principal at Arroyo Elementary School, today was named principal of the North San Antonio Elementary School.

He will assume his new duties Jan. 1, succeeding James Bolderson who resigned.

Stewart, 1440 W. Eighth St., Upland, received unanimous approval at a special school board meeting. Ken Pine made the motion to hire Stewart. It was seconded by Roy O. Day.

Just before the vote was taken Stewart told the board that when he came to Pomona seven years ago he "didn't think much of the school board and had little confidence in the superintendent or the superintendent of personnel."

But he went on to add that Lynn Rountree, now assistant superintendent of personnel services, "is partly the reason I'm here today. He made sure I waited until I acquired the ability to be a principal."

Stewart commended Supt. Robert E. Wentz as a man who has "really done something for Pomona's schools."

"The only other person I wish was here is my mother," said the young principal. "I would like to share this with her."

West Covina Democrat in 35th Congress race

WEST COVINA — George A. Kasem of West Covina, a former representative in the old 25th Congressional District, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the new 35th Congressional District which will serve most of the Pomona Valley.

Kasem said, "Our prospects are very good. We previously have represented the major portion of the new district. The balance is adjacent territory where we are fortunate to have many friends and associates."

Kasem said that Rep. George Brown Jr., D-38th Dist., had pledged his support.

"We plan and hope for a truly grassroots campaign," the candidate said. "Our main effort will be through neighborhood people who are strongly motivated toward honest and responsive government.

"We are particularly moved toward running at this time because of the very unstable and critical state of our economy.

"Also, the Administration's handling of our foreign affairs has brought us to the point where we have had no reliable allies.

"The absolute unbelievable mismanagement in the energy crisis, which has us on the border of a severe economic crisis, has compelled me to bring the most direct action that I know of to forestall economic disaster."

Kasem said that "if we had an administration more interested in preserving the interests of the country than the preservation of their own fortunes we would not be in this dilemma."

The new 35th District emcompasses the eastern part of Los Angeles County and the western part of San Bernardino County.

Kasem was defeated in 1960 by Rep. John Rousselot, R-San Gabriel, after one term in office. He ran again in 1962 but was defeated by a write-in candidate. He has been in private law practice since 1962.

School boards seen shifting teacher negotiation position

POMONA — Thirteen major revisions in the Winton Act, the state law which governs relations between teachers and school boards, have been agreed to by the California School Boards Association (CSBA), according to Pomona school board member Don Donnelly.

These proposed changes, Donnelly said, are "a shift in stance for SCBS" and will improve communications between boards and teachers.

He said changes recognize exclusive representation for all teachers, set up madatory mediation, outline fact-finding with recommendations for settlement and request the creation of a state School Employe Relations Board.

Donnelly is a member of the CSBA delegate assembly representing Sub-region F, Region 13-14.

The changes were approved following a two-hour debate at a meeting of the delegate assembly preceding a CSBA-Association of California School Administrators convention early this month in San Francisco.

The purpose behind the changes is to lessen teacher pressure for the revival of collective bargaining legislation which was vetoed by Gov. Reagan last Oct. 1.

Donnelly said the association "would measure any legislation introduced in the future by its newly adopted yardstick."

What is at issue, said Donnelly, "is whether control of the schools will be kept in the hands of the public's elected board members."

State rates FJH reading project best

POMONA — Representatives of the State Department of Education have termed the Fremont Junior High School demonstration reading project "bar none, the best in the state."

They also evaluated the early childhood education project at Lexington Elementary School and found it "positive" but encouraged the school district to "greatly increase parent participation." The staff was highly commended in the evaluation.

Representatives from the state were here Dec. 3-8.

"These evaluations should greatly assist the district in retaining the Fremont reading project and expanding the early childhood education program at Lexington next year," said Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, at Tuesday's school board meeting.

Ramirez will be guest at LULAC event

POMONA — Dr. Henry Ramirez, chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish-Speaking People, will be guest of honor at an open house Saturday of the League of United Latin American Citizens' educational center.

LULAC's Pomona center is located at 1095 W. Grand Ave., but the open house will be held at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 1263 S. Hamilton Blvd., from 3 to 9 p.m.

Other guests of honor will be Ernest Robles, executive director of LULAC centers, and Joe Benitez, LULAC's national president.

Income for aged, disabled is topic

POMONA — State and national income sources affecting aged, blind and disabled residents will be discussed Monday at a joint meeting of the California and national leagues of senior citizens.

John Fryer, assistant league field director, will be speaker at the program which starts at 10 a.m. at the Goodwill Church of God in Christ, Sixth Street and Elm Avenue. The meeting is open to the public.

No rest for working wives

Woman's work is never done, no matter what corner of the world you look into, and especially for women who work both inside and outside the home.

When the time devoted to their jobs and their households is combined, working women end up with about 10 hours less free time per week than either housewives or employed men.

This has been documented in countries separated by enormous cultural, economic and political differences by an international undertaking called the Multinational Comparative Time-Budget Research Project.

To find out how people spend their time, the project surveyed urban-industrial centers in 12 countries — Belgium, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, France, Hungary, Peru, Poland, U.S.A., U.S.S.R., West Germany and Yugoslavia. In each country, at least one urban center with a population of from 40,000 to 200,000 was selected and a representative sample of residents was asked to fill out diaries detailing their activities during a 24-hour period.

In each society, the study revealed, working women are in a double bind. Although they participate extensively in the formal, paid work force, their responsibilities at home remain sharply defined by their sex role.

Whereas women are responsible for 32 per cent of all time registered in formal work over all the study sites, they contribute 78 per cent of the total time taken up by housework and related family obligations.

These discrepancies in work roles show up most noticeably on the weekend, say the directors of the American portion of the project, which was conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

It is then, they say, that employed men "indulge themselves in relatively large amounts of leisure activity. The housewife also shows a universal tendency to employ Sunday as a day of rest . . . her time spent on housework generally falls off almost 50 per cent on that day.

"The employed woman, however, just about doubles the amount of time spent on housework on her days off from work; clearly she must use them to catch up on these obligations rather than profit from them for rest and recuperation."

The pattern was the same in all the study sites, despite dramatic differences in economic development among them.

The average housewife in Osnabruck, West Germany, for example, has at her disposal an array of modern conveniences and technological "timesavers" that might only be dreamed of in Kragujevac, Yugoslavia. Yet the total amount of time spent on housework varies by an average of only one minute per day between the two cities.

This is because, the researchers suggest, the time saved through the use of laborsaving devices is quickly absorbed by a household which is more complex and to which a much higher standard of upkeep is applied. The woman who must draw water from a well is likely to tolerate a little more dirt than the woman whose kitchen is run largely by pushbutton devices.

Even the nonemployed, modern American homemaker, supported by an army of electrical appliances and convenience products, spends no less time on household work than housewives did in earlier, more primitive times.

What has changed is the nature of the work being done, and what sophisticated technology does appear to do is provide release from the more physically taxing and tedious labors.

Wax on the highway

Along with causing a boom in small-car sales, the energy crisis is good news for the makers of all kinds of gadgets and gizmos designed to increase gas mileage.

For example, the manufacturer of a new friction-reducing coating for airplanes is now hoping to sell the product to car-owners. The stuff is applied like a wax and, claims the maker, has the potential to increase the cruising speed of a DC-3 from 180 m.p.h. to 190.

Only trouble is that, while a lot of motorists like to fly low, with the move to impose a nationwide speed limit of 50 m.p.h., the drag-reducing benefits of the wax on the highway will likely be minimal.

6/6 vision

The transition to the metric system is reportedly almost complete in the field of optometry. The only remaining non-metric measurements are the visual acuity numbers on the familiar Snellen chart.

Becsuse "20-20" has such a deeply imbedded popular connotation as a sort of visual standard of reference, however, it's expected that it will take a while before that term is abandoned. Even optometrists haven't yet decided whether the new standard should be 6-6 — the approximation in meters of 20 feet — or some other number.

Thus for the time being, politicians and other decision-makers can continue to make spectacles of themselves, while those who second-guess them can continue to claim perfect 20-20 hindsight.

Christmas Tree bill loaded with gifts

WASHINGTON — As a cloak to conceal their annual Christmas chiseling, the lobbyists this year are using a bill that is supposed to benefit the families of men missing in Indochina.

Most members of Congress would like to give these anguished families a tax break as a Christmas present. But hidden in the wrappings are some far richer benefits for oil companies, mining firms, auto dealers and distillers.

The lobbyists have learned that the Christmas season is the best time to slip special tax benefits through Congress. The legislators are so impatient to adjourn and head for home that they don't always bother to scrutinize the fine print.

During the end-of-the-season rush, the action is also too fast for the public to follow and, usually, the lobbyist's hand is quicker than the public's eye.

The lobbyists customarily select a bill that appears quite innocent. This becomes known in the backrooms as the Christmas Tree bill. It gets its nickname from the goodies that the lobbyists hang on its branches as it progresses toward a final vote.

This year, the Christmas Tree bill started through the legislative mill as a tax measure to benefit Vietnam veterans and the families of missing servicemen. But after the bill moved from the House to the Senate, it became loaded down with Christmas gifts for the lobbyists' clients.

Perhaps the most glittering ornament, worth millions in tax benefits to chemical companies, was sneaked on the branches by Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo. His amendment would permit massive depletion allowances on trona ore. This is used to produce soda ash which goes into glass and cement.

Hansen's sugarplum would delight such firms as Allied Chemical, FMC, Stauffer Chemical and Texas Gulf Corp. But it would also raise a howl from other companies for similar Christmas blessings. "It would be difficult," warns a staff memo to Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., "to resist claims by other missing firms . . . . "

Second gift

While Senator Hansen was decorating the Christmas Tree, he added another gaudy gift for the fatcats. His second amendment would let corporations use property to redeem the stock of big stockholders in order to escape taxes.

Another bauble is being hung on the tree with White House help. This many-splendored amendment would grant special tax treatment to certain U.S. companies that do business in the Netherlands Antilles.

The approach to the White House was made by the Antilles' agent-lobbyist, Leonard Silverstein, who appropriately uses "Silvertax" as his cable address. He appealed to White House aide Deane Hinton for a letter supporting the tax concession. Without it, Silverstein warned, Exxon's big Aruba refinery might have to shut down.

Suitably softened, Hinton wrote the letter Silverstein requested. "I have been informed by the Treasury Department," wrote the presidential aide, "that it would not object" to the Antilles tax bonanza. Silverstein, of course, immediately circulated the letter to key legislators.

Both Hinton and Silverstein insisted to us that the letter was perfectly proper, although Hinton said he had thought Silverstein would use the letter "discreetly."

Another gift was placed under the Christmas Tree by House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills who played Santa Claus to auto dealers. His tax offering would be worth $25 million a year to certain auto dealers and other employers.

Still other lobbyists have sought Christmas cheer for their clients. Among those with special baubles and spangles on the tax tree are the producers of distilled spirits and imitation cheese.

When the Christmas bills come in, of course, it will be the taxpayers who must pay them.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: President Nixon has given up trying to placate Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who has become the conscience of the Republican party. And Goldwater has given up trying to persuade the President to come clean with the public on Watergate. The two Republican powers simply aren't communicating on the same wavelength . . . Goldwater has also clashed with the President's new chief of staff, Alexander Haig. Goldwater told some House members "it is my information" that the White House asked Spiro Agnew to step down as Vice President. Haig phoned Goldwater to complain he was mistaken. But Goldwater stuck by his statement as he had worded it.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Now's no time to be in office

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current political climate is such that Nelson Rockefeller is seeking to use private life as a stepping stone to the White House.

In announcing his intention to resign as governor of New York, Rockefeller did not specifically say he was quitting to run for President.

But it is taken for granted he will go after the 1976 Republican nomination and he apparently feels his chances will improve after he is out of office.

I can remember when the situation was reversed. It used to be that politicians with presidential aspirations viewed gubernatorial service as a springboard.

Puzzled as to what had caused the turnaround, I had a talk with Luigi V. Populi, political analyst and author of the book "The Making of a Private Citizen."

I said, "By most accounts Rockefeller has been a good and popular governor. How will retiring from public life help him advance in public life?"

"I can explain it in one word," Populi replied. "Watergate."

"But Rockefeller has never been mixed up in that mess," I protested.

"It's true he wasn't standing on ground zero, but the fallout from Watergate threatens office-holders indiscriminately, the innocent along with the nolo contenderes.

"To hold public office at this time is to run the risk of becoming identified in the minds of the voters with a period of political scandal."

I said, "Are you telling me the surest way to succeed in politics is not to be in government at all?"

"Exactly," said Populi. "Why do you think John Connally got out when he did?

"Connally got a big jump on other GOP presidential hopefuls as a governmental dropout. It remains to be seen whether Rockefeller can overcome his lead."

I said, "What impact will this have on Ronald Reagan's presidential aspirations?"

"Reagan made an astute move some time ago by announcing he would not seek another term as governor of California. But that may not be enough.

"With Rockefeller and Connally already out of office, Reagan will be under tremendous pressure to abort his own incumbency. In other words, he may have to step down in order to step up."

I said, "What about public servants who aren't running for President?"

"The same things applies," Populi assumed me. "Members of Congress who plan to run for re-election in 1974 had better get out of office now while the getting's good."

Thanks P-B carrier

This is just a little word of thanks to you and one of the many newspaper carriers serving your customers throughout the Pomona Valley, and especially the one serving us at this time.

The Lord has been very gracious to my wife and me and has permitted us to live together as Christians in our Christian home now for more than sixty-two years and we have been reading this paper all this time and I was a subscriber a few years before our marriage, and as we are both now past eighty; you will see why we are so thankful for the thoughtfulness of our fine delivery boy.

We have had many different types and varieties of boys during these good years — some good and some not so good. We moved to our present location, in April 1965 and our present boy has been very thoughtful and careful.

This summer we put in a new lawn and he was careful not to throw the paper on the fresh ground, nor on the new lawn when it began to grow. In fact he generally was thoughtful enough to get it onto our front porch and you can perhaps realize how much we appreciate this, especially as we are both now past eighty years of age; and this saves us from going down the steps and out on the walk or damp lawn, especially when it is raining or cold.

We can usually see the paper from our window so we do not have to wonder if the paper is there yet or not — we can see, and need not go out to look, we just open the door when we see it is ready for us.

We just thought you might be happy to rejoice with us at this holiday time of the year, and not always being getting complaints. —Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Jones, Pomona.

Gossip for today

You'd be surprised at the sacrifices some folks are making these days to help alleviate the energy shortage. — One woman has proudly announced that she is now waiting until her hair is half dry before turning on the electric hair dryer. — Another is patriotically washing her clothes in cold water. —A third is subjecting her husband to romantic candle light dinners almost every day of the week. —One 92 year old man, for want of something better to do, is conserving his own energy by refusing to talk four days each week. — The Governor of Utah has distributed a news release stating that he is now wearing long underwear. —But perhaps the most original of all energy saving suggestions orginated thus far is that of the helpful motorist who, although he is still driving the freeways at 65 miles per hour, is now displaying a bumper sticker which reads: RELIEVE THE GAS SHORTAGE — EAT MORE BEANS.

INSIDE REPORT

Simon not afraid to crack heads

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Following precious months frittered away in bureaucratic shellgames, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon has quickly made himself energy czar in fact as well as name.

Named a week earlier by President Nixon to head the new National Energy Administration, Simon last Sunday fired crusty Vice Adm. Eli Reich, who had retired from the Navy to take charge of the vital energy allocations program.

The separation, say friends of the much-decorated submarine commander, was "mutual." But what triggered it was Simon's resistance to knuckle under to what he regarded as Reich's prima donna tendencies, which had been cowing other civilians.

Placing a unique Sunday afternoon conference call from his office to the ten regional directors of the still-forming new agency, Simon gave them a 15-minute pep talk. He then offered the phone to Reich.

But the admiral refused the phone, telling Simon: "You seem to have covered the subject yourself."

Minutes thereafter, when all officials present had departed except Simon, Simon's deputy, John C. Sawhill, and Reich and his five aides, Reich exploded.

Angry over replacements

Reich was angry that Simon had replaced most of his own earlier choices for regional directors and brought them into the new energy agency and out of Reich's petroleum allocation office. So, he accused Simon of setting up the conference call without clearing it with him. The regional directors, he said angrily, were no longer reporting to him but directly to Simon and Sawhill.

What had really infuriated the former Navy admiral, however, was Simon's refusal to make him one of the six assistant administrators now in Simon's table of organization. Until Simon was named, Reich was a virtual free agent — not under the control of Simon's predecessor as energy czar, former Gov. John Love of Colorado, and independent of his nominal superior in the Interior Department, Secretary Rogers Morton. Throughout hours of planning sessions prior to the Sunday afternoon blowup, Reich was openly chafing under new restraints imposed on him by Simon.

Angered by Reich's explosion, Simon lectured the veteran naval combat officer. The nation is in an energy crisis, he said, and no one could be a "pompous" prima donna. What's needed is a team effort. He pointed out that he had offered Reich the top allocations job with a shot at the assistant administrator's slot sometime in the future—if he proved his salt.

A few minutes later, Reich and Simon agreed that Reich simply could not fit into Simon's energy program.

A selfmade millionaire

The episode tells much about administrator Simon, a selfmade millionaire for the Wall Street bond markets. It shows, first, that he knows exactly what he wants, unlike predecessor Love. Second, it underlines his tough self-confidence in not veering away from confrontation.

Perhaps most important, however, was Simon's careful political preparation for the predictable confrontation with Reich.

To cover his flank, Simon cleared the possible ouster with Morton, who had hired the admiral for the allocation job on the recommendation of presidential counselor Melvin R. Laird. Next, according to aides in Reich's allocations office, Simon called Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements, Jr., to make certain that a job was ready for Reich in the field of defense energy allocations.

Simon, who emerged victorious from his first major bureaucratic battle last week—with the powerful and haughty Roy Ash, head of the Office of Management and Budget—is only beginning to feel the hot pressures of the most politically dangerous job in government today. With power over allocations of scarce energy resources and such politically explosive issues as gas rationing and gas taxes, he faces a high-risk future.

He is already under quiet attack by influential Democrats in Congress, for example, for wanting to remain Deputy Secretary of the Treasury while becoming energy chief. Such vital industries as steel and aluminum are ready to jump him if they do not agree with the allocations priorities he is now drawing up.

Simon will be lucky to survive. But his tough, quick response to challenges should give President Nixon one small comfort: he has finally picked a "czar" unafraid to crack heads in an administration that badly needs it.

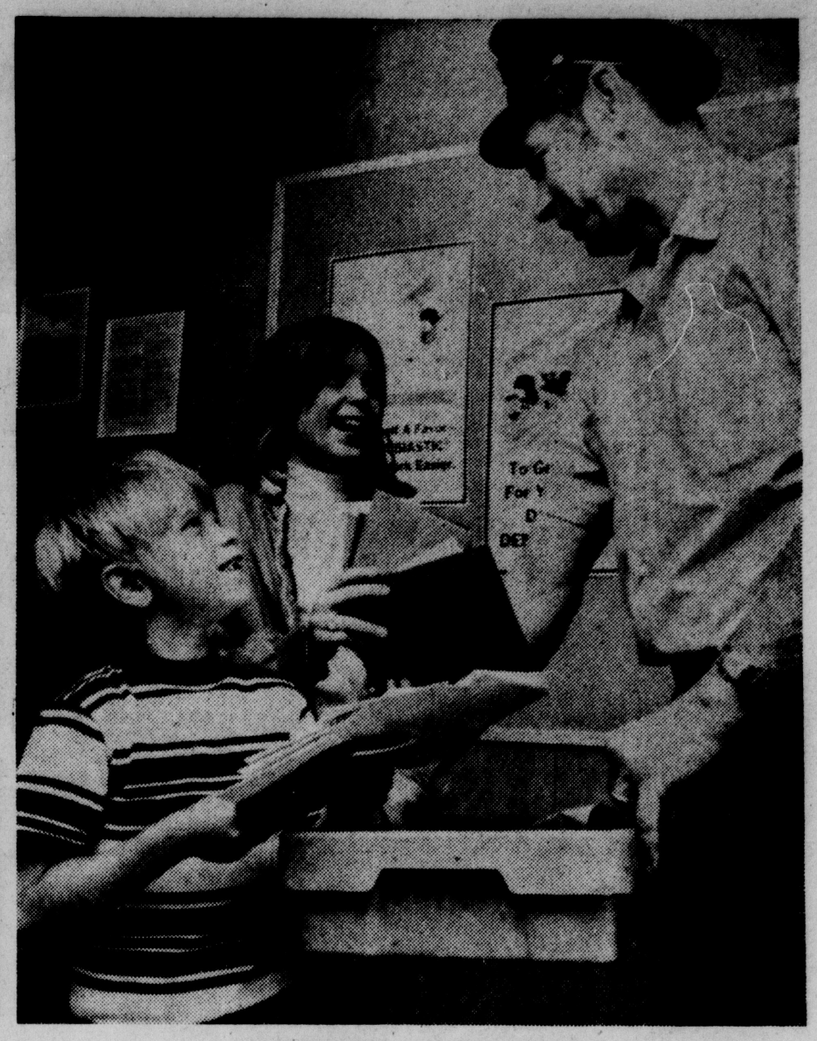
TREE TRIMMERS AT WORK

Tammy Mello, 3, a pupil in the Diamond Bar - Walnut YMCA toddler's program, hangs an ornament she created on a 30-foot tree on the Y's Mens Club's tree lot. She is assisted by her teacher, Mary Ellen Sanoro. The toddlers fashioned numerous ornaments for the tree which was put up on the lot behind the Mr. Up Restaurant at 23505 Palomino Drive.

SANTA CLAUS, I WANT . . .

Bridget Newton, 5, Diamond Bar, tells Santa all the things she hopes to find beneath her tree on Christmas. These two met Saturday when Santa visited the Diamond Bar Plaza. He will return to the plaza Saturday and Dec. 22, between noon and 6 p.m., as a guest of the Plaza Merchants Association.



MAIL EARLY

Walnut Valley schools are stressing a mail early program by gathering mail for the school postmen to pick up. Shown are Tommy and Carolyn Jordan of Diamnd Bar delivering mail to Wally Blum of the Walnut Post Office. Tommy, a fourth grader, and Carolyn, a sixth grader, attend Castle Rock School.

Community Yule program scheduled in Diamond Bar

DIAMOND BAR — The third annual Diamond Bar community-family Christmas program will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. in the Lorbeer Junior High School gym.

It is being coordinated by the Diamond Bar Community Council.

The Ministerial Society is in charge of the first part of the program.

Dr. Jim Watson of the Diamond Bar Congregational Church will conduct the singing of the carol, "Joy to the World." The Rev. Richard Engdhall of the Presbyterian Church will read the Christmas story from the scriptures.

Dorothy Horcher will tell what Christmas means to her, and Andy Watson will tell a short Christmas story.

The Ganesha High School Madrigal Singers, directed by Susan Winckler, will sing. Mrs. Esther Hoover of Diamond Bar will lead more Christmas carols.

Refreshments will be provided by the Diamond Bar Junior Women's Club, the League of Women Voters, the Castle Rock Community Club and the Diamond Bar Women's Club.

Payless Drug Store will contribute candy canes for the children.

Robert W. Graf is program chairman.

Due to the energy crisis, the annual Diamond Bar Christmas contest has been canceled.

DIAMOND BAR — Cub Scout Pack 733 held its monthly pack meeting Thursday at Diamond Point School.

Skits by cubs in Den 2 highlighted the November meeting. Directors were Barbara Lucke and Bob Schultz.

Awards were presented to Richard Lucke, Sol Smith, Scott Rowton, Kenny Mayhue, Chris Markman, Mike Milne, Scott Johnson, Roby Clawson, Scott Newcomer, Shawn O'Grady, Matt Tarr, Bill Schultz, David Sumner, Mike Menen and Mike Zinsley.

Leaders who received training badges were Barbara Lucke, Mike O'Grady, Bob Schultz and Ruth Schultz.

Uniform fee up for school security force

POMONA — Pomona school board has increased from $4 to $6 the monthly allowance for district security personnel effective Jan. 1.

The district has required that security personnel be uniformed since their initial hiring in 1969. The state education code requires the district to provide uniforms.

At the request of board member Ken Pine, district administrators are setting up a study session with security officers whom Pine described as "the eyes of the district."

"They have a message to bring to the school board," said Pine.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz said such a session could be arranged sometime in January.

Winter carnival for Rowland children

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Rowland Recreation Department will hold a winter carnival Dec. 29 from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Alvarado Junior High School.

There will be carnival booths and games such as sack races, skill contests with frisbees, baseball, basketball, soccer and tug-of-war.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the recreation office at 965-2541.

Crusade Revue slated Tuesday

WALNUT — The annual San Gabriel-Pomona Valley United Crusade Revue will be held Tuesday at the Pomona National Golf Club.

The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a no-host cocktail hour. Admission is $2.50 per person.

Rowland Recreation Dept. adds 10 classes

ROWLAND HEIGHTS—The Rowland Recreation Department will offer 10 new classes beginning the week of Jan. 7-12.

Each will run 10 weeks and fees will be $10 for the first member of a family and $7.50 for all other members.

Registrations will be handled through the mail or over the telephone. The address is 1830 S. Nogales St. The telephone number is 965-2541.

Classes to be offered are jazz dance, Tahitian-Hawaiian dance, guitar, baton, ballet, tennis, tap-ballet (two classes), Spanish-Mexican dances, and tumbling.

School board orders cuts in fuel usage

POMONA — High school students operating driver-training cars and employes driving district-owned vehicles now are traveling at a maximum speed of 55 miles an hour.

This was one of the energy conservation measures adopted Tuesday by the school board.

Another directs that thermostats throughout the district be set at 68 degrees where possible.

Outside security lighting will be kept bright, board members decided, but all unnecessary inside lighting will be eliminated. Lighting in hallways at the district Education Center has been cut 50 per cent.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, told board members that administrators still are learning about the energy crisis and are receiving directives from the state and the county.

"We don't know what our next year's gas supply is going to be," said Nichols. "We have our quota through next September, but after that we are uncertain."

Nichols said the district is working closely with natural gas and electricity suppliers and hope to be able to make a 10 per cent cut in the use of energy supplied by these utilities.

Associated Pomona Teachers (APT) have a car pool service for teachers, and students at Garey High School, working under teacher Ginger Friedman, are conducting an employe car pool interest survey.

Nichols told board members that the lunch period for employes of the district Education Center effective Dec. 20, will be cut to 30 minutes and the building closed at 4:30 instead of 5 p.m. in an effort to reduce utility usage.

Experiment for night emergencies

8 freeway phones get blinkers

EL MONTE — Eight emergency telephone boxes along the Pomona Freeway near Workman Mill Road are being equipped with blinking lights to make them easier to locate at night.

The General Telephone Co. is conducting the pilot program to determine if its prototype lighting system is adaptable to the freeway emergency call box system, said Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum.

The system will provide a pulsating light which doesn't require an additional power source.

Schabarum, who requested such lights last May, praised the telephone company for its ingenuity in developing the pulsating lighting. The testing period, he added, will be without cost to the county and will provide those in trouble a beacon in times of distress.

The freeway emergency telephone system was initiated and funded by Los Angeles County in 1967 and has since proved invaluable to motorists in distress, he noted.

"The installation of locater lights on the call boxes hopefully will prove to be an effective means of aiding motorists in locating the emergency telephones at night and during stormy weather," said Schabarum.

PEOPLE POWER — They're turning to human powered vehicles in Galveston, not just because of the energy crisis but because it's a fun way to get around. Bike shops report a booming business.

FHA homes found substandard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without criticzing the performance of the Farmers Home Administration's (FHA) present administrator, a House subcommittee has reported "serious deficiencies" in the administration of rural housing programs.

In an initial report on FHA operations, the intergovernmental relations subcommittee reported "clear evidence" of substandard construction and inadequte sewage and water systems in many FHA-financed homes.

The subcommittee said a 1971 review of FHA homes around the country showed that deficiencies in sewage disposal systems "were causing such problems as backing up of sewage into commodes and bathtubs and raw sewage standing on the surface of the ground."

"Water systems were delivering water contaminated with bacteria and unfit for human consumption. Roads and driveways in some subdivisions were found to be unpaved or constructed of a layered oil compound which had completely dissolved in places," the subcommittee said.

Among the construction defects, the panel said, were "buckling roofs, walls pulling apart and sagging houses."

However, the report said the charges should not be construed as criticizing the performance of the present administrator, Frank B. Elliot.

Under the rural housing program, FHA makes loans for purchase or construction of homes to low and moderate income rural residents.

Last of press quits abandoned Capitol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A 40-year era of the press sharing quarters with the legislature in the historic state Capitol ended today when the last news service, United Press International, moved out of the goldendomed structure.

The legislature has ordered the 104-year-old west wing of the Capitol evacuated by Jan. 1 because of potential earthquake danger. Already, workers have begun sealing the wing with sheetrock, making it like a tomb for the state employe who remain there.

UPI became the last of the print media to abandon the historic Capitol.

Like most other news organizations, UPI moved into private offices in the Park Executive Building about 1 ½ blocks from the home of the California legislature.

Although lawmakers have condemned the old west wing because it might crumble in a moderate earthquake, the Assembly and Senate will continue meeting for general sessions in their century-old chambers when the legislature reconvenes in January.

The 120 lawmakers are willing to risk the danger until new quarters are built. But everyone else was ordered to leave.

State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest has balked. She has a $10 billion reason to remain in the Capitol.

About $10 billion worth of bonds and securities owned by the state, most of them negotiable as cash, are stored in Mrs. Priest's vault.

Reagan administration officials have been unable to find another vault with the same security and capacity of her current one, and Mrs. Priest says she won't move until they do.

Also remaining in the Capitol are Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, Sen. George Moscone and Assemblyman Willie L. Brown, along with two television newsmen.

They all plan to leave before Dec. 31, when the Capitol's huge wooden doors are closed to the public.

For some reporters, leaving the Capitol was a nostalgic event. To Arthur J. Welter Jr., of the San Francisco Examiner, the Capitol had been his office for 36 years, longer than for any other reporter. When Welter recently was cleaning out his desk, he found a sheet of World War II gasoline ration stamps.

Wire service and a few newspapers first assigned fulltime staffs to the Capitol in the 1920s. By the 1930s the legislative beat had become important enough for lawmakers to make Capitol offices available to the press. This past legislative session about 80 newsmen received credentials as full-time Capitol reporters.

The legislators and Reinecke's staff will be moved into the newer east wing of the Capitol, taking over offices of the legislutive counsel, finance experts and security personnel who have been transferred to privately owned buildings.

Between Kennedy and Krushchev

Letters of Cuban crisis released

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The once top secret letters began with "Dear Mr. President" and "Dear Mr. Chairman," and closed with words like "Sincerely," or even "Respectfully."

But in between the salutations were threats and warnings which 11 years later revive the drama and fears of the six tense days when President John F. Kennedy and Premier Nikita Khrushchev clashed over construction of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

Ten letters were exchanged during the missile crisis of October, 1962. The last four—two from each man—were made public at the time, but the seal of secrecy only recently was lifted from the first six.

The crisis actually began about mid-month, when Kennedy was called home from a campaign trip because photographs taken from U.S. spy planes showed work under way on what military experts said could only be a nuclear missile installation in Cuba.

By the weekend of Oct. 21-22, the whole country knew a crisis was brewing in Washington. Anxious citizens in Lafayette Park across the street watched the steady traffic of big black limousines on the curving White House driveway.

The mystery ended—and the suspense began—Oct. 22 when Kennedy went on national television to tell the American people he had ordered a naval "quarantine" of Cuba and had demanded that Russia dismantle the installations and remove the missile components.

One hour earlier he had a letter delivered to the Russian Embassy in Washington and cabled an identical copy to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow for delivery to the Kremlin.

It was important, Kennedy wrote, that Khrushchev understand the will and determination of the United States.

"I have not assumed," he said, "that you or any other sane man would, in this nuclear age, deliberately plunge the world into war which it is crystal clear no country could win and which could only result in catastrophic consequence to the whole world, including the aggressor."

In the letter, which began "Dear Mr. Chairman," and was signed "Sincerely," Kennedy also said: "I hope that your government will refrain from any action which would widen or deepen this already grave crisis."

The Khrushchev reply, received the following morning, was addressed "Mr. President," and was signed only with the name "N. Khrushchev." It acknowledged both the note and Kennedy's speech of the night before, and said:

"I must say frankly that measures indicated in your statement constitute a serious threat to peace and to the security of nations ...

"We reaffirm that the armaments which are in Cuba, regardless of the classification to which they belong, are intended solely for defensive purposes in order to secure the Republic of Cuba against the attack of an aggressor. I hope the United States Government will display wisdom and renounce the actions pursued by you, which may lead to catastrophic consequences for world peace."

Kennedy's reply, sent the same day, was brief and curt: "I think you will recognize that the step which started the current chain of events was the action of your Government in secretly furnishing offensive weapons to Cuba. We will be discussing this matter in the Security Council. In the meantime, I am concerned that we both show prudence and do nothing to allow events to make the situation more difficult to control than it already is.

"I hope you will issue immediately the necessary instructions to your ships to observe the terms of the quarantine ... which will go into effect at 1400 hours Greenwich time Oct. 24." It was signed "Sincerely."

The Defense Department estimated that at that time, about 25 Soviet and satellite supply ships were heading for Cuba. Within the next few hours, 12 of them — presumably those carrying key militarly equipment—changed course to await the outcome of the feverish diplomatic activity.

The next Khrushchev letter, received on the morning of the 24th, was the one some White House sources at the time described as "hysterical," according to press reports.

It was long (almost 1,000 words), rambling and repetitive, liberally sprinkled with exclamation points and question marks. It had somewhat the tone of an elder scolding a hotheaded youngster. The formal diplomatic language of all of the other letters temporarily was abandoned, as he asked Kennedy to visualize his reaction if the positions were reversed:

"Imagine, Mr. President, that we had presented you with the conditions of an ultimatum which you have presented us by your action. How would you have reacted to this? I think that you would have been indignant at such a step on our part ...

"You, Mr. President, are not declaring a quarantine but rather are setting forth an ultimatum and threatening that if we do not give in to your demands you will use force! consider what you are saying! And you wish to convince me to agree to this! ...

"This would mean to guide oneself in one's relations with other countries not by reason but to indulge arbitrariness. You are no longer appealing to reason, but wish to intimidate us ...

"You wish to compel us to renounce the rights that every soverign state enjoys, you are trying to legislate in questions of international law, and you are violating the universally accepted norms of that law. And you are doing all this not only out of hatred for the Cuban people ... but also because of considerations of the election campaign in the United States.

"What morality, what law can justify such an approach by the American Government to international affairs? If you coolly weigh the situation which has developed, not giving way to passions, you will understand that the Soviet Union cannot fail to reject the arbitrary demands of the United States ...

"The Soviet Government considers that the violation of the freedom to use international waters and air space is an act of aggression which pushes mankind toward the abys of a world nuclear-missile war . . .

Naturally, we will not simply be bystanders with regard to piratical acts by American ships on the high seas. We will then be forced on our part to take the measures we consider necessary and adequate in order to protect our rights. For this we have all that is necessary."

This letter was signed "Respectfully yours."

Kennedy, who was closeted almost around-the-clock with his brother Robert and top administration and congressional advisers, wrote a reply delivered in Moscow at 1:59 a.m. Oct. 25. The tone was softer:

"I regret very much that you still do not appear to understand what it is that has moved us in this matter ... In August there were reports of important shipments of military equipment and technicians from the Soviet Union to Cuba. In early September I indicated very plainly that the United States would regard any shipment of offensive weapons as presenting the gravest issues.

"After that time, this Government received the most explicit assurances from your Government and its representatives, both publicly and privately, that no offensive weapons were being sent to Cuba ...

"In reliance on these solemn assurances I urged restraint upon those in this country who were urging action in this matter at that time. And then I learned beyond doubt what you have not denied—namely, that all these public assurances were false and that your military people had set out recently to establish a set of missile bases in Cuba. I ask you to recognize clearly, Mr. Chairman, that it was not I who issued the first challenge in this case, and that in the light of this record these activities in Cuba required the responses I have announced.

"I repeat my regret that these events should cause a deterioration in our relations. I hope that your government will take the necessary action to permit a restoration of the earlier situation."

It was signed "Sincerely Yours," and was a turning point. By then, U Thant, secretary general of the U.N., urged a cooling off period during which both great powers would back off a bit and negotiate their differences.

Krushchev's next letter, Oct. 26, was the longest of the exchange. It urged acceptance of Thant's plea and it said that from Kennedy's most recent letter he had gotten "the feeling that you have some understanding of the situation which has developed and a sense of responsibility."

"I appreciate this," he added, and said that from then on the communications should be made public—continuing to exchange views "in the form of secret letters probably would not add anything..." He spoke of the need for peace, and said, "War is our enemy and a calamity for all nations."

He acknowledged that both nations were fully capable of destroying not only each other but most of mankind as well, and said it was up to the leaders to avoid "lightheadedness and petty passions."

The basis for settlement of the crisis was offered and, essentially, soon accepted when he said: "If assurances were given by the President and the Government of the United States that the USA itself would not participate in an attack on Cuba and would restrain others from actions of this sort, if you would recall your fleet, this would immediately change everything.

The question of armaments would then also be obviated, because when there is no threat, armaments are only a burden for any people . . . I have . . . introduced a proposal to disband all armies and to destroy all weapons. How then can I stake my claims on these weapons now? Armaments bring only disasters . . .

"Let us therefore display statesmanlike wisdom. I propose: We, for our part, will declare that our ships bound for Cuba are not carrying any armaments. You will declare that the United States will not invade Cuba . . . and will not support any other forces which might intend to invade Cuba . . ."

"Mr. President, I appeal to you to weigh carefully what the aggressive, piratical actions which you have announced the United States intends to carry out in international waters would lead to. You yourself know that a sensible person simply cannot agree to this, cannot recognize your right to such action."

"If you have done this as the first step towards unleashing war — well then — evidently nothing remains for us to do but to accept this challenge of yours. If you have not lost command of yourself and realize clearly what this could lead to, then, Mr. President, you and I should not now pull on the ends of the rope in which you have tied a knot of war, because the harder you and I pull, the tighter this knot will become. And a time may come when this knot is tied so tight that the person who tied it is no longer capable of untying it, and then the knot will have to be cut. What that would mean I need not explain to you . . .

Therefore, if there is no intention of tightening this knot, thereby dooming the world to the catastrophe of thermonuclear war, let us not only relax the forces straining on the ends of the rope, let us take measures for untying this knot. We are agreeable to this."

Instead of replying directly, Kennedy acknowledged the essential acceptance of the terms in a wire to Thant. The next day, the 27th, Khrushchev "went public" with another letter to Kennedy which was broadcast on Moscow radio.

He recognized Kennedy's "reasonable" approach to Thant and said "it persuades me that you are showing solicitude for the preservation of peace."

It was in this letter that Khrushchev for the first time mentioned the presence of U.S. missiles in Turkey. It is now generally accepted that those intermediate range missiles were removed under the terms of a private addendum to the agreement, although it was not formally acknowledged in any of the correspondence.

"You are worried over Cuba," Khrushchev said. "You say that it worries you because it lies at a distance of 90 miles across the sea from the shores of the United States. However, Turkey lies next to us. Our sentinels are pacing up and down and watching each other. Do you believe that you have the right to demand security for your country and the removal of such weapons that you qualify as offensive, while not recognizing this right for us? You have stationed devastating rocket weapons, which you call offensive, in Turkey literally right next to us ... This does not tally at all."

On Oct. 28, Kennedy restated his willingness to pledge no attack on Cuba, and the following day Khrushchev announced that he had issued "a new order to dismantle the weapons ... and to crate and return them to the Soviet Union."

The small crowd of anxious citizens left Lafayette Park. The lights in the War Room were dimmed. The world took a deep breath.

Ontario boy beaten over rusty chain

ONTARIO — A 13-year-old bicyclist was kicked and beaten by three youths who — claimed that he had stolen an old rusty bicycle chain he had found lying in the 1400 block of I Street.

The boy, Charles C. Whitefield of Ontario, told police that he was riding his bicycle on Benson Avenue near H Street Wednesday when he saw the two-foot long chain lying on the road. He said he picked up the chain, put it on his shoulder and rode off towards I Street. The youth said he heard a car stop behind him. Three youths got out, one of them pushed him off his bike and began kicking him saying he had stolen their chain said Whitefield. He said the three were between 16 and 18.

Whitefield said he got up and ran towards the Don Menke residence at 1447 W. I Street and crashed into the door with one of his assailants behind him. He said the man hit him in the face and then ran off when Menke, startled by the noise, came to the door.

Menke told police he saw a man run around the side of his house and disappear and the boy, cut and bruised lying on his doorway.

Police said the boy's assailants took the chain.

O-M district to plug communications gap

ONTARIO — Based on results of an administration study showing the need for improved telephone service in the district, the Ontario-Montclair school board Thursday authorized calling for bids for lease-purchase of new telephone equipment.

In its report, the administration showed how a new system using an intra-district set up exclusive of the public line could increase efficiency by as much as 35 per cent, and do so at an added minimal charge to the district.

In calling for the bids, however, the board instructed that the plan be used as a guide for bidders, but at the same time allowing for "acceptable alternate proposals."

The administration has been investigating a new telephone system for the past three months as a result of its concern over the inadequacy of the present system.

The board had delayed action until now, requesting more information be supplied concerning the need for improved telecommunications.

To meet the board's request, the administration undertook a survey of telephone usage throughout the district during the week of Nov. 26-30.

Basically, the survey showed that nearly 35 per cent of all calls in the district are made between schools and the district offices, and that an intra-communications system to handle these calls would free the public line of a "great portion" of its present load.

Such a set-up would require a new automatic switchboard plus the addition of one station per school. The cost involved would be about 12 per cent greater than the amount ($2.442.22) the district is now paying each month.

The administration made proposals for six systems in its report, the latter being the one which the board felt could meet the district's objective of securing better service at the smallest cost.

At the present time, all calls must go through a manually-operated switchboard at the district headquarters.

In other business, the board authorized the purchase of a Basic-Four electronic data processing system which will help manage business and office material in "an orderly and adequate manner." The cost of the machine will be $39,401.25, including maintenance charges for the first year.

Gunman robs Upland shop

UPLAND —A man armed with a .38 caliber revolver robbed the Town and Country Cleaners of a small amount of cash Wednesday afternoon, police reported.

Police said the robber, with a woman's red pants suit over his arm, walked into the cleaning establishment at 962 N. Second Ave., and confronted the clerk, Shirley Larson. Showing a revolver under the pants suit, the robber ordered Mrs. Larson to give him the money from the cash register. The robber fled.

The robber was described as a Caucasian, 35, 5 feet 7, 170 pounds with wire-rimmed sunglasses.

They mail litter back in Utah town

CEDAR CITY, Utah (UPI) — If you drive through this small southern Utah town, you'd better not litter.

You might get your trash back—in the mail.

A band of youth groups started mailing back litter as part of a civic beautification program during the summer and intends to intensify the mail campaign next year.

Most of the returned materials were envelopes, check stubs, bills of sale and other items with names on them.

But a youngster who saw some neighbors tossing paper cups out of their car mailed them back, and a motorist from Page, Ariz., got back the cigarette butts and ashes he dumped on main street from his car ash tray.

Alene Chamberlain, who directed the "community pride" program for 420 youngsters belonging to various youth groups in this city of 12,000, said local police cooperated by tracing down the license plate numbers of litterers.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who has six children of her own and is a former 4-H adult leader, wrote a "gentle reminder" that littering was illegal and unsightly to accompany the returned trash. Each letter also included a litter bag.

"It was a nice little letter, very kind and completely positive," she said. "It wasn't insulting, but a gentle reminder that littering is a misdemeanor and they shouldn't do it again."

Only one litter recipient sent a reply—a Mormon Church from a nearby town which thanked the youngsters for returning a Sunday school membership list, which fell more into the lost category than litter.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who worked with the youth groups— Boy and Girl Scouts, 4-H clubs, Candy Stripers, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers, Nite clubs and others—under a civic pride program co-sponsored by Utah State University and Standard Oil of California, said more litter wasn't lettered because of the cost. It took about 20 cents to mail back the average load.

She said she hoped to obtain more funding next year, since the program had a good psychological effect locally and was "a lot of fun" for the youngsters who took part.

"The whole thing was psychological—reminding people not to litter and getting them to think and talk about it. And it worked. People came up to me and said, 'Good grief! I'm going to watch what I drop out of the car. I'd be too embarrassed if I got litter in the mail."

The beautification program, boxes placed on downtown streets, convinced Mrs. Chamberlain that adults were the worst litterers.

"You could tell it was adults by what you picked up,' she said.

"Littering is an attitude. People who are really conscious of it don't do it. We're trying to develop an attitude and that takes time."

That's why her litter brigade will be back on watch—ready to pick up discarded trash and mail it back to the litterer — next year, hopefully with a little more money for postage.

Legislator sees rise in jobless rate

SAN FRANCISCO UPI) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., said recently that unemployment would grow because of power cutbacks but "sometimes we have to take something bad to avoid taking something worse."

Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee and a congressman for 23 terms also told a bankers' seminar that President Nixon's attempts at solving the energy problem were "a good start."

The "spirit of the people" was behind programs to reduce energy use but the Nixon administration and Congress must take steps to keep wages and prices from getting out of hand, the lawmaker said.

Patman also said the economy could be kept in balance if interest rates were lowered, especially housing and consumer rates.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Honk twice at fuel-wasters

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — A St. Louis group recommends that motorists honk twice at other drivers exceeding 50 miles an hour.

Arthur Moore, president of the Midwest Gateway Chapter of the Recreational Vehicle Dealers of America, said, "We feel that two beeps of the horn directed toward offenders is a proper censure to remind the offender of the waste of our resources."

Family accepts cat; he's disappointment

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We were tricked into accepting a year-old cat. We've never had one before and never wanted one. We are both avid bird watchers and somehow having a cat didn't seem compatible. George was given to us — actually forced on us — with the solemn assurance that he wouldn't chase birds because he had been castrated. You can imagine our horror, then, when he came home one day (after we were hopelessly attached to him) with a feather in his whiskers! We immediately checked him out, or a friend did, who assured us that George had been fixed. Now what can we do about this? What a terrible situation! —D.B.

Dear D.B.: Well, George may be an innocent victim of circumstantial evidence. He might even have acquired that feather trying to rescue a bird from some other cat. (Admittedly, that WOULD be unusual.) George's surgery? Well, undoubtedly it has reduced his hunting for fascinating, furry, "flaming," feamle felines. It would not, unfortunately, diminish any consuming interest he might have toward any of your feathered friends. You could reduce his inclination in this direction to some degree by keeping him inside from dawn to dusk and making sure he is well fed before he does leave home. The only way you could be sure he would never hunt birds would be to make him an inside-only cat.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What is coon dog paralysis and what causes it? —E..K

Dear E.K.: (Coon dog) paralysis is a rapidly progressing type of paralysis in which the dog loses the ability to walk. These are usually field dogs and most recover within four to six weeks providing they have good care and supportive treatment. The name of the disease stems from one theory as to cause which holds that a wound caused by a raccoon may lead to complex nerve cell changes resulting in paralysis. Anotheer theory is that the paralysis is caused by nerve damage from botulism poisoning. Some feel there may be viral involvement. To my knowledge, the answer is not yet clarified.

DEAR DR. MILLER: He loves it so. Is there any harm in giving my parakeet a bite or two of canned asparagus spears? —E.V.

Dear E.V: No.

State offering pamphlet on consumer tips

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A pamphlet giving consumers tips on how to protect themselves against deceptive or fraudulent practices in the repair of electronic appliances has been issued by the state Consumer Affairs Department.

The pamphlet, titled "Consumer Guide to Repair Services for Electronic Equipment and Appliances," provides tips on appliance service and lists associations and organizations which might assist consumers in addition to suggestions on how to avoid being bilked.

The booklet also points out that the average cost of maintaining a color TV set in top condition could cost as much as $100 per year after the warranty expires.

It also says a quarter of all service calls would be unnecessary if plugs, fuses, pilots and controls were checked first.

The department Tuesday said copies were available in English and Spanish by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Repair Services Guide, Box 310, Sacramento, Calif. 95802.

Firm sees slowdown

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UPI) — Fuel shortages will force a slowdown or shutdown of some company facilities early next year, top officials of Weyerhaeuser Co. predicted here.

Harry Morgan, senior vice president for operations, said there will be "some kind of shutdown or slowdown in 1974" because the company will get only 72 per cent of the fuel it needs.

Neither he nor company president George Weyerhaeuser would predict what the fuel shortage would mean in terms of reduced employment for the Tacoma-based wood products firm, which employes 40,000 persons.

Both said, however, they believe the wood products industry might be able to regain some markets lost to aluminum and plastics, which require more power than wood products.

Weyerhaeuser said fuel allocation should take into consideration importance of industrial production and employment. He said the fuel operations, which employe about 2,400 persons.

Search for American MIAs in Indochina appears exhausted

BANGKOK (UPI) — Search teams will soon have exhausted the number of places where they can actively seek answers to the fate of American servicemen still missing in Indochina, officials said today.

This means that operations to locate air crash sites and conduct inquiries in other areas where more than 1,200 GIs are listed as missing will likely halt in the near future.

The two things standing in the way of further searches are continued fighting and lack of cooperation by the Communists in areas they control.

Searches for missing GIs are the responsibility of the Joint Casualty Resolution Center (JCRC), based at Thailand's remote Nakhon Phanom Air Base, which is also the nerve center for continued U.S. air activity in Southeast Asia.

The unit has several field teams made up of technical experts and U.S. Army special forces who are used to operating is inaccessible jungle areas. So far, the teams have recovered 28 bodies, all from areas of South Vietnam under Saigon's influence. Of these, positive identification has been made in 10 cases.

According to military sources here, the search teams soon will be out of business. In anticipation, the JCRC is already operating at about 15 per cent under its assigned manpower strength of about 175 men. However, officials say they could quickly bring in reinforcements from a special forces unit based on Okinawa if the situation changed rapidly.

The prospect for such a change in the near future is doubtful at best, according to informed military sources. Fighting is still going on in areas of Cambodia and South Vietnam where more than 400 GI's were reported missing.

North Vietnam, where about 430 American servicemen were missing during the years of U.S. involvement in the Indochina war, has so far refused to cooperate. The communists in Laos have also so far declined to help in finding out what happened to the approximately 360 men, most of them airmen, missing there.

However, officers said the JCRC has been successful in unearthing much previously unreported information about the missing GI's.

Much of the data has been provided by American prisoners returned by the Communists last spring. The JCRC has used a giant computer complex at Nakhon Phanom that once pinpointed bombing targets along the Ho Chi Minh supply route to cross-check and match up the accounts.

Based on this technique, officials said, it has been definitely established that 121 men previously listed as missing were killed.

Recommendations by the JCRC that the status of another 253 missing men be changed to killed in action as a result of the recent information have been stalled by a court case currently under way in New York in which a family of a missing man refused to accept the Defense Department's new judgement he was dead, military sources said.

Sparkling holiday punch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Make a sparkling holiday punch. Place a block of ice in your punch bowl. Add one fifth each of cognac, pale sherry, sauterne and two quarts of champagne. Sweeten with sugar or syrup. Garnish with thinly sliced lemons and limes and stir only enough to chill the punch quickly.

Too much stirring reduces the bubbles from the champagne.

FOR ALL YOU REALTORS WHO CALLED US INFLEXIBLE AND UNFRIENDLY, WE HAVE JUST ONE WORD.

It all started a few months ago when we asked our customers a few questions about their attitudes on title insurance in general and Title Insurance and Trust specifically.

Some of the answers shook us up a little.

Sure, our leadership was secure in terms of size, experience and technical resources. But mixed in with the praise were some disturbing comments.

Only few responses were critical. But enough to start us doing something about it.

First off we're opening fully staffed TI offices in the San Gabriel Valley, West Los Angeles, South Bay.

Next we placed greater emphasis on our title information service. And we know that added emphasis has been successful, because last month alone our title information center handled more than 12,000 requests from you.

And while we were processing those 12,000 requests for information, our radio-controlled messenger service made more than 25,000 pick-ups and deliveries. And that closed deals. And produced commissions.

And to those of you who brought that on by telling us we didn't care, we've got just one word. Thanks.

WE ASKED. WE LISTENED. WE'RE RESPONDING.

Ruskin maxim good advice

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Ruskin said, "The work of science is to substitute facts for appearances." Winning bridge players should follow Ruskin's maxim.

The eight of diamonds was played from dummy at trick one. East played the queen and South won with the ace.

It appeared certain that West held the ten of diamonds so South proceeded to draw trumps and lead a diamond toward dummy. When West followed low South stuck to the nine whereupon East proceeded to take his two diamond tricks.

If South had remembered Ruskin's dictum he would have cashed four clubs in order to get rid of one of his diamonds before playing that suit. Then he would come to his hand with a trump; lead a diamond; stick in dummy's nine; be a little upset when "dat old devil" East produced the ten, but not really damaged.

East would only be able to take one diamond trick and eventually South would take the heart finesse and make his contract.

South's precautionary measure of taking the diamond discard would have been unnecessary in view of the fact it appeared to be. It became necessary in viw of the fact that East, not West held the card.

AT GAMES: (Q.) I am in the high-school band and at games I can't sit with my girl friend. I think she is sitting with somebody else during that time.

Do you think if I asked her about it she would get mad? —Suspicious in South Carolina.

(A.) If it matters that much to you, ask her. It is much better to know the truth than to let suspicion gnaw at you.

Remember this, though: It is lonesome to go somewhere you are supposed to have fun and then sit all by yourself. Also: Unless you and she have a definite agreement not to do such things, she has a full right to do what you are afraid she is doing.

CUTTER: (Q.) What do you do about someone who goes around cutting everybody down? Right to their faces! She and I are in a group of girl friends, and she has a magnetic personality except for this one habit.

Everyone in our group has at one time or another mentioned this practice of hers, and still the cutdowns continue. —Victim in Virginia.

(A.) Perhaps your friend is a very honest individual who feels obligated to say what she thinks.

A magnetic personality can sometimes do things like this less painfully than an average human being.

Try to be tolerant. But if she is too obnoxious for you, make a decision that her friendship is not worth the bluntness it entails.

A PERFECT FIT

Dick Williams seems to like his new uniform after signing three-year contract to manage the New York Yankees. Now it remains to be seen what Oakland A's owner Charlie Finley does.

Walton, Burleson clash

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Last March 26 at the St. Louis Arena big Bill Walton did it all—sank 21-of-22 shots, pulled down 13 rebounds and scored a career high 44 points to lead the UCLA Bruins to their seventh straight NCAA basketball title.

Walton called the victory over Memphis state his greatest game. He was on top of the world—the foremost player on the team that had won a record 75 games in a row and had dominated college basketball for 10 years.

Saturday, the 6-foot-11 senior returns to the scene of the crime, but this time he'll have someone to look up to—7-4 Tommy Burleson, who will try to offset the UCLA power and lead the Wolfpack of North Carolina State to victory in the basketball battle of the year.

Burleson, 6-foot-4 forward David Thompson and little playmaker Monte Towe helped put together a 27-game winning streak for the Wolfpack last year but were kept from their dream showdown with the Bruins at the NCAA championship tournament because of recruiting violations.

After those finals UCLA agreed to meet North Carolina State at the neutral site midway between the two bastions of basketball power. A 78-game streak against a 29game streak—something has to give.

Wolfpack Coach Norm Sloan says he is ready for the big, bad Bruins, even though he hasn't scouted them in person. He watched on television as the Bruins scrambled for a onepoint victory, 65-64, over Maryland two weeks ago but was neither encouraged nor discouraged by the close game with the other top power in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

John Wooden, in his 26th year at the helm of the UCLA squad, said his Bruins shot poorly against the Terps and weren't able to put their pressing defense to good use.

Walton, smooth forward Keith Wilkes and Dave Meyers will lead the Bruins up front against the wide-open, free-wheeling, playground style of basketball that has become a North Carolina State trademark. Wooden hopes that backcourt man Greg Lee can use his uncanny sense of timing to feed Walton those basket-high lobs that Walton stuffed in against Memphis State last March and thwart any plans by Burleson to hamper Walton's style.

Sloan realizes the importance of the game, and both he and Wooden agree that the Wolfpack has more to gain than the Bruins—namely the top spot in the weekly ratings. "We're not saying anything," he said. "I look on it like a fun game, like a bowl."

Did Finley release Williams?

Baseball studies TV tapes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now it's baseball that may have a great tapes controversy.

The question at hand is did Oakland owner Charlie Finley verbally release Dick Williams from the final two years of his contract on national TV on Oct. 21?

That could become the legal issue if Finley decides to take the New York Yankees to court after they broke a two-month stalemate Thursday by signing Williams to a three-year contract as their manager.

Williams claims Finley released him on national TV shortly after the Oakland A's beat the New York Mets in the seventh game of the World Series. Finley disagrees.

The hassle might be decided by a court's interpretation of the video tapes of the short TV conversation. NBC-TV, which broadcast the series, has the video tapes of the exact conversation.

According to an NBC spokesman who checked the tapes, the conversation went like this:

Finley: "even though you're not going to be with us next year, I want to thank you for the great job you've done for the three years you've been with us."

Williams: "thank you Charlie very much and I'm going to miss not being with you but I've made a decision and I'm going to stay with it."

Did that conversation constitute a release by Finley? That could be up to the courts to settle.

Finley has threatened to sue if the Yanks signed Williams without giving him compensation. And he's rejected the offers the Yanks have made so far.

But at his LaPorte, Ind. home Thursday after he was notified of the Yankees' action, Finley refused to say what his next move will be. He said the Yanks, "decided to make a fast move" but added he'd "prefer to stay mum this time."

Of course, the whole issue still could be settled by negotiations without a court fight.

Joe Cronin, the American League president who refused to comment on the Yanks' action, has scheduled a meeting next Wednesday in Boston to try one more time to resolve the issue. Cronin also has a meeting on Tuesday on the Detroit-New York situation.

The Tigers became involved when they signed Ralph Houk, who resigned on the final day of the season as Yankee manager, as their manager in October. Once Finley refused to release Williams, the Yanks brought up the issue of Houk since he had two years left on his Yankee contract.

The Tigers point out they signed Houk even before Williams resigned and they insist they're not involved.

Both Williams and Gabe Paul, the Yankee president, refused to discuss the legal questions involved in the controversy.

"I feel in my mind I'm a free agent," Williams said, "I checked it out with my lawyer to make sure I was free to negotiate. I also talked with attorneys for the Yankees."

Asked why he felt he was a free agent, Williams said, "I can't answer that question. I don't care to discuss that now." Williams' attorney, John Remsen, also refused to comment. The Yankee attorneys also refused comment.

"Your job is to ask questions and my job is not to answer them," one attorney said.

Paul said, "those are legal matters and I'm not a lawyer. I can't answer legal questions. I've taken this step and I'll live with it."

Paul said he took the action because, "we have waited long enough. Our club felt it was in the best interests of the Yankees to sign Williams as its manager."

Williams said Paul first contacted him at his Florida home Friday night. Williams flew to New York Saturday for a preliminary conversation and then returned Wednesday to make the final agreement.

Williams said he had made no decisions on his coaching staff yet (his Oakland coaches still have a year left on their contracts) and hasn't really studied the team yet.

But he said, "there are two things I believe in, 100 per cent hustle or as they usually say now 110 per cent hustle and don't make mental mistakes. The club will be well versed in fundamentals. In fact, they'll be coming out of their ears."

PCAA title race for second place

By United Press International

That should be a great basketball race this season in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association—for second place.

Although Fresno State and UC Santa Barbara are unbeaten and Pacific has just lost one, the Long Beach State 49ers again have one of the nation's top teams.

The 49ers, rated 12th and apparently ready to move up, won at tough Canisius 94-82 Thursday with Roscoe Pondexter hitting 20 and Leonard Gray 18. Those two muscular veterans and Roscoe's 6-foot-8 freshman brother Clifton give the 49ers a front line that would be unbeatable in a street brawl and is nearly as tough on a court.

UC Santa Barbara, meanwhile, entertained Wyoming and made it 4-for-4 in a 91-67 romp with Greg Bell scoring 20. The Gauchos will find out if they're for real when they go against rugged Nevada-Las Vegas in their next game.

Fresno State watched a 20-point lead vanish but held on for a 57-55 win over Colorado State, its fifth without a setback. Charles Bailey was the whole show as he hit 29 for the winners.

But while the PCAA quintets roll impressively, WCAC favorite USF is having its problems.

The Dons saw their record fall to 1-3 with a 76-57 loss at eighth-ranked Providence although Phil Smith hit 18 for the Dons. But San Jose State, now 4-1, upheld WCAC prestige with a 92-66 win at South Dakota. Pete Miller and Eric Saulny scored 14 each for the Spartans, who hit 52 per cent of their shots.

One team that appears to be outgunned in the PCAA, San Diego State, saw its record slump to 1-3 with a 95-78 loss at Oral Roberts. John Anderson led the losers with 18.

Elsewhere, Mike Savage scored 24 to lead Redlands over Southern California College 67-60, 17th-ranked Arizona had trouble putting away Idaho 101-80, Northridge lost to Weber State 73-67 and San Francisco State fell at Youngstown 81-64 as freshman Anthony Mitchell had 40 for the hosts.

Portland State, led by Charles Channel's 18 second half points, downed Wheaton 84-73 and Pacific (Ore.) took Western Washington 72-62.

In games tonight, Santa Clara is at USC while Oregon and Washington are in the Jayhawk Classic in Lawrence, Kan.

Chuck Knox still gives usual advance warning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Chuck Knox, ostensibly secure with his Los Angeles Rams already assured of a playoff spot, still is sounding his usual pregame warning.

Knox will not talk about the Super Bowl but is concentrating on the Cleveland Browns, last regular season foe this Sunday at the Coliseum.

The Rams, 11-2, are champions of the NFC West and Knox wants to win one more for the best record in the history of the team. The best Ram record so far was in 1967, when Los Angeles was 11-1-2 under George Allen. Allen's 1969 team won its first 11 games, then dropped three.

"We want to beat Cleveland," said Knox Thursday. "That team has a lot of pride and great tradition. It doesn't matter whether they're in the race or not. We're going to have play topnotch football to beat them."

Knox will open with his usual starters which means John Hadl at quarterback, Harold Jackson and Jack Snow as wide receivers and up-front blockers such as Tom Mack and Charlie Cowan.

Running backs will be Jim Bertelsen and rookie Lawrence McCutcheon who has gained 1,014 yards, only the third Ram runner in history to go over one grand.

Against the Browns, he may top Dick Bass's club record of 1,090, needing only 76 to tie it.

Four NFL teams in do-or-die spot

By United Press International

On the final weekend of the National Football League's regular season, the situation for playoff berths is as simple as A, B, C and D.

Atlanta, Buffalo and Cleveland must win to remain in the running for wild card berths. Denver must win to gain their division title. If any of the four lose or tie they are out of the playoffs.

Five teams, however, would be willing to settle for a tie. If Cincinnati and Pittsburgh either win or tie they clinch playoff berths, one as the AFC Central champion, the other as the wild card entry. If both win, the Bengals are the division champs and the Steelers the wild card. If both tie, the Steelers are division winners and the Bengals are wild card.

Oakland will clinch the AFC West title with a victory or tie against Denver. Washington and Dallas, both with 9-4 records in the NFC East, can nail down playoff spots with victories or ties.

Only three teams—Minnesota (NFC Central), Los Angeles (NFC West) and Miami (AFC East)—have clinched division championships.

It's all so simple.

Saturday's matchups are Pittsburgh at San Francisco and Detroit at Miami. Sunday, Denver is at Oakland, Cincinnati is at Houston, New England is at Baltimore, San Diego is at Kansas City, Dallas is at St. Louis, Philadelphia is at Washington, Cleveland is at Los Angeles, New Orleans is at Atlanta, Buffalo is at the New York Jets, Minnesota is at the New York Giants and Green Bay is at Chicago.

Terry Bradshaw will be back in the starting quarterback slot for Pittsburgh after returning to the lineup last week and hitting 11 of 20 passes for 117 yards in the Steelers' 33-7 romp over Houston. Bradshaw had been out since Oct. 28 with a shoulder separation.

Two Miami backs, Mercury Morris and Larry Csonka will be attempting to break the 1,000-yard rushing mark against Detroit in a game that means nothing as far as the playoffs go. Morris, with 954 yards, will be trying for his second straight 1,000-yard season while Csonka will looking for his third straight.

But in the individual department Sunday, the focus will be on O.J. Simpson's attack against Jim Brown's season rushing record of 1,863 set in 1963. Simpson, who gained 219 yards last week in Buffalo's 37-13 triumph over New England, needs only 61 yards this week as the Bills hope to stay in contention against the New York Jets, who may be playing without Joe Namath.

Jim Sweeney to stay at Washington State

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State football coach Jim Sweeney will remain at WSU next season.

Sweeney, who just completed his sixth season at Washington State, had been mentioned in connection with coaching vacancies at New Mexico and Iowa.

"I have made my decision to stay at Washington State," Sweeney said Thursday. "My discussions with university officials, including President Glenn Terrell and Athletic Director Ray Nagel, have caused me to reevaluate my commitment to WSU.

"Foremost in this decision is my commitment to the goals which have inspired the present student athletes to enroll at WSU. The confidence displayed in our football program through good and bad times would be impossible to duplicate anywhere else.

"The projection of Cougar football is an optimistic one," Sweeney said. "Our staff has brought the program to a position of prominence in the athletic administration, and has given me great reinforcement for a sound projection."

Sweeney came to WSU from Montana State in 1968. He posted his best record in 1972, when he was 7-4. The Cougars were 5-6 last season when they played a schedule that included four teams that will be appearing in post-season bowl games.

Sweeney's sweeps of local rivals Oregon, Oregon State, Washington and Idaho the last two seasons was a first for WSU.

The Cougar coach and his family will leave for San Francisco where he will be the head coach for the West team in the East-West Shrine football game Dec. 29.

Temple City goes after fourth title tonight at MSAC

WALNUT — Temple City High, seeking its fourth consecutive CIF football championship, takes on North High of Riverside tonight at 8 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College in the 2-A football championship game.

The Rams, under head coach Robert Hitchcock, will enter the game tonight with an 11-1 record as compared to North's identical 11-1 mark.

Temple City will be led by running back Rick Brown, who was placed on the All-CIF team last year. The defending 2-A champions, who were the Rio Hondo League champions this year, were top-seeded again this season in 2-A competition.

In other games tonight, Monrovia seeks the 3-A title against Crescenta Valley at Ctirus College and Los Altos goes after the 4-A championship against Crespi at the Los Angeles Coliseum. All games at 8 p.m.

Imperial will host Paso Robles Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. for the 1-A championship.

Crescenta Valley was the team which defeated Pomona in the opening round of this year's playoff, 25-0, while North was the team which downed Royal Oak in the opening round, 34-14.

Los Altos will be going for its second consecutive CIF football title tonight. The Conquerors captured the 3-A title last year.

USES HIS HEAD — Rogie Vachon, goalie for the Los Angeles Kings, really 'uses his head' to prevent an Islander score Thursday night.

Widing paces Kings to win against N.Y.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Juha Widing got Los Angeles untracked with a second period goal, then assisted on Mike Corrigan's third period clincher Thursday night as the Kings posted a 3-2 win over the New York Islanders.

Widing, who became the Kings' all-time scoring leader Tuesday night, was playing only his second game since missing seven with a dislocated shoulder.

The blond center broke a scoreless tie with 6:48 gone in the middle period when he slapped a 35-footer past ex-King goalie Gerry Desjardins. The goal and assist gave Widing 217 points as a King.

Corrigan rebounded a Widing shot a minute and a half into the last period to score the second goal for the Kings. Then 1:42 later Frank St. Marseilles made it 3-0 when he took a perfect pass on a breakaway from Mike Murphy to ram in a five-footer, the decider.

Chicago Bulls' Dick Motta doesn't mind being behind

By United Press International

Dick Motta wasn't really worried. Well, maybe just a little.

The Chicago Bulls' coach saw his team trailing the Milwaukee Bucks 82-73 with 10 minutes left to play Thursday night.

"That's a little more than I like," said Motta. "Usually, I like my team to be down six points with six minutes left. I know it sounds funny but if you watch us at all you'll see we're a better team coming from behind."

Despite the nine point deficit, the Bulls rallied for a 97-94 victory before a sellout crowd of 10,938 at the Milwaukee Arena to extend their winning streak to six games and snap the Bucks' 10-game winning skein. The triumph also moved Chicago to within 1½ games of first place Milwaukee in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division.

In the only other game, Portland beat Phoenix 119-108.

"This was a big game for us because we're always second to Milwaukee," said Bulls' guard Jerry Sloan. "Everybody thinks they're better than we are except our guys. It'll give us a lift knowing we can beat them here in this madhouse."

Chet Walker led the Bulls in scoring with 26 points while Bob Love and Norm Van Lier each chipped in with 24. It was Sloan's field goal with 1:47 remaining that snapped a 92-92 tie and put Chicago in front for good.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar topped the Bucks with 23 points and Milwaukee coach Larry Costello expressed displeasure over his team's showing.

"I thought we lost our cool tonight, especially when they got the lead late in the game," said Costello. "We took some bad shots and we threw the ball away a couple of times."

Geoff Petrie scored 25 points, sinking 11 of 19 field goal attempts, and Sidney Wicks added 24 for Portland as the Trail Blazers retained sole possession of third place in the Pacific Division.

Charlie Scott paced the Suns with 32 points in the roughly played contest that saw five technical fouls called and the ejection of Portland center Rick Roberson. Roberson was tossed out in the third period after throwing a punch at Phoenix center Neal Walk. Walk returned later after treatment for a cut on his nose.

USC cagers open long home stand

LOS ANGELES — Bob Boyd's University of Southern California basketball team opens a four game "home stand" at the Sports Arena this weekend with games tonight and Saturday night against Santa Clara and Arizona State.

Both varsity games begin at 8 p.m. and will be preceded by junior varsity games at 5:45 p.m. Tonight's opponent for the Trojan jayvees is Cal State Northridge while Saturday's foe is Mira Costa College.

It's Trojan Tee Shirt Night on Saturday and all youngsters 16 and under will receive free Trojan Basketball Tee Shirts as they enter the Sports Arena.

The Trojans are 2-1 on the season after a split last week on the road, losing at Utah and winning at Illinois. Santa Clara is 2-1 and Arizona State has a 3-1 record, including a 71-66 win over Kansas State last weekend. The loss ended a 24-game home court win streak for the Sun Devils.

USC holds a 17-7 and 9-2 series advantage over their weekend opponents but lost their last two meetings with Santa Clara and their last bout with Arizona State.

"These are two fine opponents," said Boyd. "Santa Clara won 20 games last year and Arizona State 19 and both have some outstanding players returning."

Gus Williams continues to lead Trojan scorers through three games. The 6-2 junior guard has a 22 point per game average which was bolstered by a 16-point second half performance (22 for the game) against Illinois last Saturday. The Trojans came from behind to win 71-60.

Arizona State comes in with successive wins over Wichita State, Northern Arizona and Kansas State and is paced in scoring by 6-3 guard Lionel Hollins with a 17.3 point per game average.

Santa Clara is 2-1. Center Remel Diggs (6-8) paces Bronco scoring with a 19.5 point per game average while front liners Glenn Hubbard and Jerry Bellotti average 13.5 and 10.5 per game, respectively.

Frosh guard Vester Robinson, two-time All-Central Coast Player of the Year, has seen more action with each game and has upped his average to 10.5 in a substitute role.

Jimmy Heair wins on TKO

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jimmy Heair, No. 5 ranked lightweight, clubbed Nacho Castenada into submission with a series of rights to the head at 2:38 of the ninth round at Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Heair, a Los Angeles resident, had the Zacatacas, Mexico, fighter pinned against the ropes and helpless when referee George Latka called a halt. It was a scheduled 10-rounder.

Both fighters weighed 136. Heair has a 32-0 record with 15 knockouts. Castenada is 33-7.

It was a one-sided bout although there were no knockdowns. In the first fight between the pair last summer, Heair won a split decision.

Indians play four twinbills

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians will play 76 home dates next season, including four Sunday doubleheaders, 46 night and 18 afternoon games, it was announced today.

General Manager Phil Seghi said the Tribe would open the home campaign April 9.

Stags, 'Hens host NAIA cage rivals

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Local college basketball action is centered at the Claremont Colleges tonight.

Claremont-Mudd (2-4) hosts Azusa Pacific (4-2) while Pomona-Pitzer (3-2) takes on L.A. Baptist (4-1). The game are scheduled to start at 8:15 p.m.

The C-M-APC game is a rematch as the two met in the second round of the Redlands Tournament. The Cougars notched an 83-56 victory and went on to win the tournament while the Stags came back to take third place.

Last week was not a good one for either team. C-M was beaten by Cal Baptist. (The team they had defeated for third place at Redlands) and by Pt. Loma College. The losing streak reach three straight Tuesday night when Chapman College ended a 23-game losing string by beating the Stags 77-65.

Azusa Pacific was defeated, 77-68, at Whittier. The Cougars then went to San Luis Obispo for the Cal Poly SLO tourney and opened with a 73-71 win over the host school. But playing St. Mary's for the title Saturday night, the Cougars wound up on the short end of a long score, 95-56.

APC will have a decided advantage tonight in both experience and height. The Cougars will 6-8 Roger Cahoon, 6-9 Dennis Vanzant, and 6-7 Mike Leatherby in the front line with 6-2 Rick Reed and either Jeff Butler (5-9) or Stu Campbell (5-8) rounding out the five.

To offset that height as much as possible, Ted Ducey may start 6-8 freshman Dave Willhite at center. Kim Cheatum (6-5) would be paired with 6-5 George Glonka at forward.

In reserve would be 6-4 Ray Rotolo and 6-3 Marty Habern although either or both of them could start if Ducey chooses another alignment.

Norm Richards and either Dan Dominguez or Lane Burdick are likely to see most of the action in the backcourt. All are 6-2. Dominguez is a junior, the other two are sophomores.

Across campus at Pomona College's Memorial Gym, Les Nagler's young and enthusiastic team will be trying to win two straight for the first time this year.

Like the Stags, the Sagehens also will be at a height and experience disadvantage. The Mustangs will have 6-6 Kevin Cross at one forward. Cross scored 34 points last week the L.A. beat beat La Verne.

The center is 6-5½ Ron Collins. Available for the other forward position are 6-6 Kim Herbert, 6-6 Rod Corbin, 6-4 Dan Friesen or possibly 6-5 John Kregel who did not play against La Verne.

The guards (who did not look strong against the Leos) will probably be 6-1 Spencer Perkins and 5-9 Clevie Buckley.

If the 'Hens play like they did the first half against Southern California College, they'll win. If they play like they did the second half against SCC, they'll lose.

Claremont broke the game open early behind the hot shooting of Forward Reggie Goldsmith.

Goldsmith could not miss as he connected on eight-of-eight from the field in the first half staking his team to a commanding 48-26 halftime lead.

The Wolfpack was on top at the end of the first quarter 22-11, thanks to some outstanding team shooting, 11 of 19 from the field.

The Cavlaiers could not generate any offensive punch as they shot a miserable 20 per cent, three of 15.

The entire first half saw Claremont hit the boards and come up with some easy shots.

Center Bruce Abraham and Goldsmith led the Claremont charge against the boards that put the Cavaliers out of the contest.

Montclair's bright spot was guard Jerard Bryant who provide some acrobatic shots that livended up the action.

Bryant finished with 11 points for the night.

Both teams started to substitute freely midway through the second quarter, and this move provided some wild shooting.

The second half saw more of what was present in the first half with Claremont still control-ling the game.

John Douglass, who came in as a substitute for Claremont, played outstanding, scoring 11 points.

With the wild running and shooting, both teams spent a lot of the night at the foul line.

The Cavaliers were good on 10 of 29 attempts, while the Wolfpack hit an impressive 19 of 26 from the charity line.

Another impressive performance was turned in by Claremont's Rob Fossum who as a sub chipped in with 13 points and controlled the boards with his outstanding jumping ability.

Montclair will now face Royal Oak, who lost to Azusa 63-46, for the third place title Friday night at Azusa at 7:00 p.m.

The Claremont Wolfpack will move into the Championship finals against Azusa, which will be played at Azusa at 8:30 Friday night.

Chino, 'Cats shooting for tourney titles

By SCOTT POINDEXTER
P-B Correspondent

WEST COVINA—Close would be the one word to sum up the action in the second day of play at the Edgewood Tournament, Thursday afternoon and evening.

San Dimas was nipped by one point as it lost to the Workman Lobos, 45-44. Bonita won its first victory, to match last year's win column, 77-75 over La Puente, on a basket by highscoring forward Harold Drake. West Covina held on to defeat the Wilson Wildcats 55-51. And in the only romp of the night, the Chino Cowboys stopped Edgewood for a 60-50 win.

EDGEWOOD TOURNAMENT
Workman 45, San Dimas 44
Bonita 77, La Puente 75
Chino 60, Edgewood 50
West Covina 55, LP Wilson 51
Tonight's games
Consolation title
Bonita vs. Workman, 5 p.m.
Third place
Edgewood vs. LP Wilson, 7 p.m.
Championship
Chino vs. West Covina, 8:30 p.m.

Drake scored 33 points to lead all scorers in all of the contests played, which helped to give the Bearcats the same number of wins this year as they had all last year, (1-2-3). Drake was ably assisted by Scott Johnson with 22 and Steve Hines with 12.

It was a typical see-saw battle until the very end. After one period the Warriors of La Puente led 25-21, halftime Bonita, 42-35, third quarter LP 62-55, Final 77-75.

In the two games for the Bearcats, Drake had 50 points and Johnson 43.

San Dimas made it close, but Workman stalled for the last three minutes. The Saints' two big scorers were Greg McCrary (18) and Bobby Childress with 14. San Dimas was held to only six points in the third quarter and yet held Workman to nine in the fourth period.

George Gonzales led the Lobos with 22 points.

Finally, in big game of the night, the Cowboys came up with a big performance to beat the Edgewood Trojans, but it might turn out to be a Pyrrhic victory as Mike Coppess and Tim Smith might be out with leg injuries.

Smith had to leave the game in the fourth quarter with the Cowboys ahead by 10, and Chino saw that lead cut to just four points with 1:25 left to play. But a strong last minute finish by Mark Milton and Manuel Delgado pulled it out and even got the 10 back.

Smith had 20 points and nine rebounds to lead the Cowboys in both categories yet finished second to Jeff Cook of the Trojans who finished with 26 points and 11 rebounds.

Tonight finds Bonita going for the Consolation crown against Workman at 5 p.m., Edgewood against Wilson for third place at 7 p.m. and then No. 1 will be either Chino or West Covina, action starting at 8:30.

Chaffey bows from tournament

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

ALTA LOMA — Host Chaffey College, the lone Pomona Valley entry remaining in contention for the championship, bowed to El Camino Thursday night in quarterfinals of the Chaffey Invitational.

The Panthers blew a 12-point lead early in the first half as surprising El Camino surged to a 40-33 halftime advantage enroute to a 76-66 victory.

Orange Coast 89, Fullerton 74
Harbor 88, Riverside 86 (2 ot)
Mesa 74, Glendale 68

San Bernardino 74, Citrus 70
L. A. Valley 71, Golden West 67
Grossmont 88, Pasadena 69
Today's games
Championship semis
El Camino vs. Orange Coast, 9 p.m.
Harbor vs. Mesa, 7 p.m.
Consolation semis
Valley vs. San Bernardino, 5 p.m.
Grossmont vs. East L. A., 3 p.m.

The Warriors will face Orange Coast in one championship semifinal game tonight at 9 p.m. Defending champion L.A. Harbor meets San Diego Mesa in the other semifinal contest at 7 p.m.

Orange Coast ran its record to 7-2 by upsetting co-favortie Fullerton, 89-74. Co-favorite L.A. Harbor's (8-1) disposed of Riverside, 88-86 in double overtime, and Mesa outlasted Glendale, 74-68.

On the consolation side, both Mt. San Antonio and Citrus were eliminated from further competition by losing their second tourney games in a row.

The Mounties fell to East L.A. 91-73 in an early morning game, and the Owls dropped a 74-70 decision to San Bernardino.

East L.A. faced Grossmont at 3 p.m. this afternoon and San Bernardino played L.A. Valley at 5 p.m. in the consolation semifinals. Grossmont handed Pasadena an 88-69 setback, and Valley bounced Golden West, 71-67, Thursday.

Chaffey waltzed into what looked like a commanding, 20-8 advantage early in the first half against El Camino, but failed to handle the Warriors' full court press.

El Camino pulled to a 26-26 tie with 6:02 remaining and then busted into a 38-29 lead by outscoring the Panthers, 12-0.

The Warriors controlled the tempo of the contest in the second half and built 16-point leads twice before Chaffey rallied at the end.

Center Rusty Smith led El Camino's attack with 26 points and 14 rebounds, while forward Ralph Davis added 20 points—16 in the first half surge.

Guard Pierre Rankin led the Panthers with 23 points, and forward Bob Kovach tallied 16 and pulled down 14 rebounds.

The victory put El Camino only a game over .500 for the season at 6-5, while Chaffey dipped to 5-3 for the year.

MSAC dropped its ninth game in 11 outings to East L.A., setting up a rematch next Wednesday night in a single game at the Mountie gym.

In recent years the MSAC-East L.A. match-up has been a pivotal encounter for both teams. Two years ago, the Mounties used a victory over the Huskies to start a 10-game winning streak enroute to a fine 18-9 season.

Last year East L.A. routed the Mounties enroute to a Southern California Conference championship and fourth place in the state tournament.

Center San Jiminez led the way for the Huskies Thursday with 26 points. Mike Jones added 19 points and Joe Sims tallied 10.

Mountie center Gary Nash played to early season form with 25 points, and freshman forward Gary Melugin added 11. Melugin has been the most pleasant surprise of an unpleasant season so far.

A Ganesha High product, Melugin has scored in double figures in each of his four starts to date.

Citrus went to the wire with San Bernardino before dropping its sixth game in eight contests.

Guard Roy Hickman's 19 points led the point parade for both teams, but balanced scoring by the Indians proved to be the difference.

Quarry, Shavers eye shot at title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerry Quarry and Earnie Shavers meet tonight in a scheduled 12-round heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden, but few believe that the bell will ever ring for that final round.

For both 28-year-olds, it is the biggest match of their lives, for sitting at ringside will be champion George Foreman, who almost has to defend his crown against the winner—for a gate of $1 million.

Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner was huddling with Foreman throughout the day, trying to get the reluctant Foreman, who has defended only once and that against one Joe Roman in Tokyo, to agree to face the Quarry-Shavers winner in the Garden in early March.

Quarry won a clear-cut verdict over Ron Lyle in the Garden in February, and has had only six rounds of ring work since then, putting away James J. Woody in two rounds in August, and Tony Doyle in four two weeks later in Los Angeles.

The native Californian, however, has lost the big ones—twice to Muhammad Ali, and once each to Joe Frazier and Jimmyy Ellis.

Shavers, with one big punch, leaped into title contention by knocking out Ellis in 2:39 of the first round here on June 18, after Ellis had apparently had the Warren, Ohio native, in trouble in the first two minutes.

A Shavers-Quarry match was made immediately, but then Jeff Merritt, a stablemate of Earnie's, broke Shavers' jaw in training. The bout had been scheduled for July, but has been delayed until now while Shavers' jaw healed.

The sparring session in which Merritt did the damage had been authorized by Archie Moore, who had worked Shavers' corner for the Ellis fight, and manager Don King promptly dismissed the old mongoose.

Shavers' record is now 46-2-0, with 45 victories coming by either knockouts or tkos, while Quarry is 47-6-4, with 28 knockouts.

A comparison, however, of the Ellis who beat Quarry over 15 rounds in December, 1968, and the Ellis bombed out by Shavers is hardly valid, since Ellis in his last outing on Wednesday lost to Boone Kirkman.

Ali and Frazier are both expected to be at ringside tonight, watching intently. They are preparing for their own rematch, slated for Jan. 28 in the Garden, with the winner all but sure to get one more shot at the crown each has worn.

"I don't know what I have to do to get Foreman to agree to a million dollar deal," Brenner said Thursday. "Who has to think about a million dollars?"

Shavers and Quarry are thinking about it, for two. The Garden expects about 15,000 tonight, paying over $200,000. Earnie will get $40,000 against 27½ per cent, and Jerry $60,000 against 30 percent. Peanuts compared to what the winner would get against Foreman.

Anaheim shows TV fight

ANAHEIM — Tonight's closed circuit television boxing show at the Anaheim Convention Center will start 6:30 p.m., with the light heavyweight 10-rounder between Andy Kendall of Portland, Oregon, and Argentina's Jorge Ahumada.

Scheduled at 7:30 is Jerry Quarry against Earnie Shavers in their 12-round heavyweight elimination.

The double header comes direct from ringside in New York's Madison Square Garden and will be telecast in color.

Kendall is a veteran campaigner who recently defeated Mike Quarry. Ahumada is undefeated and hails from Buenos Aires.

The winner of the Quarry-Shavers puncher's duel is expected to land a title match with George Foreman.

Tickets for the Anaheim fight program are priced at $7.50 and $5 and are on sale at the Convention Center box office, The Forum and all Ticketron agencies.

Prep roundup

Everybody posts tourney victories

Tournament play seemed to agree with the local basketball fives Thursday, as four of the Valley's high schools posted wins.

Garey blasted host Garden Grove in the Garden Grove Tourney by a 74-49 score, Walnut edged South Pasadena 77-73 in the Temple City Tourney, while in the Western Christian Tourney Webb dumped Huntington Valley Christian, 70-40.

Garey rode a record-shattering 38-point effort by Bill Evans to its' win over Garden Grove. The 38 points by guard Evans set a new tournament record.

The Vikings were ahead by only 36-28 at the half but led by Evans ran away from the Argonauts in the second half. Evans has now scored 56 points in two tourney games, as he hit for 20 in the Vikings 64-61 loss to Los Amigos on Wednesday.

Gary Carpenter continued his steady play for the Vikes as he had 12 points, while Jerry Loftis added 10. Jim Mitko led Garden Grove scoring with 19 points, while guard Bill Johnson, who had 32 points Wednesday against Rubidoux, was held to 13 by the tough Garey defense.

Garey will meet Muir tonight at 5 p.m. for the consolation title in the tourney.

Walnut received another fine effort from forward Kirk Christ in positing the narrow win over South Pasadena in Temple City Tourney play. Christ in posting the narrow of those in the final quarter after South Pasadena had taken an eight-point advantage.

The Mustangs, bouncing back from a 77-71 loss to tough La Canada on Wednesday and the loss of starting forward Gary Case with a disolocated thumb, fought back from several deficits to down South Pasadena.

Marcello Maurin had 13 points for Walnut, while reserve Cliff Manning came off the bench to toss in nine more. Jim Mapyas led South Pasadena scoring with 24 points.

The Mustangs will now play Temple City this afternoon for the consolation title.

Webb posted its' first win of the year at the expense of Huntington Valley Christian in the opening of the Western Christian Tourney. Huntington Valley actually led by a 27-24 margin at the midway point of the third quarter but Webb reeled off 12 unanswered points and won going away, 50-34.

Forward Bob Wright led the charge with 16 points for the Gauls, while subs Mark Wilson and Doug Seaborne had seven and eight points respectively. Bob Stwalley led the Huntington Valley hoopsters with 10 points.

Webb will go against Ontario Christian, an impressive 102-55 victor over Montclair Prep, tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the championship bracket.

Western Christian had an easy time of it against Pacific Christian, outscoring the visitors by a shocking 22-2 first quarter margin.

Norm Moline tallied 19, Sam Shuemaker 18, and Bruce Sider 14 to lead a blanced Western attack. Moline also added several steals on defense to aid the Lancer cause.

Jim Bergherm's 17-point-effort was the only high spot for Pacific.

Top offenses on display in Camellia

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Louisiana Tech and Western Kentucky—both featuring highscoring offenses—will meet Saturday for the NCAA Division II national championship in the Camellia Bowl game.

The Hilltoppers from Kentucky went undefeated in 12 games this season, including a 28-20 win over Grambling last Saturday to qualify for the nationally televised title game. Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs, 12-1, advanced to the Camellia Bowl with a last-minute 38-34 victory over Boise State.

Western Kentucky, which averaged 33 points per game, is led offensively by running back Clarence Jackson, quarterback Dennis Tomek and wide receiver Porter Williams.

Jackson rushed for 786 yards on 143 carries during the regular 10-game season while Tomek passed for nine touchdowns and Porter caught 45 passes, including 10 for touchdowns.

The Bulldogs' attack, which produced 26 points a game, is spearheaded by quarterback Denny Duron, running back Charles "Quick Six" McDaniels, and wide receiver Roger Carr.

During regular season play, Duran connected on 93-of-199 passes for 1,607 yards and 13 touchdowns. McDaniels carried the ball 123 times for 690 yards and nine touchdowns.

A unique procedure has been set up to decide the game if the teams are tied at the end of regulation play.

The team winning a coin toss will be given the ball on the opponents' 15 yard line with the opportunity to kick a field goal or score a touchdown. Then, the other team will be given an equal chance to score. If the tie still isn't broken, the procedure would be repeated until one team prevails.

Eighth grader has big season

WALNUT — David Mendoza and his Suzanne Intermediate School cross country team enjoyed undefeated seasons.

Mendoza, an eight grader, took top honors in the Azusa Invitational, San Gabriel Invitational, Brea Invitational and MSAC Invitational.

As a seventh grader at Suzanne, he set school track records in the 1320 (3:46.4) and mile (5:14).

Devils win, but Highlanders fall

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

CORONA — Pat Westerbeck scored all four of his points in the third overtime to give El Modena a 78-75 win over Upland in a whistle-happy semi-final game of the 9th Annual Corona-Norco Basketball Tournament at Norco High Thursday night. Pomona edged Cajon 42-37 in an earlier game at Corona High.

Pomona played North, a 61-54 winner over Norco, this afternoon while Upland battles Alta Loma at 4:45 p.m. for third place. Redlands plays Colton for the consolation at 6:30 p.m. with Corona and El Modena squaring off at 8 p.m. for the crown.

Reserve guard Mark Sorenson broke a 74-74 deadlock with a free throw with 2:43 left in the third overtime period for the Scots.

Westerbeck put the Vanguards back on top, 76-75, on a layup with 1:03 remaining. The Highlanders then missed five charity tosses in one-and-one situations before Westerbeck added another bucket with 13 seconds left to ice the game.

A total of 49 fouls were called in the game with seven players exiting via personals, four for El Modena and three for Upland.

Both teams utilized full court presses, forcing numerous turnovers, which resulted in fast breaks when the offensive team could get the ball down court.

The Highlanders were guilty of nine turnovers in the first quarter and missed five of nine free throws but only trailed 20-14 in a period that saw the lead change hands three times and the game tied on four other occasions.

The missed charities turned out to be an omen as the Scots made only 16 of 34 from the foul line while the Vanguards made 20 of 25.

The teams played even in the second period when Upland began to whittle away the deficit and tied the game 35-all on Sorenson's free throw with 42 seconds left in the half. Johnson led all scorers at intermission with 12 points.

The Vanguards maintained a five point advantage throughout most of the third period but the Scots cut into the margin and tied the game at 54-54 after 24 minutes of play.

Orien Ogg played an impressive three quarters scoring 16 points, eight of those on tip-ins, and grabbing five rebounds. Johnson had 19 points.

The Scots scored the first six points of the fourth quarter but El Modena fought back to tie the game at 64-all with 3:53 left. Joe Orzeck and Sorenson gave the Scots a two point lead, each adding a singleton, with remaining.

The teams traded pairs of three throws with Upland holding its two point lead with 1:28 to play.

Scott Bigler's free throws with 50 seconds left tied the game at 68-68 and sent the game into overtime.

Johnson gave El Modena a pair of field goals and a 72-68 lead but Matusewicz and Ogg retaliated to tie the game at 72, sending the gams into the second three minute stanza.

Mike Monroe tipped in a missed-Ogg shot to give the Highlanders a 74-72 lead with 1:59 left only to have Johnson, who finished the game with 27 points and 13 rebounds, tie the game at 74-all with 1:30 left and send the game into the final overtime period.

Bigler finished with 14 points while Craig Wood added 12 to aid El Modena, who finished runnerup to Murphy in the 3-A CIF playoffs last year.

Ogg led Upland, now 5-2 on the year, with 20 points while Curt Oldenkamp and Matusewicz added 17 points each. Stu DuVall chipped in 12 points.

"We're tired," assessed coach Ed Taylor after Pomona had beaten Cajon. "We've played three games in a row like this one. We need a rest after the four games in the Upland-Montclair Tournament and these four games, that'll be eight games in 11 days.

Ed's Taylor-made Devils shot just 31.6 per cent from the floor, hitting just 19 of 60 attempts, Thursday night while winning.

Pomona, which won the tournament last year, outscored Cajon 13-9 in the first quarter and widened its lead to 25-19 at the half. The Devils sat on their six point cushion over the final 16 minutes in notching their fifth win in eight outings.

The first period set the pace as neither team could take advantage of its forte.

The Cowboys played a deliberate type of offense, working the ball inside to their post men while Pomona tried to out run its slower opponents.

The Devils never trailed in the game but they never got any momentum which Taylor feels is important.

"I don't want us to get momentum to early in a game. Once that momentum dies you can't get it back," said Taylor. "But we never got it going tonight."

Pomona outscored Cajon, 12-10, in the second quarter as Mike Yarborough scored eight of the teams' output while the Cowboys' Jim Williams had six of their 10 points.

The Devils, still nursing the six point lead, were forced to slow down the pace when Yarborough, Jerome Holliman and John Wieman had to leave the game because of fouls problems over the final three minutes of the quarter. Pomona still lead 34-28.

The Cowboys pulled to a 36-31 deficit with 3:13 left when two straight Pomona baskets iced the contest.

Williams finished the game with 20 points and 12 rebounds while Yarborough had 17 points and nine caroms. Yarborough has scored 48 points in the tournament after three games.

Sports news in brief

CESAR CEDENO will almost certainly miss spring training with the Houston Astros and may not even free himself from his legal entanglement in the Dominican Republic until well into the 1974 baseball season, criminal lawyers were predicting today.

Cedeno, 22, is charged with "voluntary manslaughter" in the Tuesday dawn motel slaying of a 19-year-old girl, Altagracia De La Cruz.

THE NEW WORLD Football League officially got started Thursday when its founder, Gary L. Davidson, presented the league's first franchises to Detroit and promised the league would start play next fall.

Although the Detroit team has no name, no players, no coach and no place to play, there were no snickers when the news was announced.

TOM CAHILL, a nice guy who's also smart enough to know "If you coach long enough you get fired," is out of a job as Army football coach today in another sad example of "What have you done for me lately?"

Cahill, who in his first season at Army in 1966 was named National Coach of the Year, saw his fortunes turn sour this past season as the Cadets sank to the lowest ebb of their 84-year history, 0-10, including an all-important 51-0 loss to Navy.

JIM WEAVER, Iowa State offensive coordinator, was named the new head football coach at Villanova University Thursday.

Weaver, 28, a former Penn State lineman, succeeds Lou Ferry, who stepped down to assisstant coach following the Wildcats' disappointing 3-8 season.

SAN DIEGO CHARGERS' owner Eugene Klein visited Arizona State football practice Thursday and reportedly requested a meeting with coach Frank Kush, mentioned as a candidate for the Chargers' coaching post.

It was not learned whether Klein and Kush actually discussed the matter.

EAST CAROLINA University officials will name Pat Dye, an assistant under Alabama coach Bear Bryant for eight years, to the head football coaching job today.

MARK HARMON from UCLA and Jesse Freitas of San Diego State were named as the quarterbacks for the Lions American Bowl All-Star football Game Jan. 6. Harmon will call the signals for the North team, while Freitas will quarterback the South.

Coaches pick top harriers

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College has awarded its annual All-Valley Leather Lung awards to the top high school cross country runners this year in its district.

The winner are selected by the prep coaches in the district.

Ray Wicksell of West Covina won the Senior honor. Other winners by class are: Junior — Cip Gomez of Workman; Sophomore-Joe Ebiner of Bishop Amat; and Freshman — Dave Duncan of West Covina.

Among those winning honorable mention are Chris Charles of Rowland, Mike Cladera of Rowland, Kevin Kellogg of San Dimas and Barry Boettcher of Pomona.

Phil Ryan, former Cal Poly tracksters, was voted Coach of the Year for buiding Bishop Amat to the CIF 2-A championship.

San Diego's Freitas paces PCAA team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback Jesse Freitas, the nation's leading passer and the Pacific Coast Athletic Association's offensive player of the year, led 10 other San Diego State players selected today to the PCAA's all-star squad.

San Jose State finished with six representatives and Pacific had four, including lineman Larry Bailey as the PCAA's defensive player of the year.

The team was selected by the conference head coaches.

Freitas, a 6-1, 190-pound senior from San Mateo, guided the Aztecs to a 9-1-1 mark and its second consecutive conference championship this year.

Bailey is a 6-4, 250-pound senior from East Palo Alto.

Aztecs selected to the first team were Freitas; wide receiver Keith Denson; center Dave Limebrook; guard Tony Bachmann; tackle Claudie Minor; tight end Darold Nogle; defensive lineman Rick Ashe; linebackers Joe Amaral, Pat Cassady, and Bobby Henderson; and defensive back Monte Jackson.

San Jose was represented by wide receivers Ike McBee, Jim Ruiz, running back Larry Lloyd, defensive lineman Dave Washick, linebacker Carl Ekern and defensive back Clay Jackson.

Others chosen were guard Willie Vinney, running back Willard Harrell, defensive back Steve Capozzo, and Bailey, all of Pacific; and Craig Holworthy of the specialty teams and defensive lineman Dwayne Westphal, both of Fresno State.

San Jose, which had its first winning season since 1961 with a 5-4-2 mark, and Long Beach State both placed six men on the PCAA second-team selections. San Diego State had five and was followed by Pacific with four and Fresno State, two.

Holiday expressed many ways

More than any other holiday, Christmas has a unique quality that sets it outside national, temporal and religious boundaries joining young and old, rich and poor, mighty and humble with its spirit of love and generosity, friendship and goodwill.

The spirit of Christmas finds expression in many ways — in happy family reunions, in cheery Christmas cards, in trees and holiday decorations, in generous gestures to the less fortunate.

There is a special joy in Christmas gifting that has little to do with practicality. It is most aptly characterized in the widely known carol "The Twelve Days of Christmas" which describes an enchantingly impractical list of Christmas gifts from a "true love" beginning with a partridge in a pear tree on the first day of Christmas and ending on the 12th day with a gift of 12 pipers playing — all gifts calculated to bring joy and delight.

In planning for Christmas this year why not select gifts that will make hearts sing and spirits soar. For the little ones, a magical musical toy, a colorful kaleidoscope, a cuddly kitten. For the older ones a volume of poetry, an album of favorite music, a collection of perfume.

Long a Christmas gift tradition, fine perfume has the power to stir emotions and evoke cherished memories long after the mistletoe is taken down.

Jack-rabbit starts are no way to stretch your gasoline supply.

Project DETOUR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Project DETOUR is San Antonio's way of encouraging people in trouble for minor crimes to find a way out of their circumstances. The program, funded by the U.S. Department of Labor, helps the misguided caught between trouble and trial to find jobs and avoid future arrest.

Need money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the 33 million women who work outside the home do so for economic reasons, reports the Women's Bureau, the U.S. Department of Labor.

Most work, not "solely for personal fulfillment," but to raise family living standards above the low income or poverty level, to help meet the rising costs of food, education of the children, medical care and the like, says the bureau.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Aging without senility

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm 80 years old and not senile, which seems to shock almost everyone I meet. Everyone always tries to railroad me into doing things I don't want to do and that bothers me more than almost anything else. Yet it's hard to make people understand that being old doesn't necessarily mean being stupid and helpless. It's not that I want people to bow down to me. I just want them not to treat me like an idiot.

I'm complaining to you because I don't want to hurt the feelings of my children and grandchildren. I find there's a lot of prejudice about old people and it makes me mad. My children are very kind and considerate, but I'd like very much to go to Florida because I want to see some old friends who are now in their 70s and still quite healthy. I've mentioned this to my son and he tthinks it's foolish and his wife seems to feel that my wanting to take this trip means I want to get away from them. — A. R.

Dear A. R.: It seems to me that at this time in your life, you should be able to be free and to have less responsibility to my son and he thinks it's son and his wife mean well and have your best interests at heart, but don't hesitate to explain your wishes to them and then follow your own desires.

The longer you can maintain your independence the better off you will be. This doesn't mean we don't need and want love and affection from family and friends, but we have to protect ourselves from being smothered by this love. Adults, as well as children, can be overprotected. Those who cope best with old age are people who see themselves as masters of their fate and who feel that they have some control over their lives.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding and prejudice against the elderly who, as I'm sure you know, are often saddled with unflattering stereotypes. Actually, no group of people shows as many interpersonal differences as the aged, according to psychologist Peter Naus of Notre Dame University. Their thinking can be kept up to date through reading and through contacts with younger people, who in turn can benefit and better prepare for their own later years.

It would probably do you a great deal of good to see your friends and when you return you may well find that your relationship with your son and his family seems better because you've had the opportunity to refresh yourself and have a change of atmosphere.

At any age, it is most important that a person learn to express views honestly and to learn to reject what he doesn't desire. It is difficult to learn to say "no" but unless one is free to express what he doesn't want, then he has no independence. What frequently happens is that the individual becomes angry at himself for not saying what he really feels and for allowing himself to be "railroaded" into situations that he wouldn't choose were his own boss. Anytime emotions are turned inward there is bound to be a bad effect. Sometimes we anticipate that we will hurt or anger another if we express our true feelings.But if done in the right way, the other person will understand and lend a sympathetic ear.

Your relationship with your family will improve if you gently, but firmly, make your wishes known. Let them know you appreciate, love and respect them but that you want and expect to have some freedom of choice even though you're sharing many things with them.

Assisting the hostess will be Betty Duesenberry, Geri Bridenbaugh, Ann Finn and Sue Fishbaugh. The evening will feature an hors d'oeuvres, dips and chip buffet.

In turn with today's ecology interest is the Garden Gel Greenhouse. It provides a happy but dirt-free way to introduce children to gardens.

The batterers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Studies on child battering have shown that a higher number of abusing parents come from lower socio-economic levels. In such families, according to social scientists at the University of Michigan, there tend to be unstable marriages, social isolation, and mobility and unemployment.

Such factors are assumed to increase stress within family groups. Such factors also exhaust one's psychological resources and precipitate uncontrolled assault.

THUGS KILL L.A. DEPUTY

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sheriff's deputy David Andrews, one of four brothers in city law enforcement agencies, was shot and killed by a group of thugs Wednesday night at a south central Los Angeles gas station.

Authorities said the 23-year-old, off-duty officer was shot five or six times in the head and back at the station's restroom.

A witness told investigators that Andrews, who was not in uniform at the time, made a telephone call just before going into the restroom.

Moments later shots were heard and two or three gunmen quickly ducked out the station's rear door and disappeared in the darkness. Andrews' wallet was not missing and authorities said they have no motive for the killing.

The deputy has two other brothers in the sheriff's department and a third with the Los Angeles Police Department.

Consumption of gasoline not changed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Shutting down gas stations on Sundays has not reduced consumption because drivers just buy more on Friday, Saturday and Monday, oil companies and station owners say.

"Our total volume hasn't changed," according to George Williams, president of Lerner Oil Co., which operates 109 stations in Southern California. Sales are twice as high on Friday and Saturday, he said.

Standard Oil of California, the state's largest gasoline seller, said that increased Saturday sales made up for the absence of Sunday sales. Union Oil reported a "definite increase in the tendency to buy gas on Saturdays and Sundays."

he Los Angeles Times said a survey of station managers found that some are happy because the Sunday closure reduces salary and other costs, gives them a day off, all at no reduction in sales.

Florida isn't just beaches

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI) — Florida ranks 12th in the nation in agriculture production and is also the fastest growing agricultural state in the nation. It has 30,479 farms, representing a total capital investment of more than $8 billion. Florida's gross agricultural product brought $2 billion to farmers but retailed for $6 billion.

Chrysler to lay off 2,100

DETROIT (UPI) — The Chrysler Corp. Wednesday said 2,100 workers at two large assembly plants will be laid off beginning in early January, in part because of the energy shortage.

A spokesman said workers at the Jefferson Avenue assembly plant in Detroit and the Belvidere, Ill., assembly plant will be out of work because of the lessening demand for big cars, which appears to be pushing the nation's automakers into a slow transition period before they can begin turning out more smaller cars.

Chrysler also announced that extended furloughs would be given to 10,400 more workers at the two plants so as to "balance inventories."

The workers had originally been told not to show up for work from Jan. 4-6. The extended layoffs will last five more days, with the workers scheduled to return Jan. 12.

The temporary layoff affects some 5,400 workers at the Detroit plant and 5,000 workers at the Belvidere facility. The extended layoffs will put 1,700 workers at the Detroit plant out of jobs while 400 will be affected at Belvidere.

The daily production at the Jefferson Assembly Plant will be slashed from 960 units to 640, while Belvidere will drop from 960 units to 880.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to begin several things today without completing any to your satisfaction. Try to finish what you start.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll attempt to buy a good time today. Later, you'll regret the fact that you spent so much to have such little fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Family members will find you difficult to get along with today. You won't know what you want; they won't know how best to please you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you're going to be very finicky about whose company you'll enjoy. Avoid gabby, nervous types. They'll turn you off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your group or an organization that you belong to has some plans of which you are unaware. They'll cost you a little extra.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Weigh your words carefully today. Others will keep track of what you say and hold you to it later. Above all, don't fib.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your imagination tends to drift toward the negative. Small fears and doubts will be given more relevance than deserved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't participate in anything today that you feel you couldn't do openly without embarrassment. You won't get away with being tricky.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Avoid over the next few days consorting with persons who could damage your reputation. You're being judged by the company you keep.

Your ambitions will come to the four this year and new goals will be set. Attainment will be reachable, but persistence is required.

He paid for selfishness

HARPENDEN, England (UPI) — Trying to keep his tank full during the oil crisis cost a motorist $2.50 tor five cents worth of gasoline.

Garage owner Lou Oggelsby said he had imposed a $2.50 minimum on all sales to discourage drivers trying to keep "topped up" during the crisis.

"It serves him right," said Oggelsby of the man whose tank needed just five cents worth. "He asked for his money back, he claimed his petrol gauge was broken. We told him it was his own fault for being so selfish."

Woman's looks decides penalty in certain crimes

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — A physically attractive woman may have a greater chance of receiving a lighter sentence for a criminal conviction if she doesn't use her beauty to perpetuate the crime, a college professor has concluded.

Dr. Harold Sigall, associate professor of Psychology at the University of Maryland, said he selected a mock jury of 60 male and 60 female undergraduate students and tested each for decisions on two hypothetical court cases involving a "Miss Helm."

A third was given a photograph of an attractive "Miss Helm" and an equal number were given a photograph of a less attractive woman. The remaining participants did not receive a picture.

The jurors gave the attractive, "Miss Helm" a sentence ranging 2.8 years in a case involving burglary, while the less attractive woman was sentenced to a term nearly twice as long, Sigall said.

In the other case, involving the swindling of a bachelor, the jury acted in an opposite fashion, sending the pretty swindler to a longer jail term than her unattractive counterpart.

TRIPLED SPACE — Mary Lou Metzger of the Lawrence Welk program demonstrates a 3 in 1 wallbed unit.

Wallbed unit aid to smaller homes

By STEVE ELLINGSON

A bedroom planned just for sleeping is wasted space for two-thirds of each day. In this era of small-bedroom homes, you have to make every square foot count! This is particularly true of children's bedrooms, guest rooms and dens . . . not to mention vacation cabins and mobile homes.

Here's a way to use less furniture in a small room and still retain all the functions of a bigger bedroom set. The handsome 3-in-1 wallbed unit shown here requires the space of only one twin-sized bed.

Yet the four large drawers will give you the equivalent of a full-size dresser, which is really space economy. The wall shelves, which are attached to the bed, hold a generous supply of books, knick-knacks and other conversation pieces.

The entire unit is mounted on heavy casters for easy mobility. Even grown-ups who haven't entirely outgrown their childhood wouldn't mind bunking down in an inviting setting like this.

The unit pictured was made of birch plywood but you may use any other color finish. The easy-to-follow plan for building this unit contains step-by-step pictures showing all stages of construction, along with easy-to-read directions.

To obtain the 3-in-1 wallbed unit number 494 for $2.00 (add 25c extra per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to:

Living Christmas trees reflect holiday attitude

The Christmas tree has become the decorative focal point of the holiday season in homes, business offices, churches, in parks and on city streets.

Today, as American become more and more concerned about the quality of the environment and there is increased interest in conserving natural resourses, unprecedented numbers of people are using living christmas trees over the traditional "cut" trees.

Whatever your preference, nurseries have a good supply of both types of trees. When it comes to living christmas trees, the idea is a charming, environmentally-sound, practical idea. You can have your christmas tree and plant it, too.

After December 25th, you can plant the tree in the garden, or features it in a portable container. This way it can be used year-after-year during the Holiday Season, and, during the rest of the year it will add beauty to the surroundings.

Living trees add the fragrance and freshness of a forest, up-close. They contribute towards a better environment in many different ways, reminds the California Association of Nurserymen.

Throughout California, schools, community action groups, clubs, organizations, and individuals are purchasing living christmas trees, then dedicating them to civic service.

Bedding plants can also add some color

In California, winter gardens never need be drab. In addition to such blooming favorites as azaleas and camellias, bedding plants provide bright splashes of color in the cool season garden. To enjoy this, however, unless the bedders are set out immediately—if not sooner.

By way of simple explanation, bedding plants are flowering plants—annuals and perennials—which produce plenteous color (in flower beds). Set out now, the plants will create a late-winter and springtime carnival of garden color, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Iceland poppies are dependable bedders for winter display. Their long steams support crinkled, textured cups of orange, white, pink, yellow, red or cream colors.

Nurseries offer a wide variety of cool season bedding plants. Iceland Poppies are often to be found already showing color in nursery flats. They'll come into flower in a hurry in their garden home. Plant them in a sunny spot in a well-drained soil.

When the weather is cool, Pansies and Violas figure in the color picture. You could have planted them three months ago and be enjoying their bright, cheery bloom right now. Or, you can plant them now and start enjoying their floral beauty in just a few weeks.

Calendulas offer brilliant color from now into early summer. Hybrids produce large flowers in intense shades of persimmon, orange, cream, yellow and gold. Nurseries often have larger-sized plants already in bloom, in smallpots. Calendulas are excellent subjects for growing in containers. The medium-size performers are excellent in mass displays and the newer dwarf Calendulas sparkle in border situations.

English Daisies may not be as popular as other bedders, but they are showy color bearers for late winter gardens. Snowy white, pink or rose chrysanthemum-like flowers create lovely edgings throughout the garden. Their height is about six inches.

Fairy Primrose is another favorite for edging or borders. Their noticeable heads of bloom—in rose, pink, lavender or white—add interest to semi-shaded garden locations. Mass several plants to heighten the effect.

Project for tots

Head Start is in the Office of Economic Opportunity's project for the education of 4-and 5-year-olds.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Keep planting bulbs. It's not too late for daffodils or tulips. Even hyacinths can still go in, though the sooner you start them the better.

2. Shop nurseries now for holly plants in full berry. One or two can add the perfect touch for the holidays.

3. Lift dahlias when the tops dry off. Use a spading fork, taking care not to jab the clump of tubers. Wash off dirt, dry in sun and store in cool dry place. You don't have to divide the clump until you're ready to replant next spring.

4. Keep off wet lawns. Winter compaction when lawns are wet does more than most people realize to encourage brown lawns in summer.

5. Check the attractive, hardy bedding plants available for transplanting into your garden now.

Amateur's guide to proper pruning

Pruning is one of the most important and probably one of the least understood aspects of gardening. The dedicated gardener does his pruning on a year-round basis. He's always pinching back to shape a plant's growth. The novice gardener seldom prunes, and when he does, it may often be by guess.

During the coming cool months when plants are dormant, most pruning jobs will be done in California. Deciduous fruit and shade trees, grapes, roses, fuchsias, and certain evergreens should all be cut back—before growth starts again in spring. The gardener who neglects to prune only has himself to blame for any lack of results.

Your local nursery is a good place to start to learn about pruning or pruning methods. There are manuals on pruning, and some excellent ones that include illustrations and specific information on a wealth of plant materials.

The prime reason to prune is to improve a plant under cultivation; to increase and improve the crop of flowers and-or fruit; and to enchance the appearance of a plant.

The orchardist prunes because he wants the maximum crop consistent with fruit quality and size. The rosarian prunes because he knows that flowers are produced only on new wood and he wants to reduce the proportion of old, non-producing growth on the plant. Pruning is also done to repair damage from wind or frost and to remove dead limbs from a plant. Lastly, it is done to improve the shape of things grown. This includes training plants in the form you desire.

For starters, a most important thing is to have sharp tools. Shears should be razor sharp and a saw should be able to cut cleanly. More plants are damaged by dull tools than by in-experience or wrongly placed cuts. On material over one inch in diameter, murseries have pruning paints to spread over the cuts. This seals out possible infestation from disease.

Another important consideration is to know which plants to prune and when. Deciduous fruit trees may be pruned now and so may grapes. The pruning fruit trees, remember excessive pruning results in vigorous new growth, but it is mainly non-fruiting growth. The approach should be to find the balance in pruning where you do just enough to encourage both new growth and a good fruit crop.

All-America Roses exciting gardeners

It's easy for Californians to get carried away when it comes to talking about the "1974 All American Rose Selections. The reason is that all three All Americans for 1974 were developed by Californians.

Bahia, a vivid pinkish-orange floribunda, is the work of Dr. Walter E. Lammerts, Freedom, the hybridizer of the classic Charlotte Armstrong rose. The individual blooms of Bahia are very double and many clusters adorn a vigorous, compact plant that is ideal for landscape situations, reports the California Association of Nurserymen.

The plant, while a vigorous performer, is a shrubby grower that won't overgrow its bounds. Adding to its value in the garden, the roses hold their bright color until the petals fall, while providing a pleasing spicy fragrance.

Many nurseries will have Bahia, and other 1974All-Americans as bare root plants in time for Christmas gifting. Check on local availability with your nearby nursery.

Shopping early may turn up Perfume Delight, the only hybrid tea among the new AARS winners. Its unique coloration has been termed magnificent pink. The pink shade is dramatically beautiful. The rose produces highly fragrant blooms which are excellent for cutting the indoor arrangements. In the garden it will create focal interest without dominating companion plants. It's a medium grower and can be massed for effect. O. L. Weeks, Ontario, developed Perfume Delight. His hybrid tea, Gypsy, took 1973 All-American honors.

William Warriner of Santa Ana, whose Medallion took AARS honors last year, developed Bon-Bon, a third All-American for 1974.

Bon-Bon is an excellent low-growing landscape choice, where loads of color are desired. It is densely covered with dozens of delightful pink and white bi-color booms. Flowers are borne in large clusters from spring through fall. The roses are attractive in all stages—from bud to full bloom.

When it comes to roses for the New Year, including All Americans with other delightful introductions, demand usually exceeds supply. If your nurseryman doesn't have plants for giving on December 25, he will have them in very early January, the start of the bare root season. Check to see if orders should be placed in advance to assure your having the California-inspired 1974 All-American Roses for adding beauty and enjoyment to your garden.

March flies eating up dichondra lawns

RIVERSIDE —If you have a dichondra lawn, watch out for March flies.

These pests feed on dichondra roots. They currently are cuasing damage to dichonodra lawns in Ventura County, according to reports received here by Dr. A. S. Deal, University of California Agricultural Extension entomologist on the Riverside campus.

Although March flies are most common during rainy periods in the spring in California's interior areas, according to Dr. Deal, they may occur at any time of the year in moist coastal regions.

"March flies," Dr. Deal explained, "usually are dark to black in color, including their wings. They have relatively small heads in comparison with their rather thick bodies, and their heads project downwards. These flies are weak, sluggish fliers and usually do not fly very high above the ground. Often they can be seen lying on their backs on the ground or sidealks struggling to get back on their feet."

The flies like damp places where there is an abundance of decaying vegetation and fungi upon which their larvae also feed. They can thrive in leaf mold, decaying grass clippings, compost organic fertilizers, and mulches. Lawns fertilized with organic fertilizers are a favorite breeding place.

Certain overgrown ornamentals, such as rhododendrons or camellias, may be shaped just before growth starts in spring. These would be normally pruned after flowering. But, if they are rank or overgrown, it may be best to forego some bloom in favor of new fill-in growth. If in doubt, check with your nurseryman on the various plant materials in your garden. He can provide advice and direct you to the best source of information—to help assure the results you expect.

JOLLY ROGER — This artist's sketch depicts the pirate ship in NBC's traveling stage production of "Peter Pan." The arena-style show will start a nationwide tour in San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 3.

Network branches out

NBC to tour production of stage 'Peter Pan'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (NEA) — In a way NBC is competing with itself in its new role as producers of arena entertainment.

For four years now, NBC's subsidiary, NBC Entertainment, has been in joint partnership with Disney in producing "Disney On Parade," which has successfully toured the nation's arenas with its lavish production. Now, beginning Jan. 3, 1974, NBC will go it alone with a new show, an arena version of "Peter Pan."

This will tell the old story of Peter and his friends (and enemies), done in a big way — music, dancers, acrobats, the whole works.

Thomas W. Sarnoff, who is NBC's West Coast vice-president and president of NBC Entertainment, says the big network has gotten into arena shows because "we felt there was considerable need in the country for good family entertainment. I know I have trouble figuring out what movie to take my kids to."

"Disney On Parade" is still touring. Next spring it will go to South America, then Europe. Another unit is on the road in Australia and the Far East. "Peter Pan" will kick its tour off in San Antonio, Tex., and there is a 70-week tour planned so far.

"If 'Pan' works," Sarnoff says, "we'll look for other properties. If it doesn't, we'll have to take a long look at the whole arena concept."

Sarnoff says they tried to get the exciting Russian gymnast, Olga Korbut, to play Pan, but negotiations got too complicated. They decided against using any name performers.

Does the name Adam Kennedy ring a bell? It should, if you followed movie actors in the late '50s. He was one of the coming stars then. He quit his acting career cold.

From 1955 through 1961, Kennedy was as busy as any actor. He made 12 movies and appeared on many TV shows in that period. But acting wasn't what he wanted to do.

He always wanted to write but acted to make a living and, he says, he became more successful at it than he had planned. It was hard to quit but he did, and returned to his first love.

He's written quite a few novels and his latest is "Maggie D.," which is told in the form of a question-and-answer session between a sex researcher and his female subject. It's a tricky form but it works.

Even though Kennedy left acting at a time when he was "at the most saleable point in his life," he says he'll never act again. He still gets offers but he's determined.

"Writing," he says, "is a full time job."

He even let his Screen Actors Guild (SAG) membership lapse, which is a pretty good indication he means what he says.

He's here now, writing a screenplay for Fox and developing a TV series for NBC. Wherever he goes he's asked if he wants to do a part. He just smiles and goes back to his typewriter.

P.C. students plan recital at Thatcher

CLAREMONT — Douglas Leedy's "March for Forty Fingers" will highlight a student recital sponsored by the Pomona College music department in Thatcher Music Building at 8:15 p.m. Monday. Admission is free.

Four pianists will perform: William F. Russell, chairman of the music department; Peter Hewitt, associate professor of music; Pomona College junior Suzy Blaustein, and Pitzer College senior Gary Berkson. Leedy is a graduate of Pomona College. Music by Mozart, Haydn, Schubert, Gershwin and Couperin also will be performed.

Miss Blaustein also will play two pieces with cellist Katy Roberts, Pomona College senior, in Couperin's "Pieces en Concert," and again with Berkson in Schubert's Fantasy in F Minor, D. 940, for piano four hands. Two other pianists are included on the program: Douglas Westberg, Pomona College freshman, playing Gershwin's "Three Preludes," and Rob Wigington, Pomona College sophomore, playing a Sonata in C by Haydn.

Baritone Ken Rafanan, Pomona College junior, will sing three songs from Schubert's cycle "Die Schoene Muellerin," and an aria from "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart.

Other student recitals will be offered Jan. 14 and March 6.

Art fete set at L.A. center

LOS ANGELES — More than 100 artists and craftsmen will exhibit and sell a wide variety of works in the Arts, Crafts and Hobby Festival at the Great Western Exhibit Center, 2120 S. Eastern Ave., from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1.

The festival, to be held both indoors and out, will include jewelry, pottery, leatherwork, dolls, Christmas decorations, furniture, macrame, candles and other items.

There will be demonstrations in various crafts, including stoneware pottery making and gem cutting.

Scenes from YTS scheduled on TV Sunday

LOS ANGELES — A report on young Chicanos imprisoned in California Youth Authority institutions will be part of The Los Angeles Collective, KCET, Channel 28, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

"Carnalitos" (younger brothers), a 15-minute film, will include interviews with inmates at the Youth Training School in Chino and the Southeran Reception Center and Clinic in Norwalk. The report will probe the reasons for the high incidence of Chicano youths in the institutions, the influence of gangs, the need for more Chicano staffing in the facilities, and the growing trend among inmates to organize. The film ends with a letter by an inmate to his carnalitos on the outside.

The other two sections of The Los Angeles Collective will be a film on developments of the $10 million Maraville Housing Project in East Los Angeles, and a segment by Ciji Ware Billett on energy-saving tips for the home.

HAS RESERVATIONS — Veteran Indian actor Jay Silverheels feels that the show business image of his race needs improvement. Silverheels, the Tonto of the Lone Ranger series for eight seasons, is a member of the Ethnic Minorities Committee of the Screen Actors Guild. He is currently being seen in "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing."

Showbeat

Image of Indian insults Tonto

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Some things change. Some things don't. Jay Silverheels says the way movies and television treat American Indian is one of the things that doesn't change much.

Silverheels, one of Hollywood's veteran Indian actors, feels that Hollywood still treats Indians poorly. He says that maybe there will be two or three films in which Indians are shown in a respectable light. But then one comes along in which the Indian is portrayed baddly—and the one bad one cancels out the three good ones."

As an example of the bad, he says he recently was asked to do a Gunsmoke episode.

"It was a cliche that was old 20 years ago," he says. "I was supposed to play a vaillainous, snarling Indian, who attacked the wagon train and kidnapped the beautiful white girl. Then Matt Dillion singlehandedly went after the Indians, knocked out or shot a dozen and rescued the girl.

"I turned it down."

He says there was a time when he didn't turn that kind of part down. He knew if he didn't do it somebody else would. He felt he had to get established as an actor "before I could begin to exert some influence."

Now, he believes, he's strong enough in the business so that he can exert that influence. He has founded the Indian Actors Workshop which teaches young Indians the fundamentals of acting, writing and the various film crafts. He also serves on the Ethnic Minorities Committee of the Screen Actors Guild.

And, now, he picks and chooses his parts with care. You can see him, currently, in "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing".

For eight seasons, of course, he was Tonto on The Lone Ranger. That's his most memorable role. He considers Tonto "a positive character".

"He was on the side of law and order. He had the respect of the people he met, certainly the respect of the Lone Ranger. He was strong and silent." He doesn't feel, as some have charged, that Tonto is to the Indians what Uncle Tom is to the blacks.

Silverheels grew up on a Mohawk reservation in eastern Canada. As a boy, he would go to the movies in the nearby town.

"And I hated the Indians in the movies," he says. "They were always so cruel. I hated the Indians before I was old enought to realize that I was an Indian myself. That shows how badly the films were slanted."

It was sports that got him out and away. He was a boxer and wrestler, played hockey and lacrosse. He became a pro lacrosse player and toured the United States, ending up in Los Angeles. From there, he decided to try acting.

It's been a long and busy career. But the whole Indian situation still rankles. It hasn't changed very much since he was a boy.

Romero to solo with Glendale Symphony

LOS ANGELES — Guitarist Angel Romero will be soloist in a concert by the Glendale Symphony Orchestra at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 12.

The orchestra will be conducted by George Cleve, musical director of the San Jose Symphony. The Vienna-born maestro, a violist and pianist, has studied conducting with Carl Bamberger, Pierre Monteux, George Szell and others.

The orchestra will play Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, Debussy's "La Mer," and Rodrigo's "Concierto de Aranjuez," with Romero as soloist.

Celedonio Romero and his three sons — Celin, Pepe, and Angel left their native Spain in 1958 to settle in the United States and launch a brilliant international career as the foremost guitar ensemble in the world. Now, for more than a decade, they have enjoyed sold-out coast-to-coast tours annually, and in 1969-70 and 1971-72, they were widely acclaimed on two European tours. Angel Romero, youngest son, was named by the New York Times' critic "a rising star among virtuosos."

Racial allegory burns in Pomona's 'Benito Cereno'

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Black fire, to pick up Stanley Crouch's paradox, burned the stage at Garrison Theater where black soles and white man's shoe leather danced and shuffled Thursday night through "Benito Cereno."

Crouch is the author of a searing stage adaptation of Herman Melville's classic yarn of a Spanish slave ship. Woven through a ghostly set under eerie lights, the play is a dark paean to black pride, to human power.

A world premier—boasts the Pomona College Theater program—deserves review first of the material, next the production. Crouch has crafted a piece that is snide, bitter, proud, strong, and at bottom, human. As a play it drags like a log burnt through the center, blazing in first leap, sparkling in last flush.

As a statement, "Benito Cereno" is gallows humor. Its message distills to vicious fact: Black was slavery, black is slavery—but the color could be white.

Story: Benito Cereno is the master of a Spanish slaver. From coast of Africa to a lonely isle in the Pacific off South America, we follow the craft. It is taken over in a revolt by its black cargo, and puts in at the island to take on water before returning to Senegal. At this point, a Yankee trader anchors nearby, and the captain of the American ship gallantly offers aid, unaware the slaves are in charge.

Aid is material assistance-water, food, and repair-as well as some pompous homespun American advice. At the last moment, Cereno dives overboard, warns the Americans of the situation, and is returned to his place as captain, the ship retaken.

Within this plot, Crouch details characters whose fierce pride and self-determination lead them along the brutal path blazed by white slave traders. His play is an allegory of modern America's racial struggles (the American ship's master is a 17th Century Archie Bunker, but smarter).

And in the end, the message is as Crouch states in the program notes: Don't accuse me of the crimes you would commit if you were in my place. Cereno and his men carried out horrible cruelty on their cargo, which was returned in full measure when the situations were reversed.

But when whites regained power, they forgot—perhaps never knew—the justice of the rebellion and retaliated in full measure. It appears that a part of Crouch's declaration is the lack of meaning in revenge, whether by the victim of the first part or the victim of the second part.

A cast of over 30 carried out the play with force. Sam Reece as Babo earns special credit for his portrayal of the cynical leader of the revolt, while Dick Barnes, in the role of Yankee Capt. Amasa Delano, was creditable for his comfortable, crass manner. Rod Stein, in the role of Benito Cereno, offered too much surface pathos to make the character convincing. David Frick, in the gory role of mutilated Don Aranda, was not quite shocked enough.

Particular kudos for John Retsek's incredible sets and light design, and for choreography by Crouch and Yoro Daillo. Chorus members need more togetherness.

Curtain for Benito Cereno is at 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday at Garrison Theater on 10th Street in Claremont. This is NOT a play for children under high school age.

Inner City presenting 'Earthquake'

LOS ANGELES — The Inner City Repertory Theater Company is presenting "Earthquake," a new musical revue by Obie-Award-winning author, C. Bernard Jackson. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Characterized as a work in progress, the revue deals satirically with various aspects of life in present-day Southern California.

Larry Nash, whose musical arrangements for the ICRTC production of "Street Scene" won critical praise, handles similar chores for "Earthquake." Myrna White of "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" did the choreography.

The cast includes Karmello Brooks, Roger Brown, Bernie Cowen, Lee Hampton, Jeanne Joe, Elaine Kashiki, Ethel Mike, Stan Miller, Peter Salas, Keone Young and Lupe Zuniga.

Vermont stretches about 159 miles from the Canadian border to Massachusetts.

Ulcers give me a pain

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Newspaper business, as you know if you've seen "Front Page," is a hysterical, pressurized, action-packed, mile-a-minute rat race, full of high tension and hypertension, deadlines, jangling phones, get-it-first but first get-it-right, hammering typewriters, STOP THE PRESS! Ho hum.

Wallowing more or less actively in this publishing pressure-cooker for a decade or so, I have frequently wondered, when there was nothing else to wonder, why I have never had an ulcer. Here I've been driving myself relentlessly and been driven even more relentlessly by steel-fisted editors, keeping my shoulder to the ground, my ear to the wheel, and eye to the future, and I can't even work up a respectable tummy ache.

The answer to this enigma apparently lies in a report made at the recent annual meeting of the American Public Health Association by Dr. Ralph Paffenbarger, an epidemiologist. (Is there such a word? Paffenbarger, I mean.) Dr. Ralph made a survey of more than 25,000 men who attended either Harvard University or the University of Pennsylvania between 1916 and 1950 and found that the hard-driving type is not necessarily ulcerous. (Why would anyone survey graduates of Harvard and P.U.?)

"The most likely candidate for an ulcer," he reported, "may be an inveterate coffee drinker and cigarette smoker. But he isn't necessarily a person who reacts poorly to stress, or is fearful of failure, or is given to relieving tensions with alcohol." Tell 'em, Doc!

Most of the Harvard boys I knew in my non-Ivy League under-graduate days generally drank beer and smoked pipes and sat around late at night discussing Serious Issues such as Was Proust a Yenta? and Is Eliot a Frost? and Is the no-bra look here to stay? None of them had ulcers that I can recall.

Dr. Paffenbarger found that students who drank two or more cups of coffee a day had a 72 per cent greater chance of getting an ulcer than abstainers, and cola drinkers had a 48 per cent greater chance. I suppose if you drank coffee AND cola, the odds went right off the board.

Smokers had a one-third increase in their chance of developing ulcers, Dr. P. found. You get a lot to like in a dum-de-dum.

Most of the socioeconomic factors measured had little effect, ulcerwise — family income, occupation of father, pre-college schooling — except that students from large families were more apt to develop ulcers. (Students? What about the fathers? I know a guy with five children and his ulcer has an ulcer.) (Did you hear about the Eskimo who had a wife and 17 chilblains?)

Well, all the rich, successful people I know have ulcers, so I think I'll increase my coffee drinking and take up cigarettes.

I wonder if epidemiologists ever get ulcers?

College named after farm union leader

MT. ANGEL, Ore. (UPI) — A tiny, independent college faced with shortages in funds and students had a new name today —Collegio Cesar Chavez.

The renaming of the former Mt. Angel College in honor of the Farm Workers Union leader from California came Wednesday night at a program which included a special mass offered by the Most Rev. Robert Dwyer, archbishop of the Portland Catholic Archdiocese.

The faculty and student body is almost totally Chicano, and so is the board of directors. Its president is Ernesto Lopez.

Mt. Angel College had its accreditation taken away by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools last spring. This brought the departure of most of its liberal arts students.

Lopez said the school, founded in the 1880s as a Catholic teacher's college for women, would revise its curriculum and apply for re-accreditation.

Spending money leads to trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The working wife has added a second check to family income but disagreement on how it is to be spent can lead to dissension.

So observes W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., who said the second income "can actually determine how well a husband and wife get along, matrimonially speaking."

With 46 per cent of the adult female population now contributing to family income, Bowler says, "The husband and wife who both bring home the bacon both should have a say about how it is cooked."

Everybody writes carols

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most Christmas carols were written by clergymen or professional musicians, but quite a number of those sung today were the work of laymen from all walks of life, reports the American Music Conference (AMC).

Father of country

Bangladesh chief certain of success

By LEON DANIEL

DACCA, Bangladesh (UPI) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, the prime minister of Bangladesh, is like the proud father of a baby approaching its second birthday. The infant is kicking and yelling but still unable to walk unassisted.

The sheikh's severest critics say his baby may die, but that is unlikely. Mujib and his supporters claim the baby is as healthy as could be expected, which also has been challenged.

What appears to be indisputable is that the charismatic sheikh, disparately described as shrewd, naive, egocentric and down-to-earth, is the father of this new nation, which emerged 23 months ago in a war in which India detached Pakistan's eastern wing.

Lone ruler

No other political leader here really matters, whether he is for Mujib or against him. For better or worse, depending on the point of view, the sheikh alone runs Bangladesh.

Mujib governs the country from Gana Bhavan (People's House), which is aptly named. People constantly jam his outer office, waiting patiently to see him on problems great and small.

His critics say he sees too many people, and neglects the hard decisions that could get the country moving. But an official close to him insists the constant contact with the people is necessary, explaining that "the warmth of the masses sustains him."

And it appears that, despite rampant inflation, massive unemployment and a widespread breakdown of law and order, the sheikh is justified in his frequent boast that "my people love me."

In an interview at Gana Bhavan, Mujib noted his administration's achievements in occassionally flawed but forceful English.

He cited resettling 10 million refugees who fled to India and returned after the war, improving the law and order situation, rebuilding roads and bridges destroyed or damaged in the fighting and giving the nation a constitutional democracy.

Economy broken

"When the fighting ended our economy was broken," he said. "We had not one penny of foreign exchange or gold reserves. Our roads and bridges were destroyed. Sixty per cent of our transportation was in ruins. Then millions of Bengalis had fled to India."

As he warmed up, his English began to slip a little.

"Three million, they died," he said. "I say died. Not all killed. On way to India some died. On way back some died."

The sheikh apparently no longer insists that the Pakistani army killed 3 million Bengalis, a figure that has been disputed widely since the sheikh suggested it.

But his point was lodged securely and he proceeded to nail it down fast with the contention that a United Nations survey team had compared the destruction here to Germany after World War II.

Of all his achievements, Mujib is perhaps proudest of bringing what he considers constitutional government and free elections to Bangladesh.

"My own newspapers—government papers—even write against me sometimes," he beamed.

In fact, they very rarely do. The Bangladesh press is more likely to carry page one stories proclaiming how well nationalized industries are doing.

Mull crisis options

Nixon, economic advisers huddle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon called in his top economic advisers today to consider options should the energy crisis cause a downturn in the economy.

Besides the so-called quadriad, Nixon summoned John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, to the meeting which began shortly after 10 a.m. EST. White House aides said in advance there would be no announcements following the meeting.

Administration economists have forecast a slowdown in the economy to near recession levels during the first part of 1974 if the Middle East oil boycott continues.

Nixon was studying reports of airline and auto industry layoffs, gas station closings, and disruption in industries which are affected by the nationwide energy shortage.

The economic quadriad that serves as Nixon's chief advisory team includes Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Chairman Herbert L. Stein of the presidential Council of Economic Advisers, Budget Director Roy L. Ash and Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve.

There have been some forecasts —chiefly by critics of administration policies —that unemployment might reach 8 per cent next year because of layoffs resulting from industrial cutbacks due to fuel shortages.

A housing industry leader predicted unemployment would be widespread, accompanied by business failures and housing shortages, because of administration policies.

George C. Martin, president of the National Association of Home Builders, told newsmen the administration had taken a negative approach to housing production.

RTD facing new crisis: shutdown by mechanics

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

With the threat of the fuel shortage already hanging overhead, the Southern California Rapid Transit District now faces a new crisis that could shut down its entire operation indefinitely and leave thousands of area residents virtually stranded.

Some 700 mechanics have threatened to walk off the job at midnight tonight, unless their representatives can reach an agreement in negotiations with RTD officials over a pension-boosting plan.

A strike, if it comes, is expected to shut down the entire RTD operation in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, and leave more than 450,000 persons who rely on the bus service for inter-community travel without their usual means of transportation.

In the Pomona Valley, RTD officials have estimated that some 2,400 people use their service daily, and about half that many rely on it on Sundays.

A shutdown will also eliminate city bu service in Pomona, an RTD spokesman said today. "It will affect our service ev erywhere," he said.

The spokesman was unable to give an estimate on the number who ride city buses daily, but, based on reports when the city of Pomona ran the operation, buses carried approximately 15,000 passengers a week during the Christmas season two years ago.

Students are also heavily dependent on city bus service to get to school and back home, since the Pomona school district does not provide its own bus service.

RTD directors were expected to meet earlier today to discuss the issue before going into final bargaining talks later in the afternoon.

"I cannot believe this thing is really happening," said Jerome C. Long, president of the Amalgamated Transit Workers Union Division 1277. "Yet here it is Thursday night and we are getting absolutely no place in negotiations."

Negotiations between the two sides have been going on for over a year. In an attempt to break the deadlock, Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed a three-man commission to help settle the dispute, but RTD officials have so far rejected the commission's pension recommendations without commenting why.

The commission reportedly recommended a settlement which would boost expected revenue from pension fund reserves from 4 per cent to 5.5 per cent, and with anticipated added revenue RTD would be able to improve the mechanic's pension program.

IN TWISTER'S PATH

A tornado hit Gainesville, Ga., Thursday, taking the roofs off a number of homes and buildings. Twisters and thunderstorms struck across Tennessee, north Georgia and South Carolina, killing three persons.

Israel, Egypt agree separation of forces must be top priority

By United Press International

Israel and Egypt agreed today in separate meetings in Cairo and Jerusalem that the separation of their forces along the Suez Canal must be the first order of business at the Geneva Peace conference opening Tuesday, but there was no assurance Israel would actually attend the talks.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred in Cairo with President Anwar Sadat and the ambassadors of Britain, the Soviet Union and France and then flew on to Saudi Arabia. He said he and Sadat had agreed that the separation of forces must be the first item of substance at Geneva.

The Israeli government met for more than four hours in Jerusalem in an inconclusive special session devoted to discussion on how Israel planned to approach the Middle East peace talks in Geneva. A spokesman said disengagement of forces was a principal topic discussed.

The cabinet ministers emerged grim-faced from their four-hour and 30 minute session with Prime Minister Golda Meir and declined to comment on the proceedings. They walked quickly to their waiting automobiles. But a spokesman said the issues were not resolved and another meeting would be necessary.

Forecaster says damp—no rain

A cold front moving through the area brought fog and drizzles to Pomona Valley early today. The damp weather will continue Saturday, except for a brief respite in the afternoon when the sun is supposed to make an appearance.

The official forecast from the National Weather Service calls for low clouds and fog late tonight and early Saturday with partial clearing Saturday afternoon.

Today's high should reach 50 degrees and a slightly warmer 65 degrees is forecast for Saturday. No rainfall is expected this weekend.

Thursday's high temperature was 56 degrees, followed by a low this morning of 44 degrees.

Elderly burglary victim exchanges shots with gunman; wife wounded

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — A gunman robbed an elderly Fort Lauderdale couple of $40,000 in jewels Thursday night, fleeing on a 10-speed bicycle after exchanging shots with the victims and slightly wounding the wife.

Police said the bandit barged into the home of retiree Paul Weidenbacher in one of the city's most fashionable neighborhoods while the Weidenbachers were watching television.

The young bandit forced Weidenbacher into the bedroom to get the family jewels. While in the bedroom, Weidenbacher grabbed a gun from a drawer and exchanged shots with the burblar.

The man grabbed an 11-carat diamond ring, some other jewelry, and $100 in cash and fled into the living room where he and Weidenbacher again exchanged shots. One of the shots wounded Mrs. Weidenbacher in the right breast, police said.

As the man fled on a bicycle, Weidenbacher fired four more times, apparently missing, according to police.

Mrs. Weidenbacher was treated for a flesh wound at the house.

3 dead, 47 injured as twisters hit in South

NINETY SIX, S.C. (UPI) — Three persons were killed and at least 47 injured Thursday as tornadoes ripped across three southern states, causing millions of dollars in damage.

Two women were killed when a twister cut a swath a mile long and nearly 100 feet wide through this rural area. It struck the Ninety Six Manufacturing Co., destroying a cloth separating building where they worked. A 15-month old boy, Brandon J. Farr, died in an overturned mobile home in Newberry County, S.C.

Twenty-six persons were injured in a tornado which struck Gainesville, Ga., shortly after noon. At least 44 houses were destroyed along with two trailer parks, two downtown businesses and a church.

Another twister ripped the roof off an elementary school in Conasauga, Tenn., Thursday morning, injuring three children. Several other children were trapped briefly in the rubble but were uninjured.

The worst damage was reported in Greenwood County, S.C., where Ninety Six Fire Chief Bubba Summers estimated damage in the millions of dollars. At least 18 persons were injured.

The tornado ripped through the Edgewood School community, a new housing development near Ninety Six, damaging nearly every house in the development and unroofing many of the structures.

The South Carolina National Guard was called to duty to prevent looting.

The workers killed at the Ninety Six Manufacturing Co., were identified as Charity Griffin and Ozala Thomas, both of Ninety Six. The plant was destroyed by the twister.

The basketball team at Mid Carolina High School in nearby Prosperity narrowly escaped injury when the gym roof was blown off.

In Gainesville, Ga., County Civil Defense Director H. D. Ward said it was an "unusual" tornado in that it "was narrow in width but it hit in so many places." He estimated damage at more than $2 million.

"You wouldn't believe what was done to those houses and trailers," Ward said. "A lot of times you couldn't tell whether a lot had a house on it or it was just a cleared out place."

In Conasauga, Tenn., two miles from the Georgia-Tennessee line, the five-room Conasauga Elementary School was flattened. The three children who were injured were not believed seriously hurt, however.

A tornado also struck Dayton, Tenn., demolishing two mobile homes and heavily damaging five others. Damage was estimated at $60,000.

Meany blisters oil profiteers

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, Thursday quoted large profits reported by the oil industry and urged that the burden of the fuel shortage be shared by industry as well as the public in general.

"We don't think it's fair that working people should lose their jobs to the energy crisis while the fat cats get fatter," he said at an Israel Bonds dinner.

"Just as we were willing to accept wage and price controls so long as they were fair and equitable, we will accept whatever energy conservation programs may be necessary, so long as they are fair and equitable," he added.

House OKs compromise DST bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House approved by voice vote and sent to the Senate today compromise legislation to return most of the country to year-round daylight saving time as an energy-saving measure.

If the Senate acts quickly and the bill is signed into law before next Sunday, Americans will turn their clocks forward one hour on Sunday, Jan. 6. If enactment is delayed until next week, DST will go into effect Jan. 13.

The country would remain on year-round daylight time until the last Sunday in April, 1975.

The bill would allow President Nixon to exempt a state from the advanced time or to realign time zones within a state if the state's governor issued a proclamation saying the action was necessary to conserve fuel or to prevent hardship.

Such a request would have to be made before DST goes into effect. The President could ignore the request.

The legislation exempts Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands from daylight time. Indiana, which exempts one time zone from daylight time, would be allowed to continue the practice.

A mod approach to an old carol

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — The staff of the Oregon attorney general's office Thursday released its fourth annual Christmas Song Book.

One of the pieces, sung to the tune of the Twelve Days of Christmas, is as follows:

On the twelfth day of Crisis, my true love gave to me
Twelve cops policing,
Eleven truckers trucking,
Ten stations closing,
Nine stocks a-falling,
Eight short recessions,
Seven pounds of beefsteak,
Six books of food stamps,
Five cords of wood,
Four jerry cans,
Three match books,
Two candle sticks,
And a battery-powered T.V.

Head of FCC resigns post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Communications Commissioner H. Rex Lee said today he has submitted his resignation to the President, effective Dec. 31, 17 months before his term was to end.

Lee, 63, is the second Democratic commissioner to resign within 10 days. Commissioner Nicholas Johnson recently quit after serving six months past expiration of his seven-year term.

"I have been in government for 38 years and I decided I wanted to do something else," Lee said. "I decided now is a good time to retire."

The Rigby, Idaho, native said he had no immediate plans, but that he would stay in Washington and "remain active." He said he is in "excellent" health and did not resign early because of any policy disputes.

Advisers urge Nixon: fight back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Advisers close to President Nixon, both inside and outside of the White House, have been urging Nixon to make a forceful counterattack on critics of his financial record.

"The President is being urged to make a public statement insisting that his political critics make their income tax returns public and that they provide an audit showing their personal cash flow," said one source.

The sources said proponents of the counterattack strategy were suggesting that Nixon single out some members of Congress, including Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., who have questioned tax deductions Nixon took and the tax rate he has paid while in office.

The sources said Nixon's challenge would ask critics to fully disclose their personal financial records to show "they aren't living in glass houses while they throw their rocks" at him, White House sources said Thursday.

"The President at present is resisting the advice and I don't know exactly why," said one source. But he said Nixon was weighing the idea carefully and was expected to make a decision shortly.

Earlier in the day, a White House spokesman said Nixon "welcomes the examination" of his entire financial record by Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation and that "if the competent authorities find that the President owes further taxes, he will pay them of course."

The White House sources reporting Nixon's consideration of a counterattack said Nixon made his taxes public because he wanted to rebut publicized charges against him. Some of his advisers now are convinced, they said, that Nixon opponents are intent on using the tax information to further undercut the President.

Americans meeting crisis but pinch broadens

BULLETIN

A tractor-trailer was blown up at a truck stop today scattering wreckage for 50 yards, Arkansas State Police reported. It was the most violent incident reported since independent truckers mounted their two-day protest against rising fuel costs and lower speed limits.

No one was injured in the predawn blast, police said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newly released figures indicate Americans are complying with administration appeals to cut their use of energy.

Gasoline consumption dropped 15 per cent in the three weeks ending Nov. 30, and the combined consumption of gasoline, heating oil, diesel fuel and jet fuel was down 29 per cent, administration officials reported Thursday.

That involved a 1.1 billion barrel a day decline in the use of crude oil, out of which gasoline and other consumer petroleum products are made.

"Americans are responding. They must be thanked for their efforts," the administration's energy chief, William E. Simon, said.

But the picture was not all rosy.

Repercussions of the energy crisis were reflected today on a broadening scale —from U.S. highway truck routes to the topmost levels of government in Washington, London and Tokyo.

The major manifestation in the United States was the spread of a work stoppage by independent truckers protesting incresaes in diesel fuel prices and lower speed limits on major highways.

In Ohio, some drivers who declined to participate in the stoppage reported their rigs were fired on. Near Dayton, 450 to 500 trucks were "corralled" on an interstate highway and not allowed to proceed.

In Delaware, a leader of the truckers protest and three companions were arrested when a state patrol search of their auto turned up a handgun. One of them was John Sassi, who testified at a Senate hearing in Washington early this week.

In Missouri, protesters blocked exits at two truck stops in the St. Louis area but did not impede highway traffic.

On the government level, Vice President Gerald R. Ford presided at a White House meeting of top energy advisers to discuss the general situation and the need for further legislation next year.

President Nixon also met with economic advisers to consider possible options should the energy crisis precipitate a slump.

The President was studying reports of airline layoffs, closing of gas stations and other segments of the economy being hit by the fuel shortage. Some airline pilots were suggesting a pilot strike just before Christmas to protest what they said was inequitable government fuel allocations.

In England, the British people began buckling down to a program of austerity which may bring about unemployment and pay cuts for an estimated 3 million workers. Harsh energy conservation measures were ordered, ranging from a cut in the work week to three days and a ban on television broadcasting after 10:30 p. m.

In Tokyo, Japan's vice minister of international trade and industry, Hideaki Yamashita, warned the Japanese economy faces disintegration if the squeeze triggered by an Arab oil embargo and accompanying inflation continue into next year.

Yamashita said even if the Arabs and Israelis made peace and the oil situation improved during the coming six months, "it would take three years for the Japanese economy to be fully recovered."

On the diplomatic front, Arab representatives flew uninvited to the Common Market summit conference in Copenhagen demanding European governments take decisive action to force Israel to give up Arab territory.

Abu Dhabi Minister Adnan Al-Pachachi said however a suggestion by U. S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for a new world effort to solve the oil dilemma "deserves careful study."

"Already our revenue has decreased and we have had to freeze some development projects in our countries," he commented.

In the Middle East, Kissinger flew to Riyadh to meet with Saudi Arabian King Faisal and to urge lifting of the oil embargo if the Geneva peace talks on the Mideast open on Tuesday as scheduled.

In the U. S. Congress, the House of Representatives approved and sent to the Senate a compromise bill that would put the United States on daylight saving time next month on a year round basis as an energy saving measure. If the bill is enacted by this weekend, DST will take effect Jan. 6.

The House also worked on a string of amendments to the legislation to empower Nixon to take broad emergency action to deal with the crisis.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the Senate might put off a scheduled Dec. 21 adjournment if need be to pass the emergency measure.

On the positive side, newly released statistics indicated Americans are cooperating with administration appeals to cut their use of fuel and energy.

Ray of hope for car makers in sales trend

DETROIT (UPI) — For the first time since mid-September, U.S. auto makers have reported they sold more cars in a 10-day sales period this year than they did during the same period last year.

They credited a steady switch to smaller cars for the reversed trend in declining sales, a 1 per cent increase over the Dec. 1-10 period in 1972.

Mack W. Worden, GM vice president for marketing, said the new car markete "continues to reflect buyer indecision resulting from confusion and uncertainty with regard to the energy situation and its related impacts."

Nearly every small car model available showed an increase over last year, as did many of the intermediate models. The automakers sold 182,436 cars in the Dec. 1-10 period—a modest 1 per cent jump over a year ago.

It was the first time since the 1974 models were introduced that General Motors, the industry giant, showed such a gain. GM sales were up 2.8 per cent while American Motors continued its strong pace with a 43 per cent jump.

Ford Motor Co. sales were down 6.1 per cent, but small cars — the Pinto, Maverick, Mustang II and Comet— accounted for one of every two sales. Mustang was up 185 per cent from a year ago, Pinto was up 39 per cent, and Maverick showed a 25 per cent jump.

Chrysler was down 1.1 per cent, primarily in the big car area. Sales of the compact Valiant were up 64 per cent, while Dart sales increased 41 per cent.

Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend, in a year-end statement Thursday, said his firm's production would be more than 50 per cent small cars by mid-January. The company is indefinitely idling 2,100 workers at two big car assembly plants while converting its Newark, Del., facility to Dart and Valiant production.

GM Thursday said it, like Ford and Chrysler, will take the $150 maximum allowed increase in the price of its new cars, which works out to $188 for the average vehicle at the retail level.

GM upped the price for its Vega coupe to $2,491, compared with $2,442 for Ford's similar two-door Pinto.

Social Security increase bogged in bitter dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Social Security benefits increase that appeared to be breezing through Congress has become bogged down in an increasingly bitter dispute between the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee.

Unless someone backs down or finds a face-saving compromise before Congress adjourns next week, 30 million Americans will have to wait a few months longer to get their increased monthly checks.

The Social Security administration says it needs about four months to program its computers to handle benefits increases. If Congress waits until after it returns Jan. 21 to resolve the problem, no increase could be paid until this summer, although payments could be made retroactively.

Ironically, the increase itself is not a part of the dispute. Both the House and Senate have passed a two-step, 11 per cent increase for 1974. The only difference is that the Senate would give the first 7 per cent increase immediately but the House would wait until April checks. Both bills would give the additional 4 per cent in July.

The dispute revolves around a raft of non-Social Security amendments added by the Senate, including a guaranteed "work bonus" for the working poor of up to $400.

Normally differences between the House and Senate bills would be worked out in a joint conference committee. But the House refused even to appoint conferees.

"Procedurally there is no way we could deal with all the complex matters the Senate put on this little technical bill," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The "little technical bill" Ullman referred to is part of the dispute. Instead of amending the House-passed Social Security bill, the Senate attached its Social Security bill to legislation passed earlier this year making small technical changes in the Social Security law. Ullman took this as an insult.

Ullman said the Senate could settle the whole problem by simply passing the House bill, which technically is still pending in the Senate.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he would wait for a House-Senate conference, and "I find it very difficult to understand why any House member would refuse to even talk about measures to help the poor, the aged, the sick and the blind of this country."

Both sides realize the political dynamite they are playing with, and each side is attempting to keep the dispute low-key.

Lands back in cell penniless

Jailhouse Santa puts up $2,405 to bail out himself, 23 others

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — A New York youth who bailed himself and all the other inmates out of the Key West jail Thursday with $2,405 was back behind bars today, unable to raise $102 bond money.

Robert Vincent Palmieri, 20, of New York City was dubbed the "Santa" of Key West after paying fines ranging from $27 to $189 and posting bonds up to $252 to bail out himself and 23 other inmates.

But Thursday night, Palmieri was arrested again on a charge of indecent exposure.

"He just took off all his clothes on South Beach," said Jailer Robert Hatt.

He was being held under $102 bond and none of the prisoners he had bailed out earlier had come forward with any cash for their benefactor.

"All he's got left is 41 cents," said Hatt.

Palmieri, short and stocky with curly light brown hair, was barefooted, dressed in dungarees and a faded red corduroy shirt when he was arrested on Key West's mainstreet at 1:20 a.m. Thursday on a charge of drunkenness.

"When I got here about 7 a.m. (Thursday), this kid tells me he wants to get all of them out," said Sgt. Louis "Sweetwater" Cuervo, senior jailer.

Authorities telephoned Palmieri's mother in New York and were told that it was her son's money, earned last summer at a golf course, and he could do with it as he wished.

So he cleaned out the jail's 18 cells of the assorted fellow drunks, trespassers, vagrants, nude bathers and profanity users.

"They went walking out of court with grins splitting their faces from ear to ear," said Hatt.

Cyclone sinks ship; 54 are missing

SUVA, Fiji Islands (UPI) — Officials reported Thursday that 54 persons were missing in the sinking of a cargo ship by a powerful cyclone packing 100 mile an hour winds.

There were 41 known survivors among the 95 passengers on the inter-island vessel Uluilakeba which sank Monday off the southern tip of Fiji enroute from Vatoa Island to Ogea Island.

Among the missing was Dr. Melvin Hill, chairman of the music department at Pacific Union College near Napa, Calif., and his wife, Jean. Mrs. Hill is an assistant professor in the school's art department.

Saxbe approved by committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the expectation of new assurances from President Nixon on the independence of Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, the Senate Judiciary Committee has approved Sen. William B. Saxbe to be attorney general.

The committee voted 15-1 to approve Saxbe after Republican Leader Hugh Scott agreed to seek "clarification" from the White House on the agreement under which Jaworski's independence and jurisdiction is protected.

Earlier Thursday, committee liberals had demanded that Nixon submit written assurances to the committee before Saxbe was approved.

Scott called their demand "a tempest in a teapot" but said he would try to obtain the assurances before the expected Senate vote to confirm Saxbe on Monday.

"After the swearing-in," Saxbe said, "I'll tell you how I feel."

The only vote against the Ohio Republican came from Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who felt that a constitutional problem over Saxbe's pay had not been cleared up.

1962 romance between JFK, Marilyn Monroe reported

NEW YORK (UPI) — Syndicated gossip columnist Earl Wilson reported Thursday that Marilyn Monroe had a romance with President John F. Kennedy. Just before she died of an overdose of sleeping pills in 1962, Wilson reported, she said, "Say goodbye to the President."

Wilson said he withheld the story for years but finally decided "to set the record straight" because of a book on Miss Monroe which dwelled on her friendship with Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, written by Norman Mailer.

Miss Monroe's relationship with President Kennedy is detailed in Wilson's own book on the life of the late actress, to be published early next year. He said he undertook a three-year investigation to establish a "dalliance" between the blonde sex goddess and the president.

Wilson said the affair went on for almost a year before Miss Monroe's death. He said she was sometimes a discreet guest at little dinners arranged by President Kennedy, usually at the Hotel Carlyle in New York where the Kennedys maintained an apartment. He said Miss Monroe once wore a black wig as a disguise.

Wilson said Peter Lawford, a Kennedy in-law, believed he was speaking with Marilyn on the phone when she lost consciousness Aug. 5, 1962, after taking a lethal overdose of sleeping pills. He told the columnist her last words were:

"Say goodbye to Pat (Pat Kennedy Lawford), say goodbye to the President, and say goodbye to yourself because you're a nice guy."

3 sewer workers killed by fumes

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Three workmen cleaning a big, muck-filled sewer pipe in the Jersey swamplands were killed Thursday when they were overcome by toxic fumes, police said.

A police spokesman said two scuba divers who were called after rescue workers were driven back by the gases pulled the bodies from the 4-by-6-foot, 750-foot long pipe.

Bleak Yule at Chrysler plant

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

DETROIT (UPI) — The string of Christmas lights behind the bar did little to brighten the spirit of the few men on a break from Chrysler's Jefferson Avenue Assembly plant.

The automaker had just announced 1,700 hourly workers out of a total labor force of just over 7,000 had been laid off with no idea if they'll be called back. The remainder are getting an extended eight-day "vacation" after the normal Christmas shutdown.

"Everybody's feeling down and so's my business," Silas Shaw, the 61-year-old proprietor of Paul's Lounge, about a block from the back of the gate of the plant, told a newsman.

Kennedy Flowers, the president of United Auto Workers Local 7 which represents workers at the "Jeff Plant," said more layoffs probably will be announced after Christmas.

"I'm not optimistic at all," he said. "I asked them last month what they were going to do. I got no promises about anything."

They build the big cars at Jeff Plant—full-sized Chryslers and luxury Imperials—and the energy crisis and uncertain economic conditions have crippled sales. In November, 10,250 Chryslers were sold, compared with 17,392 the year before.

"It's grim inside that plant," said one young worker, emerging into the rain Thursday when his shift ended. "There's all kinds of scuttlebutt and rumors about what's going to happen.

"It's a hell of a thing to have happen right before Christmas," the assembly line worker said. Like most of the men, he didn't want to give his name, saying only that he worked "on the line, tightening bolts."

Now 960 Chryslers and Imperials roll of the line every day at Jeff Plant. Production will halt Dec. 21 for the annual shutdown which normally ends Jan. 2. This year, the assembly line won't start up again until Jan. 14 when just 640 cars will come off the line each day.

The "big problem," said an older worker at Paul's Lounge is that Jeff Plant turns out only the big cars. It's the only plant that puts together the Chrysler and Imperial models.

"Jeff can't be changed cheaply from producing Imperials and other big Chryslers, because that's the kind of lines and conveyors it has," said one of the factory veterans.

"So our only chance is if Chrysler consolidates most of its American big car making here, maybe including some models with smaller motors to increase sales," he said.

"If they don't do that, Jeff will be down to one shift within a few weeks," said another veteran employe. "Employes and production will be cut in half."

For workers with more than one year seniority, state unemployment compensation and company-paid supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) will give them up to 95 per cent of their weekly pay, less $7.50 for expenses they normally pay in coming to work—things like bus fare or lunches. Those workers with less than one year can count only on state unemployment compensation and the prospect that it will be a long time before they're back to work at Chrysler.

In L.V. elections

5 take out papers

LA VERNE — Five additional persons have taken out nomination papers for city offices in the March 5 municipal elections, raising the number of candidates here to seven.

Four of the five aspirants seek posts on the City Council. The fifth wants to be mayor.

They join as candidates Mayor Mike M. Morales and Councilman Harrison Sanborn, both of whom already have announced their intentions to run for mayor.

The newest mayoralty candidate is Mrs. Danita R. Peterson, a housewife and a frequent critic of the council.

Taking out nomination papers for council seats were:

Incumbent Councilman Frank Johnson, a filling station owner who seeks his fourth term; Walter F. Morrison, owner of Walt's Hardware Store; Robert Neher, a biology professor at La Verne College and chairman of the Commission on Environmental Quality; and D. Allan Mackay, manager of personnel and industrial relations at Johnston Pump Co. and a member of the Planning Commission.

Three terms will expire on the council next March, with two incumbents seeking reelection. Councilman Jack Russi, completing his first term on the council, is not running for a second term.

The nomination papers must be filed by Dec. 27 at noon.

An opinion by City Atty. Gene Axelrod, disclosed today, also cleared up the problem of what happens in the event that Sanborn should win the mayoral election.

Sanborn still has two years to serve on the council, so if he loses, he will simply return to the council to fill out his unexpired term.

If he wins, however, he will move up to the mayor's post leaving a two-year opening in this present post.

According to Axelrod, the council then will have 30 days to appoint someone to the unexpired term. Should the council fail to exercise that prerogative, it will have to call a special election to fill the vacancy.

Axelrod said the council is not committed in any way to award the seat to the next highest vote getter in the municipal election.

Pomona man charged in assault case

MONTCLAIR — A 25-year-old Pomona man was booked in West End Jail this morning on an assault charge after he allegedly threw a four-pound terrainium and a tricycle at a Montclair woman Thursday night.

Lonnie K. Tuff of 766 Dudley St., Pomona, was arrested by Montclair police on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon at the Pomona Police Department several hours after the incident occurred.

Police said that Tuff went to visit with his estranged wife about 11:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Delores Churchill, 10390 Kimberly Avenue.

Tuff apparently got into an argument with his wife, and Mrs. Churchill asked him to leave, police said. When Tuff refused, Mrs. Churchill told him that she was going to call police. The suspect reportedly picked up a four-pound terrainium and, after threatening the woman, threw it at her. The heavy glass bowl hit the wall over Mrs. Churchill's head, with glass fragments cutting her hand. Police said that Tuff then picked up a child's tricycle and threw it at Mrs. Churchill.

Police said Mrs. Churchill ducked behind a bar and the tricycle missed.

3 youths arrested on weapons charges

POMONA — Three youths were arrested on weapons charges Thursday morning in an incident apparently connected to recent racial problems at Garey High School.

Police learned that one youth was seen examining a pistol stashed in a hedge in the courtyard of an apartment building in the 1900 block of S. Park Avenue. Officers who arrested him later reported that they found a loaded, .32-caliber pistol in his possession. The youth, 16, was booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and carrying a loaded firearm.

Two of the suspect's companions also were arrested. The youths, both 17, were charged with illegal possession of billy clubs.

The three were arrested in an alley in the rear of 1900 S. Park Avenue by officers who stopped their car there. Besides the gun, police said they found a cut-down pool cue and a piece of lead pipe in the car.

Confrontations between Negro and Mexican-American students earlier this week resulted in several arrests. The situation apparently has relaxed on and around the campus at 351 W. Lexington Ave.

Galindo was admitted to the Chino General Hospital with a head injury but was released Thursday.

The girl, was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. Police reported that after knocking down 15-year-old Susanna Darrera, the suspect kicked her several times and had to be pulled away by a teacher. The victim has only attended the school about a week, officers said.

Crap game led to shooting

POMONA — A Pomona man, who told Chino police he was shot Wednesday night by an unidentified man in their city, now says he was wounded during a crap game dispute in Pomona.

Horace Watson, 43, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Chino General Hospital where he was being treated for a wound in the arm.

Chino officers said Watson told them that he was wounded while walking near Walnut Avenue and the Pomona Freeway. Thursday he said he was shot here by someone with whom he was rolling dice.

2 Uplanders slashed in dispute at tavern

UPLAND — Upland police arrested a Fontana man early this morning after he allegedly stabbed two persons during a fight at Boudene's Tavern, 1869 W. Foothill Blvd. about 1:30 a.m.

Kenneth McIntosh, 25, and Frederick Schmidt, 25, both of Upland, were rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital with knife wounds shortly after the fight was reported to police.

Schmidt is listed in fair condition at the Upland hospital with a face wound. McIntosh was given first aid treatment for neck and hand wounds and transferred to the San Bernardino County Hospital where he is listed in fair condition.

David Ray Brown, 26, of 7640 Juniper St., Fontana, was booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon. Sheriff's deputies said that Brown later posted $2,500 bail and was released.

Upland police said that Brown apparently got into an argument with the two victims, pulled a knife and began stabbing them. Police said the reason for the argument was unknown.

TURNS TO INDUSTRY — Lt. Col. Donald "Digger" Odell, who spent 5½ years in a North Vietnamese prison camp, is currently on a 10-month Education With Industry program. Here he visits UPI in Detroit.

Demo chief raps Reagan energy policy as 'Mickey Mouse'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Democratic chairman of the Assembly subcommittee on state energy policy has accused the Reagan administration of taking "a Mickey Mouse approach" in dealing with the energy crunch.

Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, voiced the criticism after Wes Bruer, Gov. Ronald Reagan's energy coordinator, testified at the subcommittee's hearing on the energy crisis.

Warren criticized the administration for offering "kind of a Mickey Mouse approach to a serious problem."

"What we've seen so far consists of recommendations that have little impact," he told newsmen during a break in the proceedings. He called the overall approach "patchwork and cosmetic."

Bruer testified that "at a minimum" the energy shortage would continue from 3 ½ years to four years and could linger as long as five or six years.

"It's going to get worse, then hopeully it's going to get better," Bruer said.

He declined under questioning to estimate how extensive the shortage would be, saying any figures he might offer would be "hipshot." He said the administration was preparing a thorough study which should be completed by the end of the month.

This brought a charge of "giving vague answers" from Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, who sat in on the hearing. "It does nothing to help the public confidence."

"If there is a cold January, there is going to be a shutdown in industry," Nejedly said. "what are we going to tell these people, that we'll have a report by the first of the year?"

Following Bruer's testimony, Warren, a legislative specialist on energy matters, told reporters. "Obviously the state is not prepared at this time to offer solutions to the energy crisis simply because it doesn't know the nature and extent of that crisis."

Warren said the administration was placing its faith in the federal government, an act which he called "misguided." Warren said the federal government's, "state of preparedness is about that of California's."

He said the Reagan administration appears to be moving toward curtailment, such as rationing. He cited Public Utilities Commission proposals to rotate power blackouts and limit new businesses as examples.

Instead of curtailment, he argued, a better answer would be to conserve existing energy.

John Zierold, spokesman for the Sierra Club, told the subcommittee that the crisis will result in increased pollution and a decline in the quality of life "only if government allows it to happen by way of a panic-stricken response."

Gerald O'Hara, assistant director of the California Teamsters Legislative Council, testified there has been "little sign of layoffs" of truck drivers so far due to fuel shortages. But he said shortages are "sure to bring unemployment in the trucking industry."

Court martial ordered for 'Navy Sikh'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Navy has ordered a court martial for PO 3C Ronald Singh Sherwood, 22, of Houston, for refusing to take off his turban.

Sherwood says that on his Thanksgiving leave he was converted to the Sikh religion, which requires its male adherents to wear a turban at all times and not to shave. The Navy maintains that a sailor in a turban, with an untrimmed beard, is out of uniform.

The case presents a conflict between the First Amendment guarantee of religious freedom and the Navy's uniform regulations, according to Sherwood's lawyer, Ram Das Singh, a Sikh.

Ex-POW, family plan Christmas snow trip

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN

DETROIT (UPI) — After spending 5½ years in a North Vietnamese prison camp, Lt. Col. Donald "Digger" Odell is hoping the energy crisis won't ruin the first Christmas with his family since 1966.

"We're all going to finally do something together," the trim Air Force officer said. "The kids are really looking foward to a snowmobile trip in northern Michigan. That is, if we can get enough gas."

It will give Odell a chance to spend some time with just his wife and four children. The youngest, David, is 7. He was just an infant when the Odells last spent Christmas together. The other children are Carol, 14, Barbara, 12, and Paul, 9.

"We're not planning anything special for Christmas day. We'll just spend a quiet day packing all the things for our trip," said Odell, who was released by the North Vietnamese on March 14.

Odell says he's changed since he went over to Karat, Thailand, on Aug. 31, 1967, as a fighter pilot. He flew his first missions on Sept. 4 and his F105D fighter-bomber was shot down Oct. 17 on his 17th mission.

His wife Shirley noticed the change immediately when he returned to their home in Mount Clemens, near Detroit.

"Before, maybe I was, of course, tied up with my work or a little short on my patience or temper," he said. "But now I seem to have more time to devote to my children, and I take a greater interest in them.

"I'm more lenient and I let them get away with things that I'd never done before," said Odell. "Shirley says she could see that right away. She also says I seem a lot more concerned about other people."

Odell's concern with people may lead him into a new career. He was on convalescent leave until the end of September, but spent much of that time on a speaking tour.

He's now taking part in a 10-month Education With Industry (EWI) program that's put him with Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors. He'll spend three or four weeks in different departments at Pontiac and maybe stay with the automaker after the program ends.

"I'm in public relations right now, and I really like it. I also like the marketing aspect," he said. "Part of my decision whether to stay with the Air Force will depend on whether I get promoted to colonel.

"I'm 39 now and still young enough to make the change."

3rd graders ignite state legislation

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A bill designating the firefly as Pennsylvania's official insect was introduced Wednesday.

The proposal originally came from third-grade students at the Highland Park Elementary School in State Rep. Frank Lynch's district. Lynch, who introduced the bill, also had supporting petitions signed by more than 2,000 voters.

Claremont Colleges get $100,000 grant

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Colleges have received a $100,000 grant from the Arthur Vining Davis Foundations of Miami, Fla., marking both the beginning of an effort to augment the colleges' library system and to solve a financial problem.

The colleges are seeking $5.5 million in acquisition, capital and operating funds for the libraries. Of that sum, $200,000 had been earmarked to retire an interest-only loan negotiated in 1970 to complete the construction of the Seeley W. Mudd Memorial Library.

The grant will pay off half the debt, establish a Davis Collection in the Social Sciences and help the colleges in their plan to use the loan interest payments to set up a book acquisition fund.

Bugliosi will run for attorney general post

LOS ANGELES — Former Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi announced Thursday that he is a candidate for the Democratic party's nomination for state attorney general.

Bugliosi jumped into prominence four years ago when he successfully prosecuted the Manson family for the Tate-Bianca murders.

The 39-year-old candidate also was in the limelight earlier this year when he ran unsuccessfully for the post of Los Angeles County district attorney. He is now in private practice.

He said he was running for the state post because "I am terribly concerned about the corruption in our government and the many problems facing law enforcement because of the people's understandable loss of respect for our system of law and justice."

Bugliosi is a resident of Glendale. He and his wife, Gail, have two children.

Death toll in Bangladesh storm to be in thousands?

DACCA, Bangladesh (UPI) — The official death toll from a cyclone that hit southern Bangladesh Sunday stood at 89 Wednesday, but independent news reports said several thousand persons may have died in the storm.

A Dacca newspaper, the Janapad, said the cyclone and tidal waves affected 2.5 million persons and destroyed and damaged property and crops worth $133 million.

Most of the fatalities were fishermen caught in the Bay of Bengal when the cyclone moved toward the Bangladesh coast, news reports said.

The newspaper Dainik Bangla said at least 200 fishermen died in a fishing town on the Bay of Bengal coast.

Another newspaper, the Bangabarta, said the unofficial death toll was now 2,000 and if missing fishermen remain untraced, the toll will rise even higher.

Popularity of Golda, Dayan still dropping

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Israel a significant outgrowth of the Yom Kippur war with the Arabs has been a steady decline in the popularity of Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

An early result has been a certain modification of the peace terms which Mrs. Meir's ruling Labor party says it will seek to achieve at peace negotiations following national elections Dec. 31. The changes were comparatively modest but were achieved under pressure from moderate doves against party hawks with whom both Mrs. Meir and Dayan are associated.

A newspaper poll published Nov. 30 showed Mrs. Meir receiving support from 24 per cent of 1,000 persons polled.

An earlier poll showed that 45 per cent of those queried wanted her to continue as prime minister.

A poll taken before the war gave her 65 per cent.

Dayan, who has taken most of the blame for Israel's lack of preparedness at the outbreak of the war, lost half the support he enjoyed only a week ago in his post as defense minister. He slipped from 70.7 per cent to 36 per cent. Only two per cent supported him for prime minister.

Also of significance was the support received by opposition leader Menahem Begin who received 17 per cent, more than any others behind Mrs. Meir, for the prime minister's post. He is on record as favoring outright annexation of the West Bank seized from Jordan in the 1967 war.

Others mentioned in the poll were Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon, former Chief of Staff Yitzhak Rabin, Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Commerce and Industry Minister Haim Bar-Lev.

The significance of support given the latter is that all are members of Mrs. Meir's Labor party and all are classed as moderates or outright doves. Eban, for example, has come under frequent attack from the hawks for his allegedly soft stand toward the Arabs.

Allon is the author of the "Allon plan," which would establish Israeli paramilitary settlements along the Jordan River, while returning a demilitarized West Bank to Jordan.

Rabin is a former ambassador to Washington. Begin, advancing in the field from far behind, is a former commander of the underground Irgun movement which waged a terror campaign against Britain before the formation of Israel.

By papering over differences within the party, most observers believe the Labor party has a good chance of returning to power in the December elections, especially since most Israelis join them in rejecting Arab demands for the return of Jerusalem to Arab hands and the unequivocal return to the lines of June 4, 1967.

As compromised the party platform calls more specifically than before for "territorial compromise."

From the polls and the Labor party platform a conclusion may be drawn that Israelis are ready for some compromise but nothing to the extent demanded by the recent Arab summit in Algeria.

Pet lovers pour it on

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — Animal lovers, annoyed by criticism of a $500 Christmas dinner of turkey and rabbit planned for stray dogs, sent in more money. Now rice pudding has been added to the feast.

"Many animal lovers are so disgusted by the criticism of the dinner," said superintendent Ken Taylor, "they have said they will not contribute to appeals for human beings.

L.A. may seek Edison Co. help in energy pinch

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The city council, which Thursday imposed mandatory electricity cuts backed by the threat of no service at all, would like to talk to Southern California Edison Co., which purportedly is not seriously pinched by the energy shortage.

The city's Department of Water and Power supplies electricity to 3 million persons — and their factories shops and businesses—in the city proper. Much of the rest of Southern California is served by Edison, which covers an area with 11 million inhabitants.

Even as it took firm steps Thursday, the council heard testimony that while the DWP is in a serious bind because it depended on oil from Arab nations for much of its supply, Edison is not as severely affected because it gets oil from Indonesia.

The testimony came at a session at which the council unanimously approved a tough two-stage cutback plan. Under phase one, which goes into effect next Friday, residential and industrial users must cut their electricity consumption 10 per cent, based on their usage from July, 1972 to June, 1973.

Commercial users will have to cut back by 20 per cent.

Under phase two, expected to go into effect Jan. 15, the cutbacks will be increased to 33 per cent for commercial users, 16 per cent for industry and 12 per cent for residences. Other measures include a ban on heating or lighting swimming pools.

Those exceeding their quota will be slapped with a 50 per cent surcharge—the equivalent of an extra month's bill for home users—the first time it happens. Second offenders will have their service cut off for two days. A third offense brings a cutoff of five days, and successive violations cutoffs of from five to 30 days.

Mayor Tom Bradley said he would take the new laws to Washington with him today, as he tries to get federal help to find more oil for the city's generators, to show that Los Angeles is trying hard.

Councilmen Ernani Bernardi and Edmund Edelman took DWP General Manager Robert Phillips to task for making the city dependento n Arab oil.

"Was I to forecast the Arab embargo?" Phillips replied.

Bernardi noted that Texaco supplies up to 6 million barrels of oil a year, from its Los Angeles refinery, to Edison, although the refinery depends on the DWP for power. The city burns about 500,000 to 1 million barrels a year to supply power for Texaco's refinery, the councilman said, but gets no oil in return.

"Shouldn't we try to get Southern California Edison to provide Texaco with 1 million barrels (worth of power), instead of our doing it?" Bernardi asked.

"That's a possibility," Phillips said.

"I don't see any great concern, over there at Edison, Bernardi said, noting that Edison has not imposed stringent cutbacks as the DWP has had to do.

Edison is better off than DWP, because it gets almost half its oil from Indonesia, which does not support the Arab embargo, he said.

Phillips offered in DWP's defense that the Burbank, Glendale and Pasadena power suppliers are "worse off" than Los Angeles.

Bernardi said he thinks Edison, Texaco and Union Carbide, a large user of DWP electricity, should be asked to send representatives to meet with the council and discuss whether they are willing to help out the city. The water and power committee was told to consider the idea.

Phillips said that maybe the DWP could buy some electricity from Edison, but noted that the state Public Utilities Commission is already holding hearings on a mutual assistance program to spread the shortage around evenly.

Wedding gift from the Nixons

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Peggy Sue Wallace, soon to be married daughter of Gov. George C. Wallace, has received an engraved porcelain figurine as her wedding gift from President and Mrs. Nixon.

Although among the about 600 persons invited, the first family was not expected to attend the church wedding Saturday of Miss Wallace and Mark Kennedy of Greenville, Ala.

Miss Wallace, 23, said the gift, identified as "Boehm's Bird of Peace," depicted a duck sitting on a lily pond. "It is the most beautiful piece you've ever seen," she said.

The delicate figurine arrived at the executive mansion here, wrapped in paper heavily embossed with the presidential seal. The Nixons' name was engraved on the bottom of it.

"I saved the paper and think I will frame it, too," Miss Wallace said.

Ex-governor back in politics

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former Pennsylvania Gov. George M. Leader has reentered the political arena, but not as a candidate. He will direct the statewide committee for the re-election of Gov. Milton J. Shapp and Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline.

Shapp announced Thursday that Leader agreed to serve as chairman of the Pennsylvanians for Shapp-Kline.

Leader, a Democrat who served from 1955 to 1959, praised Shapp for the "beautiful team you put on the field in Harrisburg and the splendid job you've been doing.'

Two nominated as ambassadors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nominations of Viron P. Vikay, a career Foreign Service officer, and Lloyd I. Miller, a Cincinnati lawyer, to be ambassadors to Colombia and Trinidad and Tobago respectively was announced Thursday by President Nixon.

Vaky, 48, Corpus Christi, Tex., now ambassador to Costa Rica, will succeed Leonard J. Saccio, who has resigned.

Miller, 49, chairman of the Cincinnati Transit Co. since 1956, will replace Anthony D. Marshall in Trinidad and Tobago. Marshall recently was nominated ambassador to Kenya.

Gets BA degree 25 years later

CHICAGO (UPI) — Frank A. Wood Jr. was to receive his bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago today— almost a quarter of a century after he left the school one exam short of his degree.

"I didn't get my degree in 1951 because I wasn't able to take my final German exam," Wood, of Denmark, Wis., said Thursday. "So this past summer, I returned to the university and did well enough in my German course that I didn't even have to take the test."

Wood, 44, holds a master's degree from Marquette University and an associate professorship at St. Norbert College in DePere, Wis.

He said he was admitted to graduate studies at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis., on a condition basis and completed his master's in history and English.

"But my degree from the University of Chicago remained unfinished business," Wood said. "I never would have been satisfied if I hadn't completed that education. And besides, I have eight children—four of them in college—and maybe this will serve as an example for them."

Nixons mail Yule cards—50,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just like millions of other Americans, President and Mrs. Nixon send cards at Christmas—50,000 of them to be exact.

The White House mailed the cards, which feature a reproduction of a White House engraving as it looked in 1848, Thursday. They went to foreign heads of state, foreign and U.S. diplomats, government dignataries, friends and close supporters of the Nixon.

Drawn by August Kollner, the cards contain a view of the north portico as seen from Lafayette Square. They are on a background of Christmas red with gold undertones.

The greeting on the inside, printed in black and engraved in black script on white vellum, reads: "With all best wishes for a merry Christmas and a happy New Year—the President and Mrs. Nixon."

Illegal tapes seized from L.A. shops

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Downtown shops were raided of some 4,000 illegally produced recording tapes recently and police said complaints against shopowners would be sought.

Authorities said they seized "bootlegged," discounted versions of Spanish and Mexican recording tapes. The alleged distributor of the tapes will be sentenced in federal court next week for copyright violations in similar cases.

Bunco-forgery officers said 16 shopowners who had been warned twice about marketing the tapes would be prosecuted for selling merchandise illegally.

The tapes, pirated versions of major recording company tapes selling for $6, were being sold for under $2.

Alleged distributor Arpad Leocsky has already been convicted once of illegally copying such tapes.

Crippled girl discovered in chicken coop has surgery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A crippled orphan girl from Mexico who was forced to spend her days in a chicken coop underwent the first round of surgery Thursday that will allow her to walk for the first time in her life.

Doctors operated four hours on the left foot of Rosalia Avila, 12, born with club feet and discovered crawling and scratching in a chicken coop at a remote farm near Guadalajara more than a year ago.

Surgery on her other foot was postponed for three weeks after damage to the right foot proved more extensive than X-rays had shown, doctors at California College of Podiatry said.

Doctors hope that being able to stand erect like other people will cure Rosalia of her emotional infancy, which they say apparently was caused by her having crawled all her life.

"She thinks like a baby because she had to crawl so long," a hospital spokesman said. "Doctors believe she can be cured emotionally when she can stand up."

The girl was abandoned by her parents as an infant, but was kept by a family with a small farm near the Mexican town of La Piedad. But her foster parents could not care for her during the daytime hours and put her in a chicken coop with the chickens.

She was found there by Sister Bravo, a 72-year old Mexican woman who had lived in San Jose, Calif., most of her life but retired to Mexico.

Sister Bravo used her U.S. Social Security check to take care of 40 youngsters in an orphanage she founded with help of friends in the San Jose area.

Her friends arranged to bring Rosalia to San Francisco for the operation by Dr. Thomas Sgarlato.

Rosalia will spend the Christmas holidays with a San Jose family before undergoing further surgery. Doctors say she should be able to return to Mexico and begin walking by her 13th birthday next June.

BABY, IT'S COLD INSIDE — With gas unattainable for Paola, Kan., schools, thermostats recently were set at no higher than 40 degrees. Classes were held with children wearing heavy coats, gloves, long underwear and hats. Here one pupil blows on hands to keep warm.

Moving day included body of woman, 69

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Arthur McGill said Wednesday he carried the dead body of his former wife's aunt to a taxi and took it nine blocks to his new residence because he "wanted her body to be in a reposed position."

Police said the woman, Rosalie Graham, 69, died Tuesday in a cold, barren apartment from which McGill was moving. Miss Graham, who had cared for the McGills' three children during the years the couple was separated, apparently died of natural causes while the family was moving to a new apartment, police said.

"I wasn't about to leave her and have them come without a place to lay her down," McGill said. "I wanted her body in a reposed position."

McGill, a former Air Force medic, said he carried the woman's body to a taxi and took it nine blocks to his new residence where he placed it on a bed and covered it.

"Would you consider it ghoulish to lay a freshly deceased person on a floor?" he said. "In my estimation, it would be humanitarian not to.

"She was in the last bedroom and I carried her into the bathroom, where heat would be retained when I disconnected the utilities. I left the youngest daughter attending her and I kept looking in on her. About the fourth time I looked, I saw her pallor and felt her pulse. That told me she was in the throes of death. I made a further check and ascertained she was dead."

He said he called a taxi, put the body inside and told the driver, "The woman just died, but I don't want the baby to know about it. Let's keep it quiet. Let's shoot on up."

After he carried the body into the new residence, McGill said, "I put her into a bed and covered her." Then he called Miss Graham's sister, insurance companies and a funeral home before notifying police.

"I kept it from (the youngest daughter) until after the body had been removed," McGill said.

A police spokesman said the law prohibited the removal of a body.

"Charges could be filed," he said, "but none have been. It is against the law unless it is a case in which a person died en route to a hospital. But if a person expires at home, they should be left there."

The Orleans Parish Coroner's Office said an autopsy had been performed on the woman, but pathology reports were not available and no cause of death had been determined.

Record drops predicted in construction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five housing economists said today 1974 would be a year of record declines in the construction of homes and apartments.

The economists, speaking at the third annual forecasting conference of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, differed only to the extent of the fall in housing starts.

Dr. Michael Sumichrast, chief economist of the National Association of Home Builders, said housing starts would average about 1.3 million units on an annual basis, about one-third below the 1973 level.

Other economists, including Lacey C. Hunt, of Chase Econometric Associates; Gary Fromm, of Data Resources, and Kenneth J. Thygerson, of the U.S. League of Savings and Loan Associations, predicted higher annual rates of construction for 1974.

They set the annual rate at a range from 1.7 million to 1.9 million units.

Edison aide says

U.S. can correct energy woes if ecologists help

POMONA — The United States has the raw natural resources to become domestically sufficient for its energy needs by 1985 if the environmentalists will work with business in a responsible way, according to Frank McCracken of the Southern California Edison Co.

McCracken, who is manager of environmental planning for the power utility, told the Chamber of Commerce Vital Issues Breakfast meeting in Buffums' Thursday morning that the legitimate concerns that the environmentalists have for preserving the natural resources have been recognized.

"But turning everything off, stopping the construction of nuclear plants and delaying the Alaskan oil pipeline is a faster road to disaster," said McCracken.

"We do need to drill the Santa Barbara Channel for oil and we need to mine coal," he said, pointing out that such operations can be accomplished in such a way that the quality of life and quality of the environment can still be preserved.

McCracken said that "if the environmentalists continue to say 'stop, don't do this,' they will do such serious damage to the public welfare that there will be a backlash that will destroy the environmentalists themselves."

He said that if the national will can be motivated, by 1985 the nation can be self-sufficient for its energy needs. And it can be done, he said, "without indefinitely raping the earth."

McCracken predicted that by the year 2000 the nation's sources of fossil fuels will have been about depleted, with the exception of coal. He said the nation will then be dependent on solar and fusion energy "in a big way." Wind and tidal power are other possibilities, he said.

He said that large fusion plants could be built in remote places where the people aren't and moved to the market place where the people are.

In response to a question from the audience of about 150 people, McCracken said that there is considerable visible evidence that people are making an honest effort to use less electrical power. "Where we can save without hazarding employment, we have to do it," he stated.

POMONAN AIDS SENATOR'S PROBE

Mrs. Von Maxine Clark, left, of 212 E. Center St., Pomona, led state Sen. George Moscone, a Democratic candidate for governor, on a 1½-hour trip Wednesday by rapid transit buses to the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center outpatient clinic. Mrs. Clark, an ailing woman, told the legislator she has to get up three times a week at 4 a.m. to make a doctor's appointment at the clinic at 8 a.m. The state Senate majority leader is investigating transit and energy problems in Southern California.

Purse-snatch suspects face court appearance

POMONA — Two teen-age boys who knocked down an elderly woman here and stole her purse Sunday have been confined at Juvenile Hall and petitioned to Juvenile Court.

The pair, 16 and 17, were captured by several young men who chased them immediately after the attack. The youths live in the Boys Republic residence at 733 N. Garey Ave. They face charges of robbery, assault and theft.

YMCA employe Dennis Palmer, 25, Montclair, said he saw the pair knock down Mrs. Minnie M. Patterson, 93, near the Y at 350 N. Garey Ave. He and Val J. Newton, 18, Glendora, chased the pair and caught one in the 200 block of Pomona Mall West. The second was arrested in the 200 block of W. Third Street.

Mrs. Patterson, Pomona, told police she was walking on Garey Avenue north of Commercial Avenue when the two youths stopped and told her they wanted her money. When she refused one hit her, knocking her down. They grabbed her purse, containing just over $2, and fled.

West Covina Democrat in 35th Congress race

WEST COVINA — George A. Kasem of West Covina, a former representative in the old 25th Congressional District, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the new 35th Congressional District which will serve most of the Pomona Valley.

Kasem said, "Our prospects are very good. We previously have represented the major portion of the new district. The balance is adjacent territory where we are fortunate to have many friends and associates."

Kasem said that Rep. George Brown Jr., D-38th Dist., had pledged his support.

"We plan and hope for a truly grassroots campaign," the candidate said. "Our main effort will be through neighborhood people who are strongly motivated toward honest and responsive government.

"We are particularly moved toward running at this time because of the very unstable and critical state of our economy.

"Also, the Administration's handling of our foreign affairs has brought us to the point where we have had no reliable allies.

"The absolute unbelievable mismanagement in the energy crisis, which has us on the border of a severe economic crisis, has compelled me to bring the most direct action that I know of to forestall economic disaster."

Kasem said that "if we had an administration more interested in preserving the interests of the country than the preservation of their own fortunes we would not be in this dilemma."

The new 35th District emcompasses the eastern part of Los Angeles County and the western part of San Bernardino County.

Kasem was defeated in 1960 by Rep. John Rousselot, R-San Gabriel, after one term in office. He ran again in 1962 but was defeated by a write-in candidate. He has been in private law practice since 1962.

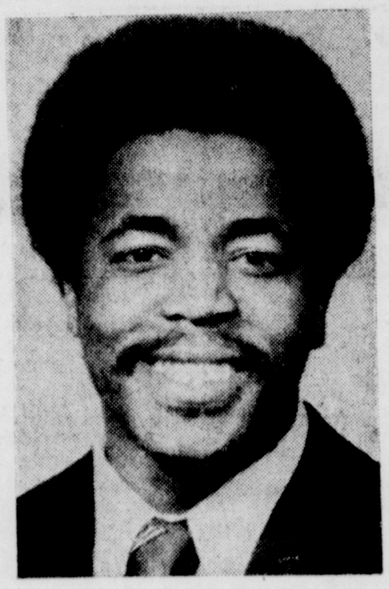
State rates FJH reading project best

POMONA — Representatives of the State Department of Education have termed the Fremont Junior High School demonstration reading project "bar none, the best in the state."

They also evaluated the early childhood education project at Lexington Elementary School and found it "positive" but encouraged the school district to "greatly increase parent participation." The staff was highly commended in the evaluation.

Representatives from the state were here Dec. 3-8.

"These evaluations should greatly assist the district in retaining the Fremont reading project and expanding the early childhood education program at Lexington next year," said Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, at Tuesday's school board meeting.



JAMES E. STEWART

New principal appointed for San Antonio

POMONA — James E. Stewart, 28, assistant principal at Arroyo Elementary School, today was named principal of the North San Antonio Elementary School.

He will assume his new duties Jan. 1, succeeding James Bolderson who resigned.

Stewart, 1440 W. Eighth St., Upland, received unanimous approval at a special school board meeting. Ken Pine made the motion to hire Stewart. It was seconded by Roy O. Day.

Just before the vote was taken Stewart told the board that when he came to Pomona seven years ago he "didn't think much of the school board and had little confidence in the superintendent or the superintendent of personnel."

But he went on to add that Lynn Rountree, now assistant superintendent of personnel services, "is partly the reason I'm here today. He made sure I waited until I acquired the ability to be a principal."

Stewart commended Supt. Robert E. Wentz as a man who has "really done something for Pomona's schools."

"The only other person I wish was here is my mother," said the young principal. "I would like to share this with her."

School boards seen shifting teacher negotiation position

POMONA — Thirteen major revisions in the Winton Act, the state law which governs relations between teachers and school boards, have been agreed to by the California School Boards Association (CSBA), according to Pomona school board member Don Donnelly.

These proposed changes, Donnelly said, are "a shift in stance for SCBS" and will improve communications between boards and teachers.

He said changes recognize exclusive representation for all teachers, set up madatory mediation, outline fact-finding with recommendations for settlement and request the creation of a state School Employe Relations Board.

Donnelly is a member of the CSBA delegate assembly representing Sub-region F, Region 13-14.

The changes were approved following a two-hour debate at a meeting of the delegate assembly preceding a CSBA-Association of California School Administrators convention early this month in San Francisco.

The purpose behind the changes is to lessen teacher pressure for the revival of collective bargaining legislation which was vetoed by Gov. Reagan last Oct. 1.

Donnelly said the association "would measure any legislation introduced in the future by its newly adopted yardstick."

What is at issue, said Donnelly, "is whether control of the schools will be kept in the hands of the public's elected board members."

Other guests of honor will be Ernest Robles, executive director of LULAC centers, and Joe Benitez, LULAC's national president.

Income for aged, disabled is topic

POMONA — State and national income sources affecting aged, blind and disabled residents will be discussed Monday at a joint meeting of the California and national leagues of senior citizens.

John Fryer, assistant league field director, will be speaker at the program which starts at 10 a.m. at the Goodwill Church of God in Christ, Sixth Street and Elm Avenue. The meeting is open to the public.

Questions on smog device for older cars answered

A news release in your paper Nov. 1 carried this headline: "CARB okays anti-pollution auto device."

It stated that owners of most of the 1966-70 model cars in California would be required to install a $35 anti-pollution device.

Exemptions will be listed in a five-page document to be mailed to "Class A" repair shops authorized to certify installations.

How do I know where a Class A shop is? Are there other classes of repair shops?

Why can't this list of exemptions be printed in the paper, thus saving us from having to hunt up one of these shops just to find out whether we need the device?

Even though we do not need the device, are we charged an inspection fee?

These anti-pollution devices are to reduce the oxides of nitrogen by 42 per cent. Is this of the average car or does it mean reducing the oxides of nitrogen now present in our air by 42 per cent? — D. A., San Dimas.

The answer to your questions came from the California Air Resources Board Laboratory in El Monte.

Class A licensed installers will be found at service stations and garages diplaying a blue shield with yellow lettering which reads Official Pollution Control Device Station.

Although the Air Resources Board does not distribute a list of stations, there are approximately 4,000 licensed stations in the South Coast Air Basin. CARB says they are easily identified.

Even if the exemption list were printed, you might not have the information you are seeking. It contains six general categories and approximately a page and a half of exemptions. The remainder of the five pages consists merely of examples.

You would have to go to a Class A station anyway since exempted vehicles must be certified. Stations may charge a nominal certification fee, usually $2 or $3.

The device installation, claims CARB, has the effect of reducing oxides of nitrogen emissions in individual vehicles by at least 42 per cent.

Is it possible to find a person who had surgery for a "total hip replacement" correcting an old hip fusion after many years?

I would like to see and talk with someone who has gone through this type of surgery successfully.

I am contemplating having surgery of that type done. My hip has been fused for more than 46 years. It can now be undone and needs to be to correct a spinal problem. — Mrs. B. T., Pomona.

You told us that you have consulted doctors and read literature about total hip replacement.

You are hoping that someone among our readers has actually experienced the surgery and will talk to you about it.

Can you help me obtain enough yarn to finish a shawl that I began last June?

I purchased yarn and a pattern. According to instructions, more yarn would be available from the company upon request.

On a previous occasion, I ran short of yarn, notified the company of the colors I needed and received them promptly.

This time I wrote twice and received no reply. Since the shawl is to be a Christmas present, I would appreciate help. — B. M., San Dimas.

You listed the colors you needed and we wrote to the needlecraft company in New York.

You received the yarn and wrote us a thank you note. We're glad our stitch in time saved you a Christmas shopping errand.

No rest for working wives

Woman's work is never done, no matter what corner of the world you look into, and especially for women who work both inside and outside the home.

When the time devoted to their jobs and their households is combined, working women end up with about 10 hours less free time per week than either housewives or employed men.

This has been documented in countries separated by enormous cultural, economic and political differences by an international undertaking called the Multinational Comparative Time-Budget Research Project.

To find out how people spend their time, the project surveyed urban-industrial centers in 12 countries — Belgium, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, France, Hungary, Peru, Poland, U.S.A., U.S.S.R., West Germany and Yugoslavia. In each country, at least one urban center with a population of from 40,000 to 200,000 was selected and a representative sample of residents was asked to fill out diaries detailing their activities during a 24-hour period.

In each society, the study revealed, working women are in a double bind. Although they participate extensively in the formal, paid work force, their responsibilities at home remain sharply defined by their sex role.

Whereas women are responsible for 32 per cent of all time registered in formal work over all the study sites, they contribute 78 per cent of the total time taken up by housework and related family obligations.

These discrepancies in work roles show up most noticeably on the weekend, say the directors of the American portion of the project, which was conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

It is then, they say, that employed men "indulge themselves in relatively large amounts of leisure activity. The housewife also shows a universal tendency to employ Sunday as a day of rest . . . her time spent on housework generally falls off almost 50 per cent on that day.

"The employed woman, however, just about doubles the amount of time spent on housework on her days off from work; clearly she must use them to catch up on these obligations rather than profit from them for rest and recuperation."

The pattern was the same in all the study sites, despite dramatic differences in economic development among them.

The average housewife in Osnabruck, West Germany, for example, has at her disposal an array of modern conveniences and technological "timesavers" that might only be dreamed of in Kragujevac, Yugoslavia. Yet the total amount of time spent on housework varies by an average of only one minute per day between the two cities.

This is because, the researchers suggest, the time saved through the use of laborsaving devices is quickly absorbed by a household which is more complex and to which a much higher standard of upkeep is applied. The woman who must draw water from a well is likely to tolerate a little more dirt than the woman whose kitchen is run largely by pushbutton devices.

Even the nonemployed, modern American homemaker, supported by an army of electrical appliances and convenience products, spends no less time on household work than housewives did in earlier, more primitive times.

What has changed is the nature of the work being done, and what sophisticated technology does appear to do is provide release from the more physically taxing and tedious labors.

Wax on the highway

Along with causing a boom in small-car sales, the energy crisis is good news for the makers of all kinds of gadgets and gizmos designed to increase gas mileage.

For example, the manufacturer of a new friction-reducing coating for airplanes is now hoping to sell the product to car-owners. The stuff is applied like a wax and, claims the maker, has the potential to increase the cruising speed of a DC-3 from 180 m.p.h. to 190.

Only trouble is that, while a lot of motorists like to fly low, with the move to impose a nationwide speed limit of 50 m.p.h., the drag-reducing benefits of the wax on the highway will likely be minimal.

6/6 vision

The transition to the metric system is reportedly almost complete in the field of optometry. The only remaining non-metric measurements are the visual acuity numbers on the familiar Snellen chart.

Becsuse "20-20" has such a deeply imbedded popular connotation as a sort of visual standard of reference, however, it's expected that it will take a while before that term is abandoned. Even optometrists haven't yet decided whether the new standard should be 6-6 — the approximation in meters of 20 feet — or some other number.

Thus for the time being, politicians and other decision-makers can continue to make spectacles of themselves, while those who second-guess them can continue to claim perfect 20-20 hindsight.

Christmas Tree bill loaded with gifts

WASHINGTON — As a cloak to conceal their annual Christmas chiseling, the lobbyists this year are using a bill that is supposed to benefit the families of men missing in Indochina.

Most members of Congress would like to give these anguished families a tax break as a Christmas present. But hidden in the wrappings are some far richer benefits for oil companies, mining firms, auto dealers and distillers.

The lobbyists have learned that the Christmas season is the best time to slip special tax benefits through Congress. The legislators are so impatient to adjourn and head for home that they don't always bother to scrutinize the fine print.

During the end-of-the-season rush, the action is also too fast for the public to follow and, usually, the lobbyist's hand is quicker than the public's eye.

The lobbyists customarily select a bill that appears quite innocent. This becomes known in the backrooms as the Christmas Tree bill. It gets its nickname from the goodies that the lobbyists hang on its branches as it progresses toward a final vote.

This year, the Christmas Tree bill started through the legislative mill as a tax measure to benefit Vietnam veterans and the families of missing servicemen. But after the bill moved from the House to the Senate, it became loaded down with Christmas gifts for the lobbyists' clients.

Perhaps the most glittering ornament, worth millions in tax benefits to chemical companies, was sneaked on the branches by Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo. His amendment would permit massive depletion allowances on trona ore. This is used to produce soda ash which goes into glass and cement.

Hansen's sugarplum would delight such firms as Allied Chemical, FMC, Stauffer Chemical and Texas Gulf Corp. But it would also raise a howl from other companies for similar Christmas blessings. "It would be difficult," warns a staff memo to Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., "to resist claims by other missing firms . . . ."

Second gift

While Senator Hansen was decorating the Christmas Tree, he added another gaudy gift for the fatcats. His second amendment would let corporations use property to redeem the stock of big stockholders in order to escape taxes.

Another bauble is being hung on the tree with White House help. This many-splendored amendment would grant special tax treatment to certain U.S. companies that do business in the Netherlands Antilles.

The approach to the White House was made by the Antilles' agent-lobbyist, Leonard Silverstein, who appropriately uses "Silvertax" as his cable address. He appealed to White House aide Deane Hinton for a letter supporting the tax concession. Without it, Silverstein warned, Exxon's big Aruba refinery might have to shut down.

Suitably softened, Hinton wrote the letter Silverstein requested. "I have been informed by the Treasury Department," wrote the presidential aide, "that it would not object" to the Antilles tax bonanza. Silverstein, of course, immediately circulated the letter to key legislators.

Both Hinton and Silverstein insisted to us that the letter was perfectly proper, although Hinton said he had thought Silverstein would use the letter "discreetly."

Another gift was placed under the Christmas Tree by House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills who played Santa Claus to auto dealers. His tax offering would be worth $25 million a year to certain auto dealers and other employers.

Still other lobbyists have sought Christmas cheer for their clients. Among those with special baubles and spangles on the tax tree are the producers of distilled spirits and imitation cheese.

When the Christmas bills come in, of course, it will be the taxpayers who must pay them.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: President Nixon has given up trying to placate Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who has become the conscience of the Republican party. And Goldwater has given up trying to persuade the President to come clean with the public on Watergate. The two Republican powers simply aren't communicating on the same wavelength . . . Goldwater has also clashed with the President's new chief of staff, Alexander Haig. Goldwater told some House members "it is my information" that the White House asked Spiro Agnew to step down as Vice President. Haig phoned Goldwater to complain he was mistaken. But Goldwater stuck by his statement as he had worded it.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Now's no time to be in office

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The current political climate is such that Nelson Rockefeller is seeking to use private life as a stepping stone to the White House.

In announcing his intention to resign as governor of New York, Rockefeller did not specifically say he was quitting to run for President.

But it is taken for granted he will go after the 1976 Republican nomination and he apparently feels his chances will improve after he is out of office.

I can remember when the situation was reversed. It used to be that politicians with presidential aspirations viewed gubernatorial service as a springboard.

Puzzled as to what had caused the turnaround, I had a talk with Luigi V. Populi, political analyst and author of the book "The Making of a Private Citizen."

I said, "By most accounts Rockefeller has been a good and popular governor. How will retiring from public life help him advance in public life?"

"I can explain it in one word," Populi replied. "Watergate."

"But Rockefeller has never been mixed up in that mess," I protested.

"It's true he wasn't standing on ground zero, but the fallout from Watergate threatens office-holders indiscriminately, the innocent along with the nolo contenderes.

"To hold public office at this time is to run the risk of becoming identified in the minds of the voters with a period of political scandal."

I said, "Are you telling me the surest way to succeed in politics is not to be in government at all?"

"Exactly," said Populi. "Why do you think John Connally got out when he did?

"Connally got a big jump on other GOP presidential hopefuls as a governmental dropout. It remains to be seen whether Rockefeller can overcome his lead."

I said, "What impact will this have on Ronald Reagan's presidential aspirations?"

"Reagan made an astute move some time ago by announcing he would not seek another term as governor of California. But that may not be enough.

"With Rockefeller and Connally already out of office, Reagan will be under tremendous pressure to abort his own incumbency. In other words, he may have to step down in order to step up."

I said, "What about public servants who aren't running for President?"

"The same things applies," Populi assumed me. "Members of Congress who plan to run for re-election in 1974 had better get out of office now while the getting's good."

LETTERS FROM P-B READERS

As others see it . . . letters

Thanks P-B carrier

This is just a little word of thanks to you and one of the many newspaper carriers serving your customers throughout the Pomona Valley, and especially the one serving us at this time.

The Lord has been very gracious to my wife and me and has permitted us to live together as Christians in our Christian home now for more than sixty-two years and we have been reading this paper all this time and I was a subscriber a few years before our marriage, and as we are both now past eighty; you will see why we are so thankful for the thoughtfulness of our fine delivery boy.

We have had many different types and varieties of boys during these good years — some good and some not so good. We moved to our present location, in April 1965 and our present boy has been very thoughtful and careful.

This summer we put in a new lawn and he was careful not to throw the paper on the fresh ground, nor on the new lawn when it began to grow. In fact he generally was thoughtful enough to get it onto our front porch and you can perhaps realize how much we appreciate this, especially as we are both now past eighty years of age; and this saves us from going down the steps and out on the walk or damp lawn, especially when it is raining or cold.

We can usually see the paper from our window so we do not have to wonder if the paper is there yet or not — we can see, and need not go out to look, we just open the door when we see it is ready for us.

We just thought you might be happy to rejoice with us at this holiday time of the year, and not always being getting complaints. —Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Jones, Pomona.

Gossip for today

You'd be surprised at the sacrifices some folks are making these days to help alleviate the energy shortage. — One woman has proudly announced that she is now waiting until her hair is half dry before turning on the electric hair dryer. — Another is patriotically washing her clothes in cold water. —A third is subjecting her husband to romantic candle light dinners almost every day of the week. —One 92 year old man, for want of something better to do, is conserving his own energy by refusing to talk four days each week. — The Governor of Utah has distributed a news release stating that he is now wearing long underwear. —But perhaps the most original of all energy saving suggestions orginated thus far is that of the helpful motorist who, although he is still driving the freeways at 65 miles per hour, is now displaying a bumper sticker which reads: RELIEVE THE GAS SHORTAGE — EAT MORE BEANS.

INSIDE REPORT

Simon not afraid to crack heads

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Following precious months frittered away in bureaucratic shellgames, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon has quickly made himself energy czar in fact as well as name.

Named a week earlier by President Nixon to head the new National Energy Administration, Simon last Sunday fired crusty Vice Adm. Eli Reich, who had retired from the Navy to take charge of the vital energy allocations program.

The separation, say friends of the much-decorated submarine commander, was "mutual." But what triggered it was Simon's resistance to knuckle under to what he regarded as Reich's prima donna tendencies, which had been cowing other civilians.

Placing a unique Sunday afternoon conference call from his office to the ten regional directors of the still-forming new agency, Simon gave them a 15-minute pep talk. He then offered the phone to Reich.

But the admiral refused the phone, telling Simon: "You seem to have covered the subject yourself."

Minutes thereafter, when all officials present had departed except Simon, Simon's deputy, John C. Sawhill, and Reich and his five aides, Reich exploded.

Angry over replacements

Reich was angry that Simon had replaced most of his own earlier choices for regional directors and brought them into the new energy agency and out of Reich's petroleum allocation office. So, he accused Simon of setting up the conference call without clearing it with him. The regional directors, he said angrily, were no longer reporting to him but directly to Simon and Sawhill.

What had really infuriated the former Navy admiral, however, was Simon's refusal to make him one of the six assistant administrators now in Simon's table of organization. Until Simon was named, Reich was a virtual free agent — not under the control of Simon's predecessor as energy czar, former Gov. John Love of Colorado, and independent of his nominal superior in the Interior Department, Secretary Rogers Morton. Throughout hours of planning sessions prior to the Sunday afternoon blowup, Reich was openly chafing under new restraints imposed on him by Simon.

Angered by Reich's explosion, Simon lectured the veteran naval combat officer. The nation is in an energy crisis, he said, and no one could be a "pompous" prima donna. What's needed is a team effort. He pointed out that he had offered Reich the top allocations job with a shot at the assistant administrator's slot sometime in the future—if he proved his salt.

A few minutes later, Reich and Simon agreed that Reich simply could not fit into Simon's energy program.

A selfmade millionaire

The episode tells much about administrator Simon, a self-made millionaire for the Wall Street bond markets. It shows, first, that he knows exactly what he wants, unlike predecessor Love. Second, it underlines his tough self-confidence in not veering away from confrontation.

Perhaps most important, however, was Simon's careful political preparation for the predictable confrontation with Reich.

To cover his flank, Simon cleared the possible ouster with Morton, who had hired the admiral for the allocation job on the recommendation of presidential counselor Melvin R. Laird. Next, according to aides in Reich's allocations office, Simon called Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements, Jr., to make certain that a job was ready for Reich in the field of defense energy allocations.

Simon, who emerged victorious from his first major bureaucratic battle last week—with the powerful and haughty Roy Ash, head of the Office of Management and Budget—is only beginning to feel the hot pressures of the most politically dangerous job in government today. With power over allocations of scarce energy resources and such politically explosive issues as gas rationing and gas taxes, he faces a high-risk future.

He is already under quiet attack by influential Democrats in Congress, for example, for wanting to remain Deputy Secretary of the Treasury while becoming energy chief. Such vital industries as steel and aluminum are ready to jump him if they do not agree with the allocations priorities he is now drawing up.

Simon will be lucky to survive. But his tough, quick response to challenges should give President Nixon one small comfort: he has finally picked a "czar" unafraid to crack heads in an administration that badly needs it.

TREE TRIMMERS AT WORK

Tammy Mello, 3, a pupil in the Diamond Bar - Walnut YMCA toddler's program, hangs an ornament she created on a 30-foot tree on the Y's Mens Club's tree lot. She is assisted by her teacher, Mary Ellen Sanoro. The toddlers fashioned numerous ornaments for the tree which was put up on the lot behind the Mr. Up Restaurant at 23505 Palomino Drive.

Uniform fee up for school security force

POMONA — Pomona school board has increased from $4 to $6 the monthly allowance for district security personnel effective Jan. 1.

The district has required that security personnel be uniformed since their initial hiring in 1969. The state education code requires the district to provide uniforms.

At the request of board member Ken Pine, district administrators are setting up a study session with security officers whom Pine described as "the eyes of the district."

"They have a message to bring to the school board," said Pine.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz said such a session could be arranged sometime in January.

Winter carnival for Rowland children

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Rowland Recreation Department will hold a winter carnival Dec. 29 from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Alvarado Junior High School.

There will be carnival booths and games such as sack races, skill contests with frisbees, baseball, basketball, soccer and tug-of-war.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the recreation office at 965-2541.

Crusade Revue slated Tuesday

WALNUT — The annual San Gabriel-Pomona Valley United Crusade Revue will be held Tuesday at the Pomona National Golf Club.

The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a no-host cocktail hour. Admission is $2.50 per person.

Rowland Recreation Dept. adds 10 classes

ROWLAND HEIGHTS—The Rowland Recreation Department will offer 10 new classes beginning the week of Jan. 7-12.

Each will run 10 weeks and fees will be $10 for the first member of a family and $7.50 for all other members.

Registrations will be handled through the mail or over the telephone. The address is 1830 S. Nogales St. The telephone number is 965-2541.

Classes to be offered are jazz dance, Tahitian-Hawaiian dance, guitar, baton, ballet, tennis, tap-ballet (two classes), Spanish-Mexican dances, and tumbling.

Experiment for night emergencies

8 freeway phones get blinkers

EL MONTE — Eight emergency telephone boxes along the Pomona Freeway near Workman Mill Road are being equipped with blinking lights to make them easier to locate at night.

The General Telephone Co. is conducting the pilot program to determine if its prototype lighting system is adaptable to the freeway emergency call box system, said Los Angeles County Supervisor Peter Schabarum.

The system will provide a pulsating light which doesn't require an additional power source.

Schabarum, who requested such lights last May, praised the telephone company for its ingenuity in developing the pulsating lighting. The testing period, he added, will be without cost to the county and will provide those in trouble a beacon in times of distress.

The freeway emergency telephone system was initiated and funded by Los Angeles County in 1967 and has since proved invaluable to motorists in distress, he noted.

"The installation of locater lights on the call boxes hopefully will prove to be an effective means of aiding motorists in locating the emergency telephones at night and during stormy weather," said Schabarum.

School board orders cuts in fuel usage

POMONA — High school students operating driver-training cars and employes driving district-owned vehicles now are traveling at a maximum speed of 55 miles an hour.

This was one of the energy conservation measures adopted Tuesday by the school board.

Another directs that thermostats throughout the district be set at 68 degrees where possible.

Outside security lighting will be kept bright, board members decided, but all unnecessary inside lighting will be eliminated. Lighting in hallways at the district Education Center has been cut 50 per cent.

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services, told board members that administrators still are learning about the energy crisis and are receiving directives from the state and the county.

"We don't know what our next year's gas supply is going to be," said Nichols. "We have our quota through next September, but after that we are uncertain."

Nichols said the district is working closely with natural gas and electricity suppliers and hope to be able to make a 10 per cent cut in the use of energy supplied by these utilities.

Associated Pomona Teachers (APT) have a car pool service for teachers, and students at Garey High School, working under teacher Ginger Friedman, are conducting an employe car pool interest survey.

Nichols told board members that the lunch period for employes of the district Education Center effective Dec. 20, will be cut to 30 minutes and the building closed at 4:30 instead of 5 p.m. in an effort to reduce utility usage.

PEOPLE POWER — They're turning to human powered vehicles in Galveston, not just because of the energy crisis but because it's a fun way to get around. Bike shops report a booming business.

FHA homes found substandard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without criticzing the performance of the Farmers Home Administration's (FHA) present administrator, a House subcommittee has reported "serious deficiencies" in the administration of rural housing programs.

In an initial report on FHA operations, the intergovernmental relations subcommittee reported "clear evidence" of substandard construction and inadequte sewage and water systems in many FHA-financed homes.

The subcommittee said a 1971 review of FHA homes around the country showed that deficiencies in sewage disposal systems "were causing such problems as backing up of sewage into commodes and bathtubs and raw sewage standing on the surface of the ground."

"Water systems were delivering water contaminated with bacteria and unfit for human consumption. Roads and driveways in some subdivisions were found to be unpaved or constructed of a layered oil compound which had completely dissolved in places," the subcommittee said.

Among the construction defects, the panel said, were "buckling roofs, walls pulling apart and sagging houses."

However, the report said the charges should not be construed as criticizing the performance of the present administrator, Frank B. Elliot.

Under the rural housing program, FHA makes loans for purchase or construction of homes to low and moderate income rural residents.

Last of press quits abandoned Capitol

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A 40-year era of the press sharing quarters with the legislature in the historic state Capitol ended today when the last news service, United Press International, moved out of the goldendomed structure.

The legislature has ordered the 104-year-old west wing of the Capitol evacuated by Jan. 1 because of potential earthquake danger. Already, workers have begun sealing the wing with sheetrock, making it like a tomb for the state employe who remain there.

UPI became the last of the print media to abandon the historic Capitol.

Like most other news organizations, UPI moved into private offices in the Park Executive Building about 1 ½ blocks from the home of the California legislature.

Although lawmakers have condemned the old west wing because it might crumble in a moderate earthquake, the Assembly and Senate will continue meeting for general sessions in their century-old chambers when the legislature reconvenes in January.

The 120 lawmakers are willing to risk the danger until new quarters are built. But everyone else was ordered to leave.

State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest has balked. She has a $10 billion reason to remain in the Capitol.

About $10 billion worth of bonds and securities owned by the state, most of them negotiable as cash, are stored in Mrs. Priest's vault.

Reagan administration officials have been unable to find another vault with the same security and capacity of her current one, and Mrs. Priest says she won't move until they do.

Also remaining in the Capitol are Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, Sen. George Moscone and Assemblyman Willie L. Brown, along with two television newsmen.

They all plan to leave before Dec. 31, when the Capitol's huge wooden doors are closed to the public.

For some reporters, leaving the Capitol was a nostalgic event. To Arthur J. Welter Jr., of the San Francisco Examiner, the Capitol had been his office for 36 years, longer than for any other reporter. When Welter recently was cleaning out his desk, he found a sheet of World War II gasoline ration stamps.

Wire service and a few newspapers first assigned fulltime staffs to the Capitol in the 1920s. By the 1930s the legislative beat had become important enough for lawmakers to make Capitol offices available to the press. This past legislative session about 80 newsmen received credentials as full-time Capitol reporters.

The legislators and Reinecke's staff will be moved into the newer east wing of the Capitol, taking over offices of the legislutive counsel, finance experts and security personnel who have been transferred to privately owned buildings.

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The once top secret letters began with "Dear Mr. President" and "Dear Mr. Chairman," and closed with words like "Sincerely," or even "Respectfully."

But in between the salutations were threats and warnings which 11 years later revive the drama and fears of the six tense days when President John F. Kennedy and Premier Nikita Khrushchev clashed over construction of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

Ten letters were exchanged during the missile crisis of October, 1962. The last four—two from each man—were made public at the time, but the seal of secrecy only recently was lifted from the first six.

The crisis actually began about mid-month, when Kennedy was called home from a campaign trip because photographs taken from U.S. spy planes showed work under way on what military experts said could only be a nuclear missile installation in Cuba.

By the weekend of Oct. 21-22, the whole country knew a crisis was brewing in Washington. Anxious citizens in Lafayette Park across the street watched the steady traffic of big black limousines on the curving White House driveway.

The mystery ended—and the suspense began—Oct. 22 when Kennedy went on national television to tell the American people he had ordered a naval "quarantine" of Cuba and had demanded that Russia dismantle the installations and remove the missile components.

One hour earlier he had a letter delivered to the Russian Embassy in Washington and cabled an identical copy to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow for delivery to the Kremlin.

It was important, Kennedy wrote, that Khrushchev understand the will and determination of the United States.

"I have not assumed," he said, "that you or any other sane man would, in this nuclear age, deliberately plunge the world into war which it is crystal clear no country could win and which could only result in catastrophic consequence to the whole world, including the aggressor."

In the letter, which began "Dear Mr. Chairman," and was signed "Sincerely," Kennedy also said: "I hope that your government will refrain from any action which would widen or deepen this already grave crisis."

The Khrushchev reply, received the following morning, was addressed "Mr. President," and was signed only with the name "N. Khrushchev." It acknowledged both the note and Kennedy's speech of the night before, and said:

"I must say frankly that measures indicated in your statement constitute a serious threat to peace and to the security of nations ...

"We reaffirm that the armaments which are in Cuba, regardless of the classification to which they belong, are intended solely for defensive purposes in order to secure the Republic of Cuba against the attack of an aggressor. I hope the United States Government will display wisdom and renounce the actions pursued by you, which may lead to catastrophic consequences for world peace."

Kennedy's reply, sent the same day, was brief and curt: "I think you will recognize that the step which started the current chain of events was the action of your Government in secretly furnishing offensive weapons to Cuba. We will be discussing this matter in the Security Council. In the meantime, I am concerned that we both show prudence and do nothing to allow events to make the situation more difficult to control than it already is.

"I hope you will issue immediately the necessary instructions to your ships to observe the terms of the quarantine ... which will go into effect at 1400 hours Greenwich time Oct. 24." It was signed "Sincerely."

The Defense Department estimated that at that time, about 25 Soviet and satellite supply ships were heading for Cuba. Within the next few hours, 12 of them — presumably those carrying key militarly equipment—changed course to await the outcome of the feverish diplomatic activity.

The next Khrushchev letter, received on the morning of the 24th, was the one some White House sources at the time described as "hysterical," according to press reports.

It was long (almost 1,000 words), rambling and repetitive, liberally sprinkled with exclamation points and question marks. It had somewhat the tone of an elder scolding a hotheaded youngster. The formal diplomatic language of all of the other letters temporarily was abandoned, as he asked Kennedy to visualize his reaction if the positions were reversed:

"Imagine, Mr. President, that we had presented you with the conditions of an ultimatum which you have presented us by your action. How would you have reacted to this? I think that you would have been indignant at such a step on our part ...

"You, Mr. President, are not declaring a quarantine but rather are setting forth an ultimatum and threatening that if we do not give in to your demands you will use force! consider what you are saying! And you wish to convince me to agree to this! ...

"This would mean to guide oneself in one's relations with other countries not by reason but to indulge arbitrariness. You are no longer appealing to reason, but wish to intimidate us ...

"You wish to compel us to renounce the rights that every soverign state enjoys, you are trying to legislate in questions of international law, and you are violating the universally accepted norms of that law. And you are doing all this not only out of hatred for the Cuban people ... but also because of considerations of the election campaign in the United States.

"What morality, what law can justify such an approach by the American Government to international affairs? If you coolly weigh the situation which has developed, not giving way to passions, you will understand that the Soviet Union cannot fail to reject the arbitrary demands of the United States ...

"The Soviet Government considers that the violation of the freedom to use international waters and air space is an act of aggression which pushes mankind toward the abys of a world nuclear-missile war . . .

Naturally, we will not simply be bystanders with regard to piratical acts by American ships on the high seas. We will then be forced on our part to take the measures we consider necessary and adequate in order to protect our rights. For this we have all that is necessary."

This letter was signed "Respectfully yours."

Kennedy, who was closeted almost around-the-clock with his brother Robert and top administration and congressional advisers, wrote a reply delivered in Moscow at 1:59 a.m. Oct. 25. The tone was softer:

"I regret very much that you still do not appear to understand what it is that has moved us in this matter ... In August there were reports of important shipments of military equipment and technicians from the Soviet Union to Cuba. In early September I indicated very plainly that the United States would regard any shipment of offensive weapons as presenting the gravest issues.

"After that time, this Government received the most explicit assurances from your Government and its representatives, both publicly and privately, that no offensive weapons were being sent to Cuba ...

"In reliance on these solemn assurances I urged restraint upon those in this country who were urging action in this matter at that time. And then I learned beyond doubt what you have not denied—namely, that all these public assurances were false and that your military people had set out recently to establish a set of missile bases in Cuba. I ask you to recognize clearly, Mr. Chairman, that it was not I who issued the first challenge in this case, and that in the light of this record these activities in Cuba required the responses I have announced.

"I repeat my regret that these events should cause a deterioration in our relations. I hope that your government will take the necessary action to permit a restoration of the earlier situation."

It was signed "Sincerely Yours," and was a turning point. By then, U Thant, secretary general of the U.N., urged a cooling off period during which both great powers would back off a bit and negotiate their differences.

Krushchev's next letter, Oct. 26, was the longest of the exchange. It urged acceptance of Thant's plea and it said that from Kennedy's most recent letter he had gotten "the feeling that you have some understanding of the situation which has developed and a sense of responsibility."

"I appreciate this," he added, and said that from then on the communications should be made public—continuing to exchange views "in the form of secret letters probably would not add anything..." He spoke of the need for peace, and said, "War is our enemy and a calamity for all nations."

He acknowledged that both nations were fully capable of destroying not only each other but most of mankind as well, and said it was up to the leaders to avoid "lightheadedness and petty passions."

The basis for settlement of the crisis was offered and, essentially, soon accepted when he said: "If assurances were given by the President and the Government of the United States that the USA itself would not participate in an attack on Cuba and would restrain others from actions of this sort, if you would recall your fleet, this would immediately change everything.

The question of armaments would then also be obviated, because when there is no threat, armaments are only a burden for any people . . . I have . . . introduced a proposal to disband all armies and to destroy all weapons. How then can I stake my claims on these weapons now? Armaments bring only disasters . . .

"Let us therefore display statesmanlike wisdom. I propose: We, for our part, will declare that our ships bound for Cuba are not carrying any armaments. You will declare that the United States will not invade Cuba . . . and will not support any other forces which might intend to invade Cuba . . ."

"Mr. President, I appeal to you to weigh carefully what the aggressive, piratical actions which you have announced the United States intends to carry out in international waters would lead to. You yourself know that a sensible person simply cannot agree to this, cannot recognize your right to such action."

"If you have done this as the first step towards unleashing war — well then — evidently nothing remains for us to do but to accept this challenge of yours. If you have not lost command of yourself and realize clearly what this could lead to, then, Mr. President, you and I should not now pull on the ends of the rope in which you have tied a knot of war, because the harder you and I pull, the tighter this knot will become. And a time may come when this knot is tied so tight that the person who tied it is no longer capable of untying it, and then the knot will have to be cut. What that would mean I need not explain to you . . .

Therefore, if there is no intention of tightening this knot, thereby dooming the world to the catastrophe of thermonuclear war, let us not only relax the forces straining on the ends of the rope, let us take measures for untying this knot. We are agreeable to this."

Instead of replying directly, Kennedy acknowledged the essential acceptance of the terms in a wire to Thant. The next day, the 27th, Khrushchev "went public" with another letter to Kennedy which was broadcast on Moscow radio.

He recognized Kennedy's "reasonable" approach to Thant and said "it persuades me that you are showing solicitude for the preservation of peace."

It was in this letter that Khrushchev for the first time mentioned the presence of U.S. missiles in Turkey. It is now generally accepted that those intermediate range missiles were removed under the terms of a private addendum to the agreement, although it was not formally acknowledged in any of the correspondence.

"You are worried over Cuba," Khrushchev said. "You say that it worries you because it lies at a distance of 90 miles across the sea from the shores of the United States. However, Turkey lies next to us. Our sentinels are pacing up and down and watching each other. Do you believe that you have the right to demand security for your country and the removal of such weapons that you qualify as offensive, while not recognizing this right for us? You have stationed devastating rocket weapons, which you call offensive, in Turkey literally right next to us ... This does not tally at all."

On Oct. 28, Kennedy restated his willingness to pledge no attack on Cuba, and the following day Khrushchev announced that he had issued "a new order to dismantle the weapons ... and to crate and return them to the Soviet Union."

The small crowd of anxious citizens left Lafayette Park. The lights in the War Room were dimmed. The world took a deep breath.

Ontario boy beaten over rusty chain

ONTARIO — A 13-year-old bicyclist was kicked and beaten by three youths who — claimed that he had stolen an old rusty bicycle chain he had found lying in the 1400 block of I Street.

The boy, Charles C. Whitefield of Ontario, told police that he was riding his bicycle on Benson Avenue near H Street Wednesday when he saw the two-foot long chain lying on the road. He said he picked up the chain, put it on his shoulder and rode off towards I Street. The youth said he heard a car stop behind him. Three youths got out, one of them pushed him off his bike and began kicking him saying he had stolen their chain said Whitefield. He said the three were between 16 and 18.

Whitefield said he got up and ran towards the Don Menke residence at 1447 W. I Street and crashed into the door with one of his assailants behind him. He said the man hit him in the face and then ran off when Menke, startled by the noise, came to the door.

Menke told police he saw a man run around the side of his house and disappear and the boy, cut and bruised lying on his doorway.

Police said the boy's assailants took the chain.

O-M district to plug communications gap

ONTARIO — Based on results of an administration study showing the need for improved telephone service in the district, the Ontario-Montclair school board Thursday authorized calling for bids for lease-purchase of new telephone equipment.

In its report, the administration showed how a new system using an intra-district set up exclusive of the public line could increase efficiency by as much as 35 per cent, and do so at an added minimal charge to the district.

In calling for the bids, however, the board instructed that the plan be used as a guide for bidders, but at the same time allowing for "acceptable alternate proposals."

The administration has been investigating a new telephone system for the past three months as a result of its concern over the inadequacy of the present system.

The board had delayed action until now, requesting more information be supplied concerning the need for improved telecommunications.

To meet the board's request, the administration undertook a survey of telephone usage throughout the district during the week of Nov. 26-30.

Basically, the survey showed that nearly 35 per cent of all calls in the district are made between schools and the district offices, and that an intra-communications system to handle these calls would free the public line of a "great portion" of its present load.

Such a set-up would require a new automatic switchboard plus the addition of one station per school. The cost involved would be about 12 per cent greater than the amount ($2.442.22) the district is now paying each month.

The administration made proposals for six systems in its report, the latter being the one which the board felt could meet the district's objective of securing better service at the smallest cost.

At the present time, all calls must go through a manually-operated switchboard at the district headquarters.

In other business, the board authorized the purchase of a Basic-Four electronic data processing system which will help manage business and office material in "an orderly and adequate manner." The cost of the machine will be $39,401.25, including maintenance charges for the first-year.

Gunman robs Upland shop

UPLAND —A man armed with a .38 caliber revolver robbed the Town and Country Cleaners of a small amount of cash Wednesday afternoon, police reported.

Police said the robber, with a woman's red pants suit over his arm, walked into the cleaning establishment at 962 N. Second Ave., and confronted the clerk, Shirley Larson. Showing a revolver under the pants suit, the robber ordered Mrs. Larson to give him the money from the cash register. The robber fled.

The robber was described as a Caucasian, 35, 5 feet 7, 170 pounds with wire-rimmed sunglasses.

They mail litter back in Utah town

CEDAR CITY, Utah (UPI) — If you drive through this small southern Utah town, you'd better not litter.

You might get your trash back—in the mail.

A band of youth groups started mailing back litter as part of a civic beautification program during the summer and intends to intensify the mail campaign next year.

Most of the returned materials were envelopes, check stubs, bills of sale and other items with names on them.

But a youngster who saw some neighbors tossing paper cups out of their car mailed them back, and a motorist from Page, Ariz., got back the cigarette butts and ashes he dumped on main street from his car ash tray.

Alene Chamberlain, who directed the "community pride" program for 420 youngsters belonging to various youth groups in this city of 12,000, said local police cooperated by tracing down the license plate numbers of litterers.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who has six children of her own and is a former 4-H adult leader, wrote a "gentle reminder" that littering was illegal and unsightly to accompany the returned trash. Each letter also included a litter bag.

"It was a nice little letter, very kind and completely positive," she said. "It wasn't insulting, but a gentle reminder that littering is a misdemeanor and they shouldn't do it again."

Only one litter recipient sent a reply—a Mormon Church from a nearby town which thanked the youngsters for returning a Sunday school membership list, which fell more into the lost category than litter.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who worked with the youth groups— Boy and Girl Scouts, 4-H clubs, Candy Stripers, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers, Nite clubs and others—under a civic pride program co-sponsored by Utah State University and Standard Oil of California, said more litter wasn't lettered because of the cost. It took about 20 cents to mail back the average load.

She said she hoped to obtain more funding next year, since the program had a good psychological effect locally and was "a lot of fun" for the youngsters who took part.

"The whole thing was psychological—reminding people not to litter and getting them to think and talk about it. And it worked. People came up to me and said, 'Good grief! I'm going to watch what I drop out of the car. I'd be too embarrassed if I got litter in the mail."

The beautification program, boxes placed on downtown streets, convinced Mrs. Chamberlain that adults were the worst litterers.

"You could tell it was adults by what you picked up,' she said.

"Littering is an attitude. People who are really conscious of it don't do it. We're trying to develop an attitude and that takes time."

That's why her litter brigade will be back on watch—ready to pick up discarded trash and mail it back to the litterer — next year, hopefully with a little more money for postage.

Legislator sees rise in jobless rate

SAN FRANCISCO UPI) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., said recently that unemployment would grow because of power cutbacks but "sometimes we have to take something bad to avoid taking something worse."

Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee and a congressman for 23 terms also told a bankers' seminar that President Nixon's attempts at solving the energy problem were "a good start."

The "spirit of the people" was behind programs to reduce energy use but the Nixon administration and Congress must take steps to keep wages and prices from getting out of hand, the lawmaker said.

Patman also said the economy could be kept in balance if interest rates were lowered, especially housing and consumer rates.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Honk twice at fuel-wasters

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — A St. Louis group recommends that motorists honk twice at other drivers exceeding 50 miles an hour.

Arthur Moore, president of the Midwest Gateway Chapter of the Recreational Vehicle Dealers of America, said, "We feel that two beeps of the horn directed toward offenders is a proper censure to remind the offender of the waste of our resources."

Family accepts cat; he's disappointment

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We were tricked into accepting a year-old cat. We've never had one before and never wanted one. We are both avid bird watchers and somehow having a cat didn't seem compatible. George was given to us — actually forced on us — with the solemn assurance that he wouldn't chase birds because he had been castrated. You can imagine our horror, then, when he came home one day (after we were hopelessly attached to him) with a feather in his whiskers! We immediately checked him out, or a friend did, who assured us that George had been fixed. Now what can we do about this? What a terrible situation! —D.B.

Dear D.B.: Well, George may be an innocent victim of circumstantial evidence. He might even have acquired that feather trying to rescue a bird from some other cat. (Admittedly, that WOULD be unusual.) George's surgery? Well, undoubtedly it has reduced his hunting for fascinating, furry, "flaming," feamle felines. It would not, unfortunately, diminish any consuming interest he might have toward any of your feathered friends. You could reduce his inclination in this direction to some degree by keeping him inside from dawn to dusk and making sure he is well fed before he does leave home. The only way you could be sure he would never hunt birds would be to make him an inside-only cat.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What is coon dog paralysis and what causes it? —E..K

Dear E.K.: (Coon dog) paralysis is a rapidly progressing type of paralysis in which the dog loses the ability to walk. These are usually field dogs and most recover within four to six weeks providing they have good care and supportive treatment. The name of the disease stems from one theory as to cause which holds that a wound caused by a raccoon may lead to complex nerve cell changes resulting in paralysis. Anotheer theory is that the paralysis is caused by nerve damage from botulism poisoning. Some feel there may be viral involvement. To my knowledge, the answer is not yet clarified.

DEAR DR. MILLER: He loves it so. Is there any harm in giving my parakeet a bite or two of canned asparagus spears? —E.V.

Dear E.V: No.

State offering pamphlet on consumer tips

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A pamphlet giving consumers tips on how to protect themselves against deceptive or fraudulent practices in the repair of electronic appliances has been issued by the state Consumer Affairs Department.

The pamphlet, titled "Consumer Guide to Repair Services for Electronic Equipment and Appliances," provides tips on appliance service and lists associations and organizations which might assist consumers in addition to suggestions on how to avoid being bilked.

The booklet also points out that the average cost of maintaining a color TV set in top condition could cost as much as $100 per year after the warranty expires.

It also says a quarter of all service calls would be unnecessary if plugs, fuses, pilots and controls were checked first.

The department Tuesday said copies were available in English and Spanish by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Repair Services Guide, Box 310, Sacramento, Calif. 95802.

Firm sees slowdown

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UPI) — Fuel shortages will force a slowdown or shutdown of some company facilities early next year, top officials of Weyerhaeuser Co. predicted here.

Harry Morgan, senior vice president for operations, said there will be "some kind of shutdown or slowdown in 1974" because the company will get only 72 per cent of the fuel it needs.

Neither he nor company president George Weyerhaeuser would predict what the fuel shortage would mean in terms of reduced employment for the Tacoma-based wood products firm, which employes 40,000 persons.

Both said, however, they believe the wood products industry might be able to regain some markets lost to aluminum and plastics, which require more power than wood products.

Weyerhaeuser said fuel allocation should take into consideration importance of industrial production and employment. He said the fuel operations, which employe about 2,400 persons.

Search for American MIAs in Indochina appears exhausted

BANGKOK (UPI) — Search teams will soon have exhausted the number of places where they can actively seek answers to the fate of American servicemen still missing in Indochina, officials said today.

This means that operations to locate air crash sites and conduct inquiries in other areas where more than 1,200 GIs are listed as missing will likely halt in the near future.

The two things standing in the way of further searches are continued fighting and lack of cooperation by the Communists in areas they control.

Searches for missing GIs are the responsibility of the Joint Casualty Resolution Center (JCRC), based at Thailand's remote Nakhon Phanom Air Base, which is also the nerve center for continued U.S. air activity in Southeast Asia.

The unit has several field teams made up of technical experts and U.S. Army special forces who are used to operating is inaccessible jungle areas. So far, the teams have recovered 28 bodies, all from areas of South Vietnam under Saigon's influence. Of these, positive identification has been made in 10 cases.

According to military sources here, the search teams soon will be out of business. In anticipation, the JCRC is already operating at about 15 per cent under its assigned manpower strength of about 175 men. However, officials say they could quickly bring in reinforcements from a special forces unit based on Okinawa if the situation changed rapidly.

The prospect for such a change in the near future is doubtful at best, according to informed military sources. Fighting is still going on in areas of Cambodia and South Vietnam where more than 400 GI's were reported missing.

North Vietnam, where about 430 American servicemen were missing during the years of U.S. involvement in the Indochina war, has so far refused to cooperate. The communists in Laos have also so far declined to help in finding out what happened to the approximately 360 men, most of them airmen, missing there.

However, officers said the JCRC has been successful in unearthing much previously unreported information about the missing GI's.

Much of the data has been provided by American prisoners returned by the Communists last spring. The JCRC has used a giant computer complex at Nakhon Phanom that once pinpointed bombing targets along the Ho Chi Minh supply route to cross-check and match up the accounts.

Based on this technique, officials said, it has been definitely established that 121 men previously listed as missing were killed.

Recommendations by the JCRC that the status of another 253 missing men be changed to killed in action as a result of the recent information have been stalled by a court case currently under way in New York in which a family of a missing man refused to accept the Defense Department's new judgement he was dead, military sources said.

Sparkling holiday punch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Make a sparkling holiday punch. Place a block of ice in your punch bowl. Add one fifth each of cognac, pale sherry, sauterne and two quarts of champagne. Sweeten with sugar or syrup. Garnish with thinly sliced lemons and limes and stir only enough to chill the punch quickly.

Too much stirring reduces the bubbles from the champagne.

FOR ALL YOU REALTORS WHO CALLED US INFLEXIBLE AND UNFRIENDLY, WE HAVE JUST ONE WORD.

It all started a few months ago when we asked our customers a few questions about their attitudes on title insurance in general and Title Insurance and Trust specifically.

Some of the answers shook us up a little.

Sure, our leadership was secure in terms of size, experience and technical resources. But mixed in with the praise were some disturbing comments.

Only few responses were critical. But enough to start us doing something about it.

First off we're opening fully staffed TI offices in the San Gabriel Valley, West Los Angeles, South Bay.

Next we placed greater emphasis on our title information service. And we know that added emphasis has been successful, because last month alone our title information center handled more than 12,000 requests from you.

And while we were processing those 12,000 requests for information, our radio-controlled messenger service made more than 25,000 pick-ups and deliveries. And that closed deals. And produced commissions.

And to those of you who brought that on by telling us we didn't care, we've got just one word. Thanks.

Ruskin maxim good advice

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Ruskin said, "The work of science is to substitute facts for appearances." Winning bridge players should follow Ruskin's maxim.

The eight of diamonds was played from dummy at trick one. East played the queen and South won with the ace.

It appeared certain that West held the ten of diamonds so South proceeded to draw trumps and lead a diamond toward dummy. When West followed low South stuck to the nine whereupon East proceeded to take his two diamond tricks.

If South had remembered Ruskin's dictum he would have cashed four clubs in order to get rid of one of his diamonds before playing that suit. Then he would come to his hand with a trump; lead a diamond; stick in dummy's nine; be a little upset when "dat old devil" East produced the ten, but not really damaged.

East would only be able to take one diamond trick and eventually South would take the heart finesse and make his contract.

South's precautionary measure of taking the diamond discard would have been unnecessary in view of the fact it appeared to be. It became necessary in viw of the fact that East, not West held the card.

AT GAMES: (Q.) I am in the high-school band and at games I can't sit with my girl friend. I think she is sitting with somebody else during that time.

Do you think if I asked her about it she would get mad? —Suspicious in South Carolina.

(A.) If it matters that much to you, ask her. It is much better to know the truth than to let suspicion gnaw at you.

Remember this, though: It is lonesome to go somewhere you are supposed to have fun and then sit all by yourself. Also: Unless you and she have a definite agreement not to do such things, she has a full right to do what you are afraid she is doing.

CUTTER: (Q.) What do you do about someone who goes around cutting everybody down? Right to their faces! She and I are in a group of girl friends, and she has a magnetic personality except for this one habit.

Everyone in our group has at one time or another mentioned this practice of hers, and still the cutdowns continue. —Victim in Virginia.

(A.) Perhaps your friend is a very honest individual who feels obligated to say what she thinks.

A magnetic personality can sometimes do things like this less painfully than an average human being.

Try to be tolerant. But if she is too obnoxious for you, make a decision that her friendship is not worth the bluntness it entails.

A PERFECT FIT

Dick Williams seems to like his new uniform after signing three-year contract to manage the New York Yankees. Now it remains to be seen what Oakland A's owner Charlie Finley does.

Walton, Burleson clash

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Last March 26 at the St. Louis Arena big Bill Walton did it all—sank 21-of-22 shots, pulled down 13 rebounds and scored a career high 44 points to lead the UCLA Bruins to their seventh straight NCAA basketball title.

Walton called the victory over Memphis state his greatest game. He was on top of the world—the foremost player on the team that had won a record 75 games in a row and had dominated college basketball for 10 years.

Saturday, the 6-foot-11 senior returns to the scene of the crime, but this time he'll have someone to look up to—7-4 Tommy Burleson, who will try to offset the UCLA power and lead the Wolfpack of North Carolina State to victory in the basketball battle of the year.

Burleson, 6-foot-4 forward David Thompson and little playmaker Monte Towe helped put together a 27-game winning streak for the Wolfpack last year but were kept from their dream showdown with the Bruins at the NCAA championship tournament because of recruiting violations.

After those finals UCLA agreed to meet North Carolina State at the neutral site midway between the two bastions of basketball power. A 78-game streak against a 29game streak—something has to give.

Wolfpack Coach Norm Sloan says he is ready for the big, bad Bruins, even though he hasn't scouted them in person. He watched on television as the Bruins scrambled for a onepoint victory, 65-64, over Maryland two weeks ago but was neither encouraged nor discouraged by the close game with the other top power in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

John Wooden, in his 26th year at the helm of the UCLA squad, said his Bruins shot poorly against the Terps and weren't able to put their pressing defense to good use.

Walton, smooth forward Keith Wilkes and Dave Meyers will lead the Bruins up front against the wide-open, free-wheeling, playground style of basketball that has become a North Carolina State trademark. Wooden hopes that backcourt man Greg Lee can use his uncanny sense of timing to feed Walton those basket-high lobs that Walton stuffed in against Memphis State last March and thwart any plans by Burleson to hamper Walton's style.

Sloan realizes the importance of the game, and both he and Wooden agree that the Wolfpack has more to gain than the Bruins—namely the top spot in the weekly ratings. "We're not saying anything," he said. "I look on it like a fun game, like a bowl."

Did Finley release Williams?

Baseball studies TV tapes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now it's baseball that may have a great tapes controversy.

The question at hand is did Oakland owner Charlie Finley verbally release Dick Williams from the final two years of his contract on national TV on Oct. 21?

That could become the legal issue if Finley decides to take the New York Yankees to court after they broke a two-month stalemate Thursday by signing Williams to a three-year contract as their manager.

Williams claims Finley released him on national TV shortly after the Oakland A's beat the New York Mets in the seventh game of the World Series. Finley disagrees.

The hassle might be decided by a court's interpretation of the video tapes of the short TV conversation. NBC-TV, which broadcast the series, has the video tapes of the exact conversation.

According to an NBC spokesman who checked the tapes, the conversation went like this:

Finley: "even though you're not going to be with us next year, I want to thank you for the great job you've done for the three years you've been with us."

Williams: "thank you Charlie very much and I'm going to miss not being with you but I've made a decision and I'm going to stay with it."

Did that conversation constitute a release by Finley? That could be up to the courts to settle.

Finley has threatened to sue if the Yanks signed Williams without giving him compensation. And he's rejected the offers the Yanks have made so far.

But at his LaPorte, Ind. home Thursday after he was notified of the Yankees' action, Finley refused to say what his next move will be. He said the Yanks, "decided to make a fast move" but added he'd "prefer to stay mum this time."

Of course, the whole issue still could be settled by negotiations without a court fight.

Joe Cronin, the American League president who refused to comment on the Yanks' action, has scheduled a meeting next Wednesday in Boston to try one more time to resolve the issue. Cronin also has a meeting on Tuesday on the Detroit-New York situation.

The Tigers became involved when they signed Ralph Houk, who resigned on the final day of the season as Yankee manager, as their manager in October. Once Finley refused to release Williams, the Yanks brought up the issue of Houk since he had two years left on his Yankee contract.

The Tigers point out they signed Houk even before Williams resigned and they insist they're not involved.

Both Williams and Gabe Paul, the Yankee president, refused to discuss the legal questions involved in the controversy.

"I feel in my mind I'm a free agent," Williams said, "I checked it out with my lawyer to make sure I was free to negotiate. I also talked with attorneys for the Yankees."

Asked why he felt he was a free agent, Williams said, "I can't answer that question. I don't care to discuss that now." Williams' attorney, John Remsen, also refused to comment. The Yankee attorneys also refused comment.

"Your job is to ask questions and my job is not to answer them," one attorney said.

Paul said, "those are legal matters and I'm not a lawyer. I can't answer legal questions. I've taken this step and I'll live with it."

Paul said he took the action because, "we have waited long enough. Our club felt it was in the best interests of the Yankees to sign Williams as its manager."

Williams said Paul first contacted him at his Florida home Friday night. Williams flew to New York Saturday for a preliminary conversation and then returned Wednesday to make the final agreement.

Williams said he had made no decisions on his coaching staff yet (his Oakland coaches still have a year left on their contracts) and hasn't really studied the team yet.

But he said, "there are two things I believe in, 100 per cent hustle or as they usually say now 110 per cent hustle and don't make mental mistakes. The club will be well versed in fundamentals. In fact, they'll be coming out of their ears."

PCAA title race for second place

By United Press International

That should be a great basketball race this season in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association—for second place.

Although Fresno State and UC Santa Barbara are unbeaten and Pacific has just lost one, the Long Beach State 49ers again have one of the nation's top teams.

The 49ers, rated 12th and apparently ready to move up, won at tough Canisius 94-82 Thursday with Roscoe Pondexter hitting 20 and Leonard Gray 18. Those two muscular veterans and Roscoe's 6-foot-8 freshman brother Clifton give the 49ers a front line that would be unbeatable in a street brawl and is nearly as tough on a court.

UC Santa Barbara, meanwhile, entertained Wyoming and made it 4-for-4 in a 91-67 romp with Greg Bell scoring 20. The Gauchos will find out if they're for real when they go against rugged Nevada-Las Vegas in their next game.

Fresno State watched a 20-point lead vanish but held on for a 57-55 win over Colorado State, its fifth without a setback. Charles Bailey was the whole show as he hit 29 for the winners.

But while the PCAA quintets roll impressively, WCAC favorite USF is having its problems.

The Dons saw their record fall to 1-3 with a 76-57 loss at eighth-ranked Providence although Phil Smith hit 18 for the Dons. But San Jose State, now 4-1, upheld WCAC prestige with a 92-66 win at South Dakota. Pete Miller and Eric Saulny scored 14 each for the Spartans, who hit 52 per cent of their shots.

One team that appears to be outgunned in the PCAA, San Diego State, saw its record slump to 1-3 with a 95-78 loss at Oral Roberts. John Anderson led the losers with 18.

Elsewhere, Mike Savage scored 24 to lead Redlands over Southern California College 67-60, 17th-ranked Arizona had trouble putting away Idaho 101-80, Northridge lost to Weber State 73-67 and San Francisco State fell at Youngstown 81-64 as freshman Anthony Mitchell had 40 for the hosts.

Portland State, led by Charles Channel's 18 second half points, downed Wheaton 84-73 and Pacific (Ore.) took Western Washington 72-62.

In games tonight, Santa Clara is at USC while Oregon and Washington are in the Jayhawk Classic in Lawrence, Kan.

Chuck Knox still gives usual advance warning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Chuck Knox, ostensibly secure with his Los Angeles Rams already assured of a playoff spot, still is sounding his usual pregame warning.

Knox will not talk about the Super Bowl but is concentrating on the Cleveland Browns, last regular season foe this Sunday at the Coliseum.

The Rams, 11-2, are champions of the NFC West and Knox wants to win one more for the best record in the history of the team. The best Ram record so far was in 1967, when Los Angeles was 11-1-2 under George Allen. Allen's 1969 team won its first 11 games, then dropped three.

"We want to beat Cleveland," said Knox Thursday. "That team has a lot of pride and great tradition. It doesn't matter whether they're in the race or not. We're going to have play topnotch football to beat them."

Knox will open with his usual starters which means John Hadl at quarterback, Harold Jackson and Jack Snow as wide receivers and up-front blockers such as Tom Mack and Charlie Cowan.

Running backs will be Jim Bertelsen and rookie Lawrence McCutcheon who has gained 1,014 yards, only the third Ram runner in history to go over one grand.

Against the Browns, he may top Dick Bass's club record of 1,090, needing only 76 to tie it.

Four NFL teams in do-or-die spot

By United Press International

On the final weekend of the National Football League's regular season, the situation for playoff berths is as simple as A, B, C and D.

Atlanta, Buffalo and Cleveland must win to remain in the running for wild card berths. Denver must win to gain their division title. If any of the four lose or tie they are out of the playoffs.

Five teams, however, would be willing to settle for a tie. If Cincinnati and Pittsburgh either win or tie they clinch playoff berths, one as the AFC Central champion, the other as the wild card entry. If both win, the Bengals are the division champs and the Steelers the wild card. If both tie, the Steelers are division winners and the Bengals are wild card.

Oakland will clinch the AFC West title with a victory or tie against Denver. Washington and Dallas, both with 9-4 records in the NFC East, can nail down playoff spots with victories or ties.

Only three teams—Minnesota (NFC Central), Los Angeles (NFC West) and Miami (AFC East)—have clinched division championships.

It's all so simple.

Saturday's matchups are Pittsburgh at San Francisco and Detroit at Miami. Sunday, Denver is at Oakland, Cincinnati is at Houston, New England is at Baltimore, San Diego is at Kansas City, Dallas is at St. Louis, Philadelphia is at Washington, Cleveland is at Los Angeles, New Orleans is at Atlanta, Buffalo is at the New York Jets, Minnesota is at the New York Giants and Green Bay is at Chicago.

Terry Bradshaw will be back in the starting quarterback slot for Pittsburgh after returning to the lineup last week and hitting 11 of 20 passes for 117 yards in the Steelers' 33-7 romp over Houston. Bradshaw had been out since Oct. 28 with a shoulder separation.

Two Miami backs, Mercury Morris and Larry Csonka will be attempting to break the 1,000-yard rushing mark against Detroit in a game that means nothing as far as the playoffs go. Morris, with 954 yards, will be trying for his second straight 1,000-yard season while Csonka will looking for his third straight.

But in the individual department Sunday, the focus will be on O.J. Simpson's attack against Jim Brown's season rushing record of 1,863 set in 1963. Simpson, who gained 219 yards last week in Buffalo's 37-13 triumph over New England, needs only 61 yards this week as the Bills hope to stay in contention against the New York Jets, who may be playing without Joe Namath.

Jim Sweeney to stay at Washington State

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State football coach Jim Sweeney will remain at WSU next season.

Sweeney, who just completed his sixth season at Washington State, had been mentioned in connection with coaching vacancies at New Mexico and Iowa.

"I have made my decision to stay at Washington State," Sweeney said Thursday. "My discussions with university officials, including President Glenn Terrell and Athletic Director Ray Nagel, have caused me to reevaluate my commitment to WSU.

"Foremost in this decision is my commitment to the goals which have inspired the present student athletes to enroll at WSU. The confidence displayed in our football program through good and bad times would be impossible to duplicate anywhere else.

"The projection of Cougar football is an optimistic one," Sweeney said. "Our staff has brought the program to a position of prominence in the athletic administration, and has given me great reinforcement for a sound projection."

Sweeney came to WSU from Montana State in 1968. He posted his best record in 1972, when he was 7-4. The Cougars were 5-6 last season when they played a schedule that included four teams that will be appearing in post-season bowl games.

Sweeney's sweeps of local rivals Oregon, Oregon State, Washington and Idaho the last two seasons was a first for WSU.

The Cougar coach and his family will leave for San Francisco where he will be the head coach for the West team in the East-West Shrine football game Dec. 29.

Temple City goes after fourth title tonight at MSAC

WALNUT — Temple City High, seeking its fourth consecutive CIF football championship, takes on North High of Riverside tonight at 8 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College in the 2-A football championship game.

The Rams, under head coach Robert Hitchcock, will enter the game tonight with an 11-1 record as compared to North's identical 11-1 mark.

Temple City will be led by running back Rick Brown, who was placed on the All-CIF team last year. The defending 2-A champions, who were the Rio Hondo League champions this year, were top-seeded again this season in 2-A competition.

In other games tonight, Monrovia seeks the 3-A title against Crescenta Valley at Ctirus College and Los Altos goes after the 4-A championship against Crespi at the Los Angeles Coliseum. All games at 8 p.m.

Imperial will host Paso Robles Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. for the 1-A championship.

Crescenta Valley was the team which defeated Pomona in the opening round of this year's playoff, 25-0, while North was the team which downed Royal Oak in the opening round, 34-14.

Los Altos will be going for its second consecutive CIF football title tonight. The Conquerors captured the 3-A title last year.

USES HIS HEAD — Rogie Vachon, goalie for the Los Angeles Kings, really 'uses his head' to prevent an Islander score Thursday night.

Widing paces Kings to win against N.Y.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Juha Widing got Los Angeles untracked with a second period goal, then assisted on Mike Corrigan's third period clincher Thursday night as the Kings posted a 3-2 win over the New York Islanders.

Widing, who became the Kings' all-time scoring leader Tuesday night, was playing only his second game since missing seven with a dislocated shoulder.

The blond center broke a scoreless tie with 6:48 gone in the middle period when he slapped a 35-footer past ex-King goalie Gerry Desjardins. The goal and assist gave Whiting 217 points as a King.

Corrigan rebounded a Widing shot a minute and a half into the last period to score the second goal for the Kings. Then 1:42 later Frank St. Marseilles made it 3-0 when he took a perfect pass on a breakaway from Mike Murphy to ram in a five-footer, the decider.

Chicago Bulls' Dick Motta doesn't mind being behind

By United Press International

Dick Motta wasn't really worried. Well, maybe just a little.

The Chicago Bulls' coach saw his team trailing the Milwaukee Bucks 82-73 with 10 minutes left to play Thursday night.

"That's a little more than I like," said Motta. "Usually, I like my team to be down six points with six minutes left. I know it sounds funny but if you watch us at all you'll see we're a better team coming from behind."

Despite the nine point deficit, the Bulls rallied for a 97-94 victory before a sellout crowd of 10,938 at the Milwaukee Arena to extend their winning streak to six games and snap the Bucks' 10-game winning skein. The triumph also moved Chicago to within 1½ games of first place Milwaukee in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division.

In the only other game, Portland beat Phoenix 119-108.

"This was a big game for us because we're always second to Milwaukee," said Bulls' guard Jerry Sloan. "Everybody thinks they're better than we are except our guys. It'll give us a lift knowing we can beat them here in this madhouse."

Chet Walker led the Bulls in scoring with 26 points while Bob Love and Norm Van Lier each chipped in with 24. It was Sloan's field goal with 1:47 remaining that snapped a 92-92 tie and put Chicago in front for good.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar topped the Bucks with 23 points and Milwaukee coach Larry Costello expressed displeasure over his team's showing.

"I thought we lost our cool tonight, especially when they got the lead late in the game," said Costello. "We took some bad shots and we threw the ball away a couple of times."

Geoff Petrie scored 25 points, sinking 11 of 19 field goal attempts, and Sidney Wicks added 24 for Portland as the Trail Blazers retained sole possession of third place in the Pacific Division.

Charlie Scott paced the Suns with 32 points in the roughly played contest that saw five technical fouls called and the ejection of Portland center Rick Roberson. Roberson was tossed out in the third period after throwing a punch at Phoenix center Neal Walk. Walk returned later after treatment for a cut on his nose.

USC cagers open long home stand

LOS ANGELES — Bob Boyd's University of Southern California basketball team opens a four game "home stand" at the Sports Arena this weekend with games tonight and Saturday night against Santa Clara and Arizona State.

Both varsity games begin at 8 p.m. and will be preceded by junior varsity games at 5:45 p.m. Tonight's opponent for the Trojan jayvees is Cal State Northridge while Saturday's foe is Mira Costa College.

It's Trojan Tee Shirt Night on Saturday and all youngsters 16 and under will receive free Trojan Basketball Tee Shirts as they enter the Sports Arena.

The Trojans are 2-1 on the season after a split last week on the road, losing at Utah and winning at Illinois. Santa Clara is 2-1 and Arizona State has a 3-1 record, including a 71-66 win over Kansas State last weekend. The loss ended a 24-game home court win streak for the Sun Devils.

USC holds a 17-7 and 9-2 series advantage over their weekend opponents but lost their last two meetings with Santa Clara and their last bout with Arizona State.

"These are two fine opponents," said Boyd. "Santa Clara won 20 games last year and Arizona State 19 and both have some outstanding players returning."

Gus Williams continues to lead Trojan scorers through three games. The 6-2 junior guard has a 22 point per game average which was bolstered by a 16-point second half performance (22 for the game) against Illinois last Saturday. The Trojans came from behind to win 71-60.

Arizona State comes in with successive wins over Wichita State, Northern Arizona and Kansas State and is paced in scoring by 6-3 guard Lionel Hollins with a 17.3 point per game average.

Santa Clara is 2-1. Center Remel Diggs (6-8) paces Bronco scoring with a 19.5 point per game average while front liners Glenn Hubbard and Jerry Bellotti average 13.5 and 10.5 per game, respectively.

Frosh guard Vester Robinson, two-time All-Central Coast Player of the Year, has seen more action with each game and has upped his average to 10.5 in a substitute role.

Jimmy Heair wins on TKO

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jimmy Heair, No. 5 ranked lightweight, clubbed Nacho Castenada into submission with a series of rights to the head at 2:38 of the ninth round at Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Heair, a Los Angeles resident, had the Zacatacas, Mexico, fighter pinned against the ropes and helpless when referee George Latka called a halt. It was a scheduled 10-rounder.

Both fighters weighed 136. Heair has a 32-0 record with 15 knockouts. Castenada is 33-7.

It was a one-sided bout although there were no knockdowns. In the first fight between the pair last summer, Heair won a split decision.

Indians play four twinbills

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians will play 76 home dates next season, including four Sunday doubleheaders, 46 night and 18 afternoon games, it was announced today.

General Manager Phil Seghi said the Tribe would open the home campaign April 9.

Stags, 'Hens host NAIA cage rivals

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Local college basketball action is centered at the Claremont Colleges tonight.

Claremont-Mudd (2-4) hosts Azusa Pacific (4-2) while Pomona-Pitzer (3-2) takes on L.A. Baptist (4-1). The game are scheduled to start at 8:15 p.m.

The C-M-APC game is a rematch as the two met in the second round of the Redlands Tournament. The Cougars notched an 83-56 victory and went on to win the tournament while the Stags came back to take third place.

Last week was not a good one for either team. C-M was beaten by Cal Baptist. (The team they had defeated for third place at Redlands) and by Pt. Loma College. The losing streak reach three straight Tuesday night when Chapman College ended a 23-game losing string by beating the Stags 77-65.

Azusa Pacific was defeated, 77-68, at Whittier. The Cougars then went to San Luis Obispo for the Cal Poly SLO tourney and opened with a 73-71 win over the host school. But playing St. Mary's for the title Saturday night, the Cougars wound up on the short end of a long score, 95-56.

APC will have a decided advantage tonight in both experience and height. The Cougars will 6-8 Roger Cahoon, 6-9 Dennis Vanzant, and 6-7 Mike Leatherby in the front line with 6-2 Rick Reed and either Jeff Butler (5-9) or Stu Campbell (5-8) rounding out the five.

To offset that height as much as possible, Ted Ducey may start 6-8 freshman Dave Willhite at center, Kim Cheatum (6-5) would be paired with 6-5 George Glonka at forward.

In reserve would be 6-4 Ray Rotolo and 6-3 Marty Habern although either or both of them could start if Ducey chooses another alignment.

Norm Richards and either Dan Dominguez or Lane Burdick are likely to see most of the action in the backcourt. All are 6-2. Dominguez is a junior, the other two are sophomores.

Across campus at Pomona College's Memorial Gym, Les Nagler's young and enthusiastic team will be trying to win two straight for the first time this year.

Like the Stags, the Sagehens also will be at a height and experience disadvantage. The Mustangs will have 6-6 Kevin Cross at one forward. Cross scored 34 points last week the L.A. beat beat La Verne.

The center is 6-5½ Ron Collins. Available for the other forward position are 6-6 Kim Herbert, 6-6 Rod Corbin, 6-4 Dan Friesen or possibly 6-5 John Kregel who did not play against La Verne.

The guards (who did not look strong against the Leos) will probably be 6-1 Spencer Perkins and 5-9 Clevie Buckley.

If the 'Hens play like they did the first half against Southern California College, they'll win. If they play like they did the second half against SCC, they'll lose.

Claremont broke the game open early behind the hot shooting of Forward Reggie Goldsmith.

Goldsmith could not miss as he connected on eight-of-eight from the field in the first half staking his team to a commanding 48-26 halftime lead.

The Wolfpack was on top at the end of the first quarter 22-11, thanks to some outstanding team shooting, 11 of 19 from the field.

The Cavlaiers could not generate any offensive punch as they shot a miserable 20 per cent, three of 15.

The entire first half saw Claremont hit the boards and come up with some easy shots.

Center Bruce Abraham and Goldsmith led the Claremont charge against the boards that put the Cavaliers out of the contest.

Montclair's bright spot was guard Jerard Bryant who provide some acrobatic shots that livended up the action.

Bryant finished with 11 points for the night.

Both teams started to substitute freely midway through the second quarter, and this move provided some wild shooting.

The second half saw more of what was present in the first half with Claremont still control-ling the game.

John Douglass, who came in as a substitute for Claremont, played outstanding, scoring 11 points.

With the wild running and shooting, both teams spent a lot of the night at the foul line.

The Cavaliers were good on 10 of 29 attempts, while the Wolfpack hit an impressive 19 of 26 from the charity line.

Another impressive performance was turned in by Claremont's Rob Fossum who as a sub chipped in with 13 points and controlled the boards with his outstanding jumping ability.

Montclair will now face Royal Oak, who lost to Azusa 63-46, for the third place title Friday night at Azusa at 7:00 p.m.

The Claremont Wolfpack will move into the Championship finals against Azusa, which will be played at Azusa at 8:30 Friday night.

Chino, 'Cats shooting for tourney titles

By SCOTT POINDEXTER
P-B Correspondent

WEST COVINA—Close would be the one word to sum up the action in the second day of play at the Edgewood Tournament, Thursday afternoon and evening.

San Dimas was nipped by one point as it lost to the Workman Lobos, 45-44. Bonita won its first victory, to match last year's win column, 77-75 over La Puente, on a basket by highscoring forward Harold Drake. West Covina held on to defeat the Wilson Wildcats 55-51. And in the only romp of the night, the Chino Cowboys stopped Edgewood for a 60-50 win.

EDGEWOOD TOURNAMENT

Bonita 77, La Puente 75

Bonita vs. Workman, 5 p.m.
Third place
Edgewood vs. LP Wilson, 7 p.m.
Championship
Chino vs. West Covina, 8:30 p.m.

Drake scored 33 points to lead all scorers in all of the contests played, which helped to give the Bearcats the same number of wins this year as they had all last year, (1-2-3). Drake was ably assisted by Scott Johnson with 22 and Steve Hines with 12.

It was a typical see-saw battle until the very end. After one period the Warriors of La Puente led 25-21, halftime Bonita, 42-35, third quarter LP 62-55, Final 77-75.

In the two games for the Bearcats, Drake had 50 points and Johnson 43.

San Dimas made it close, but Workman stalled for the last three minutes. The Saints' two big scorers were Greg McCrary (18) and Bobby Childress with 14. San Dimas was held to only six points in the third quarter and yet held Workman to nine in the fourth period.

George Gonzales led the Lobos with 22 points.

Finally, in big game of the night, the Cowboys came up with a big performance to beat the Edgewood Trojans, but it might turn out to be a Pyrrhic victory as Mike Coppess and Tim Smith might be out with leg injuries.

Smith had to leave the game in the fourth quarter with the Cowboys ahead by 10, and Chino saw that lead cut to just four points with 1:25 left to play. But a strong last minute finish by Mark Milton and Manuel Delgado pulled it out and even got the 10 back.

Smith had 20 points and nine rebounds to lead the Cowboys in both categories yet finished second to Jeff Cook of the Trojans who finished with 26 points and 11 rebounds.

Tonight finds Bonita going for the Consolation crown against Workman at 5 p.m., Edgewood against Wilson for third place at 7 p.m. and then No. 1 will be either Chino or West Covina, action starting at 8:30.

Chaffey bows from tournament

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

ALTA LOMA — Host Chaffey College, the lone Pomona Valley entry remaining in contention for the championship, bowed to El Camino Thursday night in quarterfinals of the Chaffey Invitational.

The Panthers blew a 12-point lead early in the first half as surprising El Camino surged to a 40-33 halftime advantage enroute to a 76-66 victory.

Today's games

El Camino vs. Orange Coast, 9 p.m.
Harbor vs. Mesa, 7 p.m.
Consolation semis
Valley vs. San Bernardino, 5 p.m.
Grossmont vs. East L. A., 3 p.m.

The Warriors will face Orange Coast in one championship semifinal game tonight at 9 p.m. Defending champion L.A. Harbor meets San Diego Mesa in the other semifinal contest at 7 p.m.

Orange Coast ran its record to 7-2 by upsetting co-favortie Fullerton, 89-74. Co-favorite L.A. Harbor's (8-1) disposed of Riverside, 88-86 in double overtime, and Mesa outlasted Glendale, 74-68.

On the consolation side, both Mt. San Antonio and Citrus were eliminated from further competition by losing their second tourney games in a row.

The Mounties fell to East L.A. 91-73 in an early morning game, and the Owls dropped a 74-70 decision to San Bernardino.

East L.A. faced Grossmont at 3 p.m. this afternoon and San Bernardino played L.A. Valley at 5 p.m. in the consolation semifinals. Grossmont handed Pasadena an 88-69 setback, and Valley bounced Golden West, 71-67, Thursday.

Chaffey waltzed into what looked like a commanding, 20-8 advantage early in the first half against El Camino, but failed to handle the Warriors' full court press.

El Camino pulled to a 26-26 tie with 6:02 remaining and then busted into a 38-29 lead by outscoring the Panthers, 12-0.

The Warriors controlled the tempo of the contest in the second half and built 16-point leads twice before Chaffey rallied at the end.

Center Rusty Smith led El Camino's attack with 26 points and 14 rebounds, while forward Ralph Davis added 20 points—16 in the first half surge.

Guard Pierre Rankin led the Panthers with 23 points, and forward Bob Kovach tallied 16 and pulled down 14 rebounds.

The victory put El Camino only a game over .500 for the season at 6-5, while Chaffey dipped to 5-3 for the year.

MSAC dropped its ninth game in 11 outings to East L.A., setting up a rematch next Wednesday night in a single game at the Mountie gym.

In recent years the MSAC-East L.A. match-up has been a pivotal encounter for both teams. Two years ago, the Mounties used a victory over the Huskies to start a 10-game winning streak enroute to a fine 18-9 season.

Last year East L.A. routed the Mounties enroute to a Southern California Conference championship and fourth place in the state tournament.

Center San Jiminez led the way for the Huskies Thursday with 26 points. Mike Jones added 19 points and Joe Sims tallied 10.

Mountie center Gary Nash played to early season form with 25 points, and freshman forward Gary Melugin added 11. Melugin has been the most pleasant surprise of an unpleasant season so far.

A Ganesha High product, Melugin has scored in double figures in each of his four starts to date.

Citrus went to the wire with San Bernardino before dropping its sixth game in eight contests.

Guard Roy Hickman's 19 points led the point parade for both teams, but balanced scoring by the Indians proved to be the difference.

Quarry, Shavers eye shot at title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerry Quarry and Earnie Shavers meet tonight in a scheduled 12-round heavyweight bout at Madison Square Garden, but few believe that the bell will ever ring for that final round.

For both 28-year-olds, it is the biggest match of their lives, for sitting at ringside will be champion George Foreman, who almost has to defend his crown against the winner—for a gate of $1 million.

Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner was huddling with Foreman throughout the day, trying to get the reluctant Foreman, who has defended only once and that against one Joe Roman in Tokyo, to agree to face the Quarry-Shavers winner in the Garden in early March.

Quarry won a clear-cut verdict over Ron Lyle in the Garden in February, and has had only six rounds of ring work since then, putting away James J. Woody in two rounds in August, and Tony Doyle in four two weeks later in Los Angeles.

The native Californian, however, has lost the big ones—twice to Muhammad Ali, and once each to Joe Frazier and Jimmyy Ellis.

Shavers, with one big punch, leaped into title contention by knocking out Ellis in 2:39 of the first round here on June 18, after Ellis had apparently had the Warren, Ohio native, in trouble in the first two minutes.

A Shavers-Quarry match was made immediately, but then Jeff Merritt, a stablemate of Earnie's, broke Shavers' jaw in training. The bout had been scheduled for July, but has been delayed until now while Shavers' jaw healed.

The sparring session in which Merritt did the damage had been authorized by Archie Moore, who had worked Shavers' corner for the Ellis fight, and manager Don King promptly dismissed the old mongoose.

Shavers' record is now 46-2-0, with 45 victories coming by either knockouts or tkos, while Quarry is 47-6-4, with 28 knockouts.

A comparison, however, of the Ellis who beat Quarry over 15 rounds in December, 1968, and the Ellis bombed out by Shavers is hardly valid, since Ellis in his last outing on Wednesday lost to Boone Kirkman.

Ali and Frazier are both expected to be at ringside tonight, watching intently. They are preparing for their own rematch, slated for Jan. 28 in the Garden, with the winner all but sure to get one more shot at the crown each has worn.

"I don't know what I have to do to get Foreman to agree to a million dollar deal," Brenner said Thursday. "Who has to think about a million dollars?"

Shavers and Quarry are thinking about it, for two. The Garden expects about 15,000 tonight, paying over $200,000. Earnie will get $40,000 against 27½ per cent, and Jerry $60,-000 against 30 percent. Peanuts compared to what the winner would get against Foreman.

Anaheim shows TV fight

ANAHEIM — Tonight's closed circuit television boxing show at the Anaheim Convention Center will start 6:30 p.m., with the light heavyweight 10-rounder between Andy Kendall of Portland, Oregon, and Argentina's Jorge Ahumada.

Scheduled at 7:30 is Jerry Quarry against Earnie Shavers in their 12-round heavyweight elimination.

The double header comes direct from ringside in New York's Madison Square Garden and will be telecast in color.

Kendall is a veteran campaigner who recently defeated Mike Quarry. Ahumada is undefeated and hails from Buenos Aires.

The winner of the Quarry-Shavers puncher's duel is expected to land a title match with George Foreman.

Tickets for the Anaheim fight program are priced at $7.50 and $5 and are on sale at the Convention Center box office, The Forum and all Ticketron agencies.

Everybody posts tourney victories

Tournament play seemed to agree with the local basketball fives Thursday, as four of the Valley's high schools posted wins.

Garey blasted host Garden Grove in the Garden Grove Tourney by a 74-49 score, Walnut edged South Pasadena 77-73 in the Temple City Tourney, while in the Western Christian Tourney Webb dumped Huntington Valley Christian, 70-40.

Garey rode a record-shattering 38-point effort by Bill Evans to its' win over Garden Grove. The 38 points by guard Evans set a new tournament record.

The Vikings were ahead by only 36-28 at the half but led by Evans ran away from the Argonauts in the second half. Evans has now scored 56 points in two tourney games, as he hit for 20 in the Vikings 64-61 loss to Los Amigos on Wednesday.

Gary Carpenter continued his steady play for the Vikes as he had 12 points, while Jerry Loftis added 10. Jim Mitko led Garden Grove scoring with 19 points, while guard Bill Johnson, who had 32 points Wednesday against Rubidoux, was held to 13 by the tough Garey defense.

Garey will meet Muir tonight at 5 p.m. for the consolation title in the tourney.

Walnut received another fine effort from forward Kirk Christ in positing the narrow win over South Pasadena in Temple City Tourney play.

Christ in posting the narrow of those in the final quarter after South Pasadena had taken an eight-point advantage.

The Mustangs, bouncing back from a 77-71 loss to tough La Canada on Wednesday and the loss of starting forward Gary Case with a disolocated thumb, fought back from several deficits to down South Pasadena.

Marcello Maurin had 13 points for Walnut, while reserve Cliff Manning came off the bench to toss in nine more. Jim Mapyas led South Pasadena scoring with 24 points.

The Mustangs will now play Temple City this afternoon for the consolation title.

Webb posted its' first win of the year at the expense of Huntington Valley Christian in the opening of the Western Christian Tourney. Huntington Valley actually led by a 27-24 margin at the midway point of the third quarter but Webb reeled off 12 unanswered points and won going away, 50-34.

Forward Bob Wright led the charge with 16 points for the Gauls, while subs Mark Wilson and Doug Seaborne had seven and eight points respectively. Bob Stwalley led the Huntington Valley hoopsters with 10 points.

Webb will go against Ontario Christian, an impressive 102-55 victor over Montclair Prep, tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the championship bracket.

Western Christian had an easy time of it against Pacific Christian, outscoring the visitors by a shocking 22-2 first quarter margin.

Norm Moline tallied 19, Sam Shuemaker 18, and Bruce Sider 14 to lead a blanced Western attack. Moline also added several steals on defense to aid the Lancer cause.

Jim Bergherm's 17-point-effort was the only high spot for Pacific.

Top offenses on display in Camellia

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Louisiana Tech and Western Kentucky—both featuring highscoring offenses—will meet Saturday for the NCAA Division II national championship in the Camellia Bowl game.

The Hilltoppers from Kentucky went undefeated in 12 games this season, including a 28-20 win over Grambling last Saturday to qualify for the nationally televised title game. Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs, 12-1, advanced to the Camellia Bowl with a last-minute 38-34 victory over Boise State.

Western Kentucky, which averaged 33 points per game, is led offensively by running back Clarence Jackson, quarterback Dennis Tomek and wide receiver Porter Williams.

Jackson rushed for 786 yards on 143 carries during the regular 10-game season while Tomek passed for nine touchdowns and Porter caught 45 passes, including 10 for touchdowns.

The Bulldogs' attack, which produced 26 points a game, is spearheaded by quarterback Denny Duron, running back Charles "Quick Six" McDaniels, and wide receiver Roger Carr.

During regular season play, Duran connected on 93-of-199 passes for 1,607 yards and 13 touchdowns. McDaniels carried the ball 123 times for 690 yards and nine touchdowns.

A unique procedure has been set up to decide the game if the teams are tied at the end of regulation play.

The team winning a coin toss will be given the ball on the opponents' 15 yard line with the opportunity to kick a field goal or score a touchdown. Then, the other team will be given an equal chance to score. If the tie still isn't broken, the procedure would be repeated until one team prevails.

Eighth grader has big season

WALNUT — David Mendoza and his Suzanne Intermediate School cross country team enjoyed undefeated seasons.

Mendoza, an eight grader, took top honors in the Azusa Invitational, San Gabriel Invitational, Brea Invitational and MSAC Invitational.

As a seventh grader at Suzanne, he set school track records in the 1320 (3:46.4) and mile (5:14).

San Diego's Freitas paces PCAA team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback Jesse Freitas, the nation's leading passer and the Pacific Coast Athletic Association's offensive player of the year, led 10 other San Diego State players selected today to the PCAA's all-star squad.

San Jose State finished with six representatives and Pacific had four, including lineman Larry Bailey as the PCAA's defensive player of the year.

The team was selected by the conference head coaches.

Freitas, a 6-1, 190-pound senior from San Mateo, guided the Aztecs to a 9-1-1 mark and its second consecutive conference championship this year.

Bailey is a 6-4, 250-pound senior from East Palo Alto.

Aztecs selected to the first team were Freitas; wide receiver Keith Denson; center Dave Limebrook; guard Tony Bachmann; tackle Claudie Minor; tight end Darold Nogle; defensive lineman Rick Ashe; linebackers Joe Amaral, Pat Cassady, and Bobby Henderson; and defensive back Monte Jackson.

San Jose was represented by wide receivers Ike McBee, Jim Ruiz, running back Larry Lloyd, defensive lineman Dave Washick, linebacker Carl Ekern and defensive back Clay Jackson.

Others chosen were guard Willie Vinney, running back Willard Harrell, defensive back Steve Capozzo, and Bailey, all of Pacific; and Craig Holworthy of the specialty teams and defensive lineman Dwayne Westphal, both of Fresno State.

San Jose, which had its first winning season since 1961 with a 5-4-2 mark, and Long Beach State both placed six men on the PCAA second-team selections. San Diego State had five and was followed by Pacific with four and Fresno State, two.

Devils win, but Highlanders fall

By CRAIG TRAVIS

CORONA — Pat Westerbeck scored all four of his points in the third overtime to give El Modena a 78-75 win over Upland in a whistle-happy semi-final game of the 9th Annual Corona-Norco Basketball Tournament at Norco High Thursday night. Pomona edged Cajon 42-37 in an earlier game at Corona High.

Pomona played North, a 61-54 winner over Norco, this afternoon while Upland battles Alta Loma at 4:45 p.m. for third place. Redlands plays Colton for the consolation at 6:30 p.m. with Corona and El Modena squaring off at 8 p.m. for the crown.

Reserve guard Mark Sorenson broke a 74-74 deadlock with a free throw with 2:43 left in the third overtime period for the Scots.

Westerbeck put the Vanguards back on top, 76-75, on a layup with 1:03 remaining. The Highlanders then missed five charity tosses in one-and-one situations before Westerbeck added another bucket with 13 seconds left to ice the game.

A total of 49 fouls were called in the game with seven players exiting via personals, four for El Modena and three for Upland.

Both teams utilized full court presses, forcing numerous turnovers, which resulted in fast breaks when the offensive team could get the ball down court.

The Highlanders were guilty of nine turnovers in the first quarter and missed five of nine free throws but only trailed 20-14 in a period that saw the lead change hands three times and the game tied on four other occasions.

The missed charities turned out to be an omen as the Scots made only 16 of 34 from the foul line while the Vanguards made 20 of 25.

The teams played even in the second period when Upland began to whittle away the deficit and tied the game 35-all on Sorenson's free throw with 42 seconds left in the half. Johnson led all scorers at intermission with 12 points.

The Vanguards maintained a five point advantage throughout most of the third period but the Scots cut into the margin and tied the game at 54-54 after 24 minutes of play.

Orien Ogg played an impressive three quarters scoring 16 points, eight of those on tip-ins, and grabbing five rebounds. Johnson had 19 points.

The Scots scored the first six points of the fourth quarter but El Modena fought back to tie the game at 64-all with 3:53 left. Joe Orzeck and Sorenson gave the Scots a two point lead, each adding a singleton, with remaining.

The teams traded pairs of three throws with Upland holding its two point lead with 1:28 to play.

Scott Bigler's free throws with 50 seconds left tied the game at 68-68 and sent the game into overtime.

Johnson gave El Modena a pair of field goals and a 72-68 lead but Matusewicz and Ogg retaliated to tie the game at 72, sending the gams into the second three minute stanza.

Mike Monroe tipped in a missed-Ogg shot to give the Highlanders a 74-72 lead with 1:59 left only to have Johnson, who finished the game with 27 points and 13 rebounds, tie the game at 74-all with 1:30 left and send the game into the final overtime period.

Bigler finished with 14 points while Craig Wood added 12 to aid El Modena, who finished runnerup to Murphy in the 3-A CIF playoffs last year.

Ogg led Upland, now 5-2 on the year, with 20 points while Curt Oldenkamp and Matusewicz added 17 points each. Stu DuVall chipped in 12 points.

"We're tired," assessed coach Ed Taylor after Pomona had beaten Cajon. "We've played three games in a row like this one. We need a rest after the four games in the Upland-Montclair Tournament and these four games, that'll be eight games in 11 days.

Ed's Taylor-made Devils shot just 31.6 per cent from the floor, hitting just 19 of 60 attempts, Thursday night while winning.

Pomona, which won the tournament last year, outscored Cajon 13-9 in the first quarter and widened its lead to 25-19 at the half. The Devils sat on their six point cushion over the final 16 minutes in notching their fifth win in eight outings.

The first period set the pace as neither team could take advantage of its forte.

The Cowboys played a deliberate type of offense, working the ball inside to their post men while Pomona tried to out run its slower opponents.

The Devils never trailed in the game but they never got any momentum which Taylor feels is important.

"I don't want us to get momentum to early in a game. Once that momentum dies you can't get it back," said Taylor. "But we never got it going tonight."

Pomona outscored Cajon, 12-10, in the second quarter as Mike Yarborough scored eight of the teams' output while the Cowboys' Jim Williams had six of their 10 points.

The Devils, still nursing the six point lead, were forced to slow down the pace when Yarborough, Jerome Holliman and John Wieman had to leave the game because of fouls problems over the final three minutes of the quarter. Pomona still lead 34-28.

The Cowboys pulled to a 36-31 deficit with 3:13 left when two straight Pomona baskets iced the contest.

Williams finished the game with 20 points and 12 rebounds while Yarborough had 17 points and nine caroms. Yarborough has scored 48 points in the tournament after three games.

Sports news in brief

CESAR CEDENO will almost certainly miss spring training with the Houston Astros and may not even free himself from his legal entanglement in the Dominican Republic until well into the 1974 baseball season, criminal lawyers were predicting today.

Cedeno, 22, is charged with "voluntary manslaughter" in the Tuesday dawn motel slaying of a 19-year-old girl, Altagracia De La Cruz.

THE NEW WORLD Football League officially got started Thursday when its founder, Gary L. Davidson, presented the league's first franchises to Detroit and promised the league would start play next fall.

Although the Detroit team has no name, no players, no coach and no place to play, there were no snickers when the news was announced.

TOM CAHILL, a nice guy who's also smart enough to know "If you coach long enough you get fired," is out of a job as Army football coach today in another sad example of "What have you done for me lately?"

Cahill, who in his first season at Army in 1966 was named National Coach of the Year, saw his fortunes turn sour this past season as the Cadets sank to the lowest ebb of their 84-year history, 0-10, including an all-important 51-0 loss to Navy.

JIM WEAVER, Iowa State offensive coordinator, was named the new head football coach at Villanova University Thursday.

Weaver, 28, a former Penn State lineman, succeeds Lou Ferry, who stepped down to assisstant coach following the Wildcats' disappointing 3-8 season.

SAN DIEGO CHARGERS' owner Eugene Klein visited Arizona State football practice Thursday and reportedly requested a meeting with coach Frank Kush, mentioned as a candidate for the Chargers' coaching post.

It was not learned whether Klein and Kush actually discussed the matter.

EAST CAROLINA University officials will name Pat Dye, an assistant under Alabama coach Bear Bryant for eight years, to the head football coaching job today.

MARK HARMON from UCLA and Jesse Freitas of San Diego State were named as the quarterbacks for the Lions American Bowl All-Star football Game Jan. 6. Harmon will call the signals for the North team, while Freitas will quarterback the South.

Coaches pick top harriers

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College has awarded its annual All-Valley Leather Lung awards to the top high school cross country runners this year in its district.

The winner are selected by the prep coaches in the district.

Ray Wicksell of West Covina won the Senior honor. Other winners by class are: Junior — Cip Gomez of Workman; Sophomore-Joe Ebiner of Bishop Amat; and Freshman — Dave Duncan of West Covina.

Among those winning honorable mention are Chris Charles of Rowland, Mike Cladera of Rowland, Kevin Kellogg of San Dimas and Barry Boettcher of Pomona.

Phil Ryan, former Cal Poly tracksters, was voted Coach of the Year for buiding Bishop Amat to the CIF 2-A championship.

TODAY'S Women

Couple repeats vows in chapel ceremony

Bethany Chapel in La Verne was the setting for the afternoon marriage of Miss Deborah Lynn Felix and Stanley Richardson of La Verne.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Felix of La Verne chose a lace gown with a fitted bodice and a long train. A headpiece of matching lace held the bride's shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white roses.

Carla Richardson was maid of honor.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents honored the newlyweds.

The bride and groom, both Bonita High School graduates, will attend school in Arizona for the Bell and Howell Company.

Holiday expressed many ways

More than any other holiday, Christmas has a unique quality that sets it outside national, temporal and religious boundaries joining young and old, rich and poor, mighty and humble with its spirit of love and generosity, friendship and goodwill.

The spirit of Christmas finds expression in many ways — in happy family reunions, in cheery Christmas cards, in trees and holiday decorations, in generous gestures to the less fortunate.

There is a special joy in Christmas gifting that has little to do with practicality. It is most aptly characterized in the widely known carol "The Twelve Days of Christmas" which describes an enchantingly impractical list of Christmas gifts from a "true love" beginning with a partridge in a pear tree on the first day of Christmas and ending on the 12th day with a gift of 12 pipers playing — all gifts calculated to bring joy and delight.

In planning for Christmas this year why not select gifts that will make hearts sing and spirits soar. For the little ones, a magical musical toy, a colorful kaleidoscope, a cuddly kitten. For the older ones a volume of poetry, an album of favorite music, a collection of perfume.

Long a Christmas gift tradition, fine perfume has the power to stir emotions and evoke cherished memories long after the mistletoe is taken down.

Jack-rabbit starts are no way to stretch your gasoline supply.

Project DETOUR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Project DETOUR is San Antonio's way of encouraging people in trouble for minor crimes to find a way out of their circumstances. The program, funded by the U.S. Department of Labor, helps the misguided caught between trouble and trial to find jobs and avoid future arrest.

Need money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the 33 million women who work outside the home do so for economic reasons, reports the Women's Bureau, the U.S. Department of Labor.

Most work, not "solely for personal fulfillment," but to raise family living standards above the low income or poverty level, to help meet the rising costs of food, education of the children, medical care and the like, says the bureau.

The batterers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Studies on child battering have shown that a higher number of abusing parents come from lower socio-economic levels. In such families, according to social scientists at the University of Michigan, there tend to be unstable marriages, social isolation, and mobility and unemployment.

Such factors are assumed to increase stress within family groups. Such factors also exhaust one's psychological resources and precipitate uncontrolled assault.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Aging without senility

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm 80 years old and not senile, which seems to shock almost everyone I meet. Everyone always tries to railroad me into doing things I don't want to do and that bothers me more than almost anything else. Yet it's hard to make people understand that being old doesn't necessarily mean being stupid and helpless. It's not that I want people to bow down to me. I just want them not to treat me like an idiot.

I'm complaining to you because I don't want to hurt the feelings of my children and grandchildren. I find there's a lot of prejudice about old people and it makes me mad. My children are very kind and considerate, but I'd like very much to go to Florida because I want to see some old friends who are now in their 70s and still quite healthy. I've mentioned this to my son and he tthinks it's foolish and his wife seems to feel that my wanting to take this trip means I want to get away from them. — A. R.

Dear A. R.: It seems to me that at this time in your life, you should be able to be free and to have less responsibility to my son and he thinks it's son and his wife mean well and have your best interests at heart, but don't hesitate to explain your wishes to them and then follow your own desires.

The longer you can maintain your independence the better off you will be. This doesn't mean we don't need and want love and affection from family and friends, but we have to protect ourselves from being smothered by this love. Adults, as well as children, can be overprotected. Those who cope best with old age are people who see themselves as masters of their fate and who feel that they have some control over their lives.

There is a great deal of misunderstanding and prejudice against the elderly who, as I'm sure you know, are often saddled with unflattering stereotypes. Actually, no group of people shows as many interpersonal differences as the aged, according to psychologist Peter Naus of Notre Dame University. Their thinking can be kept up to date through reading and through contacts with younger people, who in turn can benefit and better prepare for their own later years.

It would probably do you a great deal of good to see your friends and when you return you may well find that your relationship with your son and his family seems better because you've had the opportunity to refresh yourself and have a change of atmosphere.

At any age, it is most important that a person learn to express views honestly and to learn to reject what he doesn't desire. It is difficult to learn to say "no" but unless one is free to express what he doesn't want, then he has no independence. What frequently happens is that the individual becomes angry at himself for not saying what he really feels and for allowing himself to be "railroaded" into situations that he wouldn't choose were his own boss. Anytime emotions are turned inward there is bound to be a bad effect. Sometimes we anticipate that we will hurt or anger another if we express our true feelings.But if done in the right way, the other person will understand and lend a sympathetic ear.

Your relationship with your family will improve if you gently, but firmly, make your wishes known. Let them know you appreciate, love and respect them but that you want and expect to have some freedom of choice even though you're sharing many things with them.

THUGS KILL L.A. DEPUTY

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sheriff's deputy David Andrews, one of four brothers in city law enforcement agencies, was shot and killed by a group of thugs Wednesday night at a south central Los Angeles gas station.

Authorities said the 23-year-old, off-duty officer was shot five or six times in the head and back at the station's restroom.

A witness told investigators that Andrews, who was not in uniform at the time, made a telephone call just before going into the restroom.

Moments later shots were heard and two or three gunmen quickly ducked out the station's rear door and disappeared in the darkness. Andrews' wallet was not missing and authorities said they have no motive for the killing.

The deputy has two other brothers in the sheriff's department and a third with the Los Angeles Police Department.

Consumption of gasoline not changed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Shutting down gas stations on Sundays has not reduced consumption because drivers just buy more on Friday, Saturday and Monday, oil companies and station owners say.

"Our total volume hasn't changed," according to George Williams, president of Lerner Oil Co., which operates 109 stations in Southern California. Sales are twice as high on Friday and Saturday, he said.

Standard Oil of California, the state's largest gasoline seller, said that increased Saturday sales made up for the absence of Sunday sales. Union Oil reported a "definite increase in the tendency to buy gas on Saturdays and Sundays."

he Los Angeles Times said a survey of station managers found that some are happy because the Sunday closure reduces salary and other costs, gives them a day off, all at no reduction in sales.

Florida isn't just beaches

TALLAHASSEE, Florida (UPI) — Florida ranks 12th in the nation in agriculture production and is also the fastest growing agricultural state in the nation. It has 30,479 farms, representing a total capital investment of more than $8 billion. Florida's gross agricultural product brought $2 billion to farmers but retailed for $6 billion.

SILKY SANTA — Blind children in Chicago got to "see" Santa Claus this week, tweaking his nose and running their hands through his silky beard. Some noticed he wears glasses — part of the outfit?

Chrysler to lay off 2,100

DETROIT (UPI) — The Chrysler Corp. Wednesday said 2,100 workers at two large assembly plants will be laid off beginning in early January, in part because of the energy shortage.

A spokesman said workers at the Jefferson Avenue assembly plant in Detroit and the Belvidere, Ill., assembly plant will be out of work because of the lessening demand for big cars, which appears to be pushing the nation's automakers into a slow transition period before they can begin turning out more smaller cars.

Chrysler also announced that extended furloughs would be given to 10,400 more workers at the two plants so as to "balance inventories."

The workers had originally been told not to show up for work from Jan. 4-6. The extended layoffs will last five more days, with the workers scheduled to return Jan. 12.

The temporary layoff affects some 5,400 workers at the Detroit plant and 5,000 workers at the Belvidere facility. The extended layoffs will put 1,700 workers at the Detroit plant out of jobs while 400 will be affected at Belvidere.

The daily production at the Jefferson Assembly Plant will be slashed from 960 units to 640, while Belvidere will drop from 960 units to 880.

Song-writing among talents

NEW YORK (UPI) — "There's a Song in the Air" was written by J. G. Holland, a physician, teacher, novelist and one-time editor of Scribner's magazine.

astro graph by Bernice Bede Osol

For Saturday, Dec. 15

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're going to have to do some extra chores today but your heart won't be in it. Your performance will not be up to usual standard.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your social schedule will be confusing. This will take the edge off your enjoyment. Patience is required if dealing with youngsters.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your mate or partner is apt to make a lot of little demands. You'll find them annoying and confusing. Stay lose.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to begin several things today without completing any to your satisfaction. Try to finish what you start.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll attempt to buy a good time today. Later, you'll regret the fact that you spent so much to have such little fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Family members will find you difficult to get along with today. You won't know what you want; they won't know how best to please you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you're going to be very finicky about whose company you'll enjoy. Avoid gabby, nervous types. They'll turn you off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your group or an organization that you belong to has some plans of which you are unaware. They'll cost you a little extra.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Weigh your words carefully today. Others will keep track of what you say and hold you to it later. Above all, don't fib.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your imagination tends to drift toward the negative. Small fears and doubts will be given more relevance than deserved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't participate in anything today that you feel you couldn't do openly without embarrassment. You won't get away with being tricky.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Avoid over the next few days consorting with persons who could damage your reputation. You're being judged by the company you keep.

Your birthday Dec. 15

Your ambitions will come to the four this year and new goals will be set. Attainment will be reachable, but persistence is required.

He paid for selfishness

HARPENDEN, England (UPI) — Trying to keep his tank full during the oil crisis cost a motorist $2.50 for five cents worth of gasoline.

Garage owner Lou Oggelsby said he had imposed a $2.50 minimum on all sales to discourage drivers trying to keep "topped up" during the crisis.

"It serves him right," said Oggelsby of the man whose tank needed just five cents worth. "He asked for his money back, he claimed his petrol gauge was broken. We told him it was his own fault for being so selfish."

Woman's looks decides penalty in certain crimes

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — A physically attractive woman may have a greater chance of receiving a lighter sentence for a criminal conviction if she doesn't use her beauty to perpetuate the crime, a college professor has concluded.

Dr. Harold Sigall, associate professor of Psychology at the University of Maryland, said he selected a mock jury of 60 male and 60 female undergraduate students and tested each for decisions on two hypothetical court cases involving a "Miss Helm."

A third was given a photograph of an attractive "Miss Helm" and an equal number were given a photograph of a less attractive woman. The remaining participants did not receive a picture.

The jurors gave the attractive, "Miss Helm" a sentence ranging 2.8 years in a case involving burglary, while the less attractive woman was sentenced to a term nearly twice as long, Sigall said.

In the other case, involving the swindling of a bachelor, the jury acted in an opposite fashion, sending the pretty swindler to a longer jail term than her unattractive counterpart.

Poisoning deaths

Accidental deaths in the United States from poisoning by solids and liquids doubled in 10 years to 3,700 in 1972.

TRIPLED SPACE — Mary Lou Metzger of the Lawrence Welk program demonstrates a 3 in 1 wallbed unit.

Wallbed unit aid to smaller homes

By STEVE ELLINGSON

A bedroom planned just for sleeping is wasted space for two-thirds of each day. In this era of small-bedroom homes, you have to make every square foot count! This is particularly true of children's bedrooms, guest rooms and dens . . . not to mention vacation cabins and mobile homes.

Here's a way to use less furniture in a small room and still retain all the functions of a bigger bedroom set. The handsome 3-in-1 wallbed unit shown here requires the space of only one twin-sized bed.

Yet the four large drawers will give you the equivalent of a full-size dresser, which is really space economy. The wall shelves, which are attached to the bed, hold a generous supply of books, knicknacks and other conversation pieces.

The entire unit is mounted on heavy casters for easy mobility. Even grown-ups who haven't entirely outgrown their childhood wouldn't mind bunking down in an inviting setting like this.

The unit pictured was made of birch plywood but you may use any other color finish. The easy-to-follow plan for building this unit contains step-by-step pictures showing all stages of construction, along with easy-to-read directions.

To obtain the 3-in-1 wallbed unit number 494 for $2.00 (add 25c extra per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to:

Bedding plants can also add some color

In California, winter gardens never need be drab. In addition to such blooming favorites as azaleas and camellias, bedding plants provide bright splashes of color in the cool season garden. To enjoy this, however, unless the bedders are set out immediately—if not sooner.

By way of simple explanation, bedding plants are flowering plants—annuals and perennials—which produce plenteous color (in flower beds). Set out now, the plants will create a late-winter and springtime carnival of garden color, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

Iceland poppies are dependable bedders for winter display. Their long steams support crinkled, textured cups of orange, white, pink, yellow, red or cream colors.

Nurseries offer a wide variety of cool season bedding plants. Iceland Poppies are often to be found already showing color in nursery flats. They'll come into flower in a hurry in their garden home. Plant them in a sunny spot in a well-drained soil.

When the weather is cool, Pansies and Violas figure in the color picture. You could have planted them three months ago and be enjoying their bright, cheery bloom right now. Or, you can plant them now and start enjoying their floral beauty in just a few weeks.

Calendulas offer brilliant color from now into early summer. Hybrids produce large flowers in intense shades of persimmon, orange, cream, yellow and gold. Nurseries often have larger-sized plants already in bloom, in smallpots. Calendulas are excellent subjects for growing in containers. The medium-size performers are excellent in mass displays and the newer dwarf Calendulas sparkle in border situations.

English Daisies may not be as popular as other bedders, but they are showy color bearers for late winter gardens. Snowy white, pink or rose chrysanthemum-like flowers create lovely edgings throughout the garden. Their height is about six inches.

Fairy Primrose is another favorite for edging or borders. Their noticeable heads of bloom—in rose, pink, lavender or white—add interest to semi-shaded garden locations. Mass several plants to heighten the effect.

Living Christmas trees reflect holiday attitude

The Christmas tree has become the decorative focal point of the holiday season in homes, business offices, churches, in parks and on city streets.

Today, as American become more and more concerned about the quality of the environment and there is increased interest in conserving natural resourses, unprecedented numbers of people are using living christmas trees over the traditional "cut" trees.

Whatever your preference, nurseries have a good supply of both types of trees. When it comes to living christmas trees, the idea is a charming, environmentally-sound, practical idea. You can have your christmas tree and plant it, too.

After December 25th, you can plant the tree in the garden, or features it in a portable container. This way it can be used year-after-year during the Holiday Season, and, during the rest of the year it will add beauty to the surroundings.

Living trees add the fragrance and freshness of a forest, up-close. They contribute towards a better environment in many different ways, reminds the California Association of Nurserymen.

Throughout California, schools, community action groups, clubs, organizations, and individuals are purchasing living christmas trees, then dedicating them to civic service.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Keep planting bulbs. It's not too late for daffodils or tulips. Even hyacinths can still go in, though the sooner you start them the better.

2. Shop nurseries now for holly plants in full berry. One or two can add the perfect touch for the holidays.

3. Lift dahlias when the tops dry off. Use a spading fork, taking care not to jab the clump of tubers. Wash off dirt, dry in sun and store in cool dry place. You don't have to divide the clump until you're ready to replant next spring.

4. Keep off wet lawns. Winter compaction when lawns are wet does more than most people realize to encourage brown lawns in summer.

5. Check the attractive, hardy bedding plants available for transplanting into your garden now.

Amateur's guide to proper pruning

Pruning is one of the most important and probably one of the least understood aspects of gardening. The dedicated gardener does his pruning on a year-round basis. He's always pinching back to shape a plant's growth. The novice gardener seldom prunes, and when he does, it may often be by guess.

During the coming cool months when plants are dormant, most pruning jobs will be done in California. Deciduous fruit and shade trees, grapes, roses, fuchsias, and certain evergreens should all be cut back—before growth starts again in spring. The gardener who neglects to prune only has himself to blame for any lack of results.

Your local nursery is a good place to start to learn about pruning or pruning methods. There are manuals on pruning, and some excellent ones that include illustrations and specific information on a wealth of plant materials.

The prime reason to prune is to improve a plant under cultivation; to increase and improve the crop of flowers and-or fruit; and to enchance the appearance of a plant.

The orchardist prunes because he wants the maximum crop consistent with fruit quality and size. The rosarian prunes because he knows that flowers are produced only on new wood and he wants to reduce the proportion of old, non-producing growth on the plant. Pruning is also done to repair damage from wind or frost and to remove dead limbs from a plant. Lastly, it is done to improve the shape of things grown. This includes training plants in the form you desire.

For starters, a most important thing is to have sharp tools. Shears should be razor sharp and a saw should be able to cut cleanly. More plants are damaged by dull tools than by in-experience or wrongly placed cuts. On material over one inch in diameter, murseries have pruning paints to spread over the cuts. This seals out possible infestation from disease.

Another important consideration is to know which plants to prune and when. Deciduous fruit trees may be pruned now and so may grapes. The pruning fruit trees, remember excessive pruning results in vigorous new growth, but it is mainly non-fruiting growth. The approach should be to find the balance in pruning where you do just enough to encourage both new growth and a good fruit crop.

All-America Roses exciting gardeners

It's easy for Californians to get carried away when it comes to talking about the "1974 All American Rose Selections. The reason is that all three All Americans for 1974 were developed by Californians.

Bahia, a vivid pinkish-orange floribunda, is the work of Dr. Walter E. Lammerts, Freedom, the hybridizer of the classic Charlotte Armstrong rose. The individual blooms of Bahia are very double and many clusters adorn a vigorous, compact plant that is ideal for landscape situations, reports the California Association of Nurserymen.

The plant, while a vigorous performer, is a shrubby grower that won't overgrow its bounds. Adding to its value in the garden, the roses hold their bright color until the petals fall, while providing a pleasing spicy fragrance.

Many nurseries will have Bahia, and other 1974All-Americans as bare root plants in time for Christmas gifting. Check on local availability with your nearby nursery.

Shopping early may turn up Perfume Delight, the only hybrid tea among the new AARS winners. Its unique coloration has been termed magnificent pink. The pink shade is dramatically beautiful. The rose produces highly fragrant blooms which are excellent for cutting the indoor arrangements. In the garden it will create focal interest without dominating companion plants. It's a medium grower and can be massed for effect. O. L. Weeks, Ontario, developed Perfume Delight. His hybrid tea, Gypsy, took 1973 All-American honors.

William Warriner of Santa Ana, whose Medallion took AARS honors last year, developed Bon-Bon, a third All-American for 1974.

Bon-Bon is an excellent low-growing landscape choice, where loads of color are desired. It is densely covered with dozens of delightful pink and white bi-color booms. Flowers are borne in large clusters from spring through fall. The roses are attractive in all stages—from bud to full bloom.

When it comes to roses for the New Year, including All Americans with other delightful introductions, demand usually exceeds supply. If your nurseryman doesn't have plants for giving on December 25, he will have them in very early January, the start of the bare root season. Check to see if orders should be placed in advance to assure your having the California-inspired 1974 All-American Roses for adding beauty and enjoyment to your garden.

March flies eating up dichondra lawns

RIVERSIDE —If you have a dichondra lawn, watch out for March flies.

These pests feed on dichondra roots. They currently are cuasing damage to dichondra lawns in Ventura County, according to reports received here by Dr. A. S. Deal, University of California Agricultural Extension entomologist on the Riverside campus.

Although March flies are most common during rainy periods in the spring in California's interior areas, according to Dr. Deal, they may occur at any time of the year in moist coastal regions.

"March flies," Dr. Deal explained, "usually are dark to black in color, including their wings. They have relatively small heads in comparison with their rather thick bodies, and their heads project downwards. These flies are weak, sluggish fliers and usually do not fly very high above the ground. Often they can be seen lying on their backs on the ground or sidealks struggling to get back on their feet."

The flies like damp places where there is an abundance of decaying vegetation and fungi upon which their larvae also feed. They can thrive in leaf mold, decaying grass clippings, compost organic fertilizers, and mulches. Lawns fertilized with organic fertilizers are a favorite breeding place.

Certain overgrown ornamentals, such as rhododendrons or camellias, may be shaped just before growth starts in spring. These would be normally pruned after flowering. But, if they are rank or overgrown, it may be best to forego some bloom in favor of new fill-in growth. If in doubt, check with your nurseryman on the various plant materials in your garden. He can provide advice and direct you to the best source of information—to help assure the results you expect.

JOLLY ROGER — This artist's sketch depicts the pirate ship in NBC's traveling stage production of "Peter Pan." The arena-style show will start a nationwide tour in San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 3.

Network branches out

NBC to tour production of stage 'Peter Pan'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (NEA) — In a way NBC is competing with itself in its new role as producers of arena entertainment.

For four years now, NBC's subsidiary, NBC Entertainment, has been in joint partnership with Disney in producing "Disney On Parade," which has successfully toured the nation's arenas with its lavish production. Now, beginning Jan. 3, 1974, NBC will go it alone with a new show, an arena version of "Peter Pan."

This will tell the old story of Peter and his friends (and enemies), done in a big way — music, dancers, acrobats, the whole works.

Thomas W. Sarnoff, who is NBC's West Coast vice-president and president of NBC Entertainment, says the big network has gotten into arena shows because "we felt there was considerable need in the country for good family entertainment. I know I have trouble figuring out what movie to take my kids to."

"Disney On Parade" is still touring. Next spring it will go to South America, then Europe. Another unit is on the road in Australia and the Far East. "Peter Pan" will kick its tour off in San Antonio, Tex., and there is a 70-week tour planned so far.

"If 'Pan' works," Sarnoff says, "we'll look for other properties. If it doesn't, we'll have to take a long look at the whole arena concept."

Sarnoff says they tried to get the exciting Russian gymnast, Olga Korbut, to play Pan, but negotiations got too complicated. They decided against using any name performers.

Does the name Adam Kennedy ring a bell? It should, if you followed movie actors in the late '50s. He was one of the coming stars then. He quit his acting career cold.

From 1955 through 1961, Kennedy was as busy as any actor. He made 12 movies and appeared on many TV shows in that period. But acting wasn't what he wanted to do.

He always wanted to write but acted to make a living and, he says, he became more successful at it than he had planned. It was hard to quit but he did, and returned to his first love.

He's written quite a few novels and his latest is "Maggie D.," which is told in the form of a question-and-answer session between a sex researcher and his female subject. It's a tricky form but it works.

Even though Kennedy left acting at a time when he was "at the most saleable point in his life," he says he'll never act again. He still gets offers but he's determined.

"Writing," he says, "is a full time job."

He even let his Screen Actors Guild (SAG) membership lapse, which is a pretty good indication he means what he says.

He's here now, writing a screenplay for Fox and developing a TV series for NBC. Wherever he goes he's asked if he wants to do a part. He just smiles and goes back to his typewriter.

Riede Marionettes to play at Scripps

CLAREMONT — The Riede Marionettes of Upland will perform "Billy Goats Gruff" and a fireman clown act Saturday at 11 a.m. in the Humanities Center Auditorium at Scripps College.

Mrs. Richard Jacobson of Claremont is in charge of arrangements.

The Riedes, with some 150 puppet performers, have appeared throughout the Southland. Dick Riede, a Montclair High School teacher, is accompanied by his wife, Marlo, and three children, Doug, 16, Sue, 14, and Steve, 12.

'Nutcracker' slated in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Parks and Recreation Department will present a dramatic production of "The Nutcracker" at Sycamore Elementary School at 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are 25 cents.

The cast includes Lisa Sloane, Thea Macow, Susan Lindover, Laura Moore, Steve Coleman, Rebecca Coleman, Cathy Atwell, Laurie Teske, Jessica Jackman and Valerie Jarosh.

Rosanne Sloane directs.

P.C. students plan recital at Thatcher

CLAREMONT — Douglas Leedy's "March for Forty Fingers" will highlight a student recital sponsored by the Pomona College music department in Thatcher Music Building at 8:15 p.m. Monday. Admission is free.

Four pianists will perform: William F. Russell, chairman of the music department; Peter Hewitt, associate professor of music; Pomona College junior Suzy Blaustein, and Pitzer College senior Gary Berkson. Leedy is a graduate of Pomona College. Music by Mozart, Haydn, Schubert, Gershwin and Couperin also will be performed.

Miss Blaustein also will play two pieces with cellist Katy Roberts, Pomona College senior, in Couperin's "Pieces en Concert," and again with Berkson in Schubert's Fantasy in F Minor, D. 940, for piano four hands. Two other pianists are included on the program: Douglas Westberg, Pomona College freshman, playing Gershwin's "Three Preludes," and Rob Wigington, Pomona College sophomore, playing a Sonata in C by Haydn.

Baritone Ken Rafanan, Pomona College junior, will sing three songs from Schubert's cycle "Die Schoene Muellerin," and an aria from "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart.

Other student recitals will be offered Jan. 14 and March 6.

Art fete set at L.A. center

LOS ANGELES — More than 100 artists and craftsmen will exhibit and sell a wide variety of works in the Arts, Crafts and Hobby Festival at the Great Western Exhibit Center, 2120 S. Eastern Ave., from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1.

The festival, to be held both indoors and out, will include jewelry, pottery, leatherwork, dolls, Christmas decorations, furniture, macrame, candles and other items.

There will be demonstrations in various crafts, including stoneware pottery making and gem cutting.

Scenes from YTS scheduled on TV Sunday

LOS ANGELES — A report on young Chicanos imprisoned in California Youth Authority institutions will be part of The Los Angeles Collective, KCET, Channel 28, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

"Carnalitos" (younger brothers), a 15-minute film, will include interviews with inmates at the Youth Training School in Chino and the Southeran Reception Center and Clinic in Norwalk. The report will probe the reasons for the high incidence of Chicano youths in the institutions, the influence of gangs, the need for more Chicano staffing in the facilities, and the growing trend among inmates to organize. The film ends with a letter by an inmate to his carnalitos on the outside.

The other two sections of The Los Angeles Collective will be a film on developments of the $10 million Maraville Housing Project in East Los Angeles, and a segment by Ciji Ware Billett on energy-saving tips for the home.

HAS RESERVATIONS — Veteran Indian actor Jay Silverheels feels that the show business image of his race needs improvement. Silverheels, the Tonto of the Lone Ranger series for eight seasons, is a member of the Ethnic Minorities Committee of the Screen Actors Guild. He is currently being seen in "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing."

Showbeat

Image of Indian insults Tonto

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Some things change. Some things don't. Jay Silverheels says the way movies and television treat American Indian is one of the things that doesn't change much.

Silverheels, one of Hollywood's veteran Indian actors, feels that Hollywood still treats Indians poorly. He says that maybe there will be two or three films in which Indians are shown in a respectable light. But then one comes along in which the Indian is portrayed baddly—and the one bad one cancels out the three good ones."

As an example of the bad, he says he recently was asked to do a Gunsmoke episode.

"It was a cliche that was old 20 years ago," he says. "I was supposed to play a vaillainous, snarling Indian, who attacked the wagon train and kidnapped the beautiful white girl. Then Matt Dillion singlehandedly went after the Indians, knocked out or shot a dozen and rescued the girl.

"I turned it down."

He says there was a time when he didn't turn that kind of part down. He knew if he didn't do it somebody else would. He felt he had to get established as an actor "before I could begin to exert some influence."

Now, he believes, he's strong enough in the business so that he can exert that influence. He has founded the Indian Actors Workshop which teaches young Indians the fundamentals of acting, writing and the various film crafts. He also serves on the Ethnic Minorities Committee of the Screen Actors Guild.

And, now, he picks and chooses his parts with care. You can see him, currently, in "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing".

For eight seasons, of course, he was Tonto on The Lone Ranger. That's his most memorable role. He considers Tonto "a positive character".

"He was on the side of law and order. He had the respect of the people he met, certainly the respect of the Lone Ranger. He was strong and silent." He doesn't feel, as some have charged, that Tonto is to the Indians what Uncle Tom is to the blacks.

Silverheels grew up on a Mohawk reservation in eastern Canada. As a boy, he would go to the movies in the nearby town.

"And I hated the Indians in the movies," he says. "They were always so cruel. I hated the Indians before I was old enought to realize that I was an Indian myself. That shows how badly the films were slanted."

It was sports that got him out and away. He was a boxer and wrestler, played hockey and lacrosse. He became a pro lacrosse player and toured the United States, ending up in Los Angeles. From there, he decided to try acting.

It's been a long and busy career. But the whole Indian situation still rankles. It hasn't changed very much since he was a boy.

Romero to solo with Glendale Symphony

LOS ANGELES — Guitarist Angel Romero will be soloist in a concert by the Glendale Symphony Orchestra at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 12.

The orchestra will be conducted by George Cleve, musical director of the San Jose Symphony. The Vienna-born maestro, a violist and pianist, has studied conducting with Carl Bamberger, Pierre Monteux, George Szell and others.

The orchestra will play Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, Debussy's "La Mer," and Rodrigo's "Concierto de Aranjuez," with Romero as soloist.

Celedonio Romero and his three sons — Celin, Pepe, and Angel left their native Spain in 1958 to settle in the United States and launch a brilliant international career as the foremost guitar ensemble in the world. Now, for more than a decade, they have enjoyed sold-out coast-to-coast tours annually, and in 1969-70 and 1971-72, they were widely acclaimed on two European tours. Angel Romero, youngest son, was named by the New York Times' critic "a rising star among virtuosos."

Racial allegory burns in Pomona's 'Benito Cereno'

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — Black fire, to pick up Stanley Crouch's paradox, burned the stage at Garrison Theater where black soles and white man's shoe leather danced and shuffled Thursday night through "Benito Cereno."

Crouch is the author of a searing stage adaptation of Herman Melville's classic yarn of a Spanish slave ship. Woven through a ghostly set under eerie lights, the play is a dark paean to black pride, to human power.

A world premier—boasts the Pomona College Theater program—deserves review first of the material, next the production. Crouch has crafted a piece that is snide, bitter, proud, strong, and at bottom, human. As a play it drags like a log burnt through the center, blazing in first leap, sparkling in last flush.

As a statement, "Benito Cereno" is gallows humor. Its message distills to vicious fact: Black was slavery, black is slavery—but the color could be white.

Story: Benito Cereno is the master of a Spanish slaver. From coast of Africa to a lonely isle in the Pacific off South America, we follow the craft. It is taken over in a revolt by its black cargo, and puts in at the island to take on water before returning to Senegal. At this point, a Yankee trader anchors nearby, and the captain of the American ship gallantly offers aid, unaware the slaves are in charge.

Aid is material assistance-water, food, and repair-as well as some pompous homespun American advice. At the last moment, Cereno dives overboard, warns the Americans of the situation, and is returned to his place as captain, the ship retaken.

Within this plot, Crouch details characters whose fierce pride and self-determination lead them along the brutal path blazed by white slave traders. His play is an allegory of modern America's racial struggles (the American ship's master is a 17th Century Archie Bunker, but smarter).

And in the end, the message is as Crouch states in the program notes: Don't accuse me of the crimes you would commit if you were in my place. Cereno and his men carried out horrible cruelty on their cargo, which was returned in full measure when the situations were reversed.

But when whites regained power, they forgot—perhaps never knew—the justice of the rebellion and retaliated in full measure. It appears that a part of Crouch's declaration is the lack of meaning in revenge, whether by the victim of the first part or the victim of the second part.

A cast of over 30 carried out the play with force. Sam Reece as Babo earns special credit for his portrayal of the cynical leader of the revolt, while Dick Barnes, in the role of Yankee Capt. Amasa Delano, was creditable for his comfortable, crass manner. Rod Stein, in the role of Benito Cereno, offered too much surface pathos to make the character convincing. David Frick, in the gory role of mutilated Don Aranda, was not quite shocked enough.

Particular kudos for John Retsek's incredible sets and light design, and for choreography by Crouch and Yoro Daillo. Chorus members need more togetherness.

Curtain for Benito Cereno is at 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday at Garrison Theater on 10th Street in Claremont. This is NOT a play for children under high school age.

Inner City presenting 'Earthquake'

LOS ANGELES — The Inner City Repertory Theater Company is presenting "Earthquake," a new musical revue by Obie-Award-winning author, C. Bernard Jackson. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Characterized as a work in progress, the revue deals satirically with various aspects of life in present-day Southern California.

Larry Nash, whose musical arrangements for the ICRTC production of "Street Scene" won critical praise, handles similar chores for "Earthquake." Myrna White of "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope" did the choreography.

The cast includes Karmello Brooks, Roger Brown, Bernie Cowen, Lee Hampton, Jeanne Joe, Elaine Kashiki, Ethel Mike, Stan Miller, Peter Salas, Keone Young and Lupe Zuniga.

Vermont stretches about 159 miles from the Canadian border to Massachusetts.

Ulcers give me a pain

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Newspaper business, as you know if you've seen "Front Page," is a hysterical, pressurized, action-packed, mile-a-minute rat race, full of high tension and hypertension, deadlines, jangling phones, get-it-first but first get-it-right, hammering typewriters, STOP THE PRESS! Ho hum.

Wallowing more or less actively in this publishing pressure-cooker for a decade or so, I have frequently wondered, when there was nothing else to wonder, why I have never had an ulcer. Here I've been driving myself relentlessly and been driven even more relentlessly by steel-fisted editors, keeping my shoulder to the ground, my ear to the wheel, and eye to the future, and I can't even work up a respectable tummy ache.

The answer to this enigma apparently lies in a report made at the recent annual meeting of the American Public Health Association by Dr. Ralph Paffenbarger, an epidemiologist. (Is there such a word? Paffenbarger, I mean.) Dr. Ralph made a survey of more than 25,000 men who attended either Harvard University or the University of Pennsylvania between 1916 and 1950 and found that the hard-driving type is not necessarily ulcerous. (Why would anyone survey graduates of Harvard and P.U.?)

"The most likely candidate for an ulcer," he reported, "may be an inveterate coffee drinker and cigarette smoker. But he isn't necessarily a person who reacts poorly to stress, or is fearful of failure, or is given to relieving tensions with alcohol." Tell 'em, Doc!

Most of the Harvard boys I knew in my non-Ivy League under-graduate days generally drank beer and smoked pipes and sat around late at night discussing Serious Issues such as Was Proust a Yenta? and Is Eliot a Frost? and Is the no-bra look here to stay? None of them had ulcers that I can recall.

Dr. Paffenbarger found that students who drank two or more cups of coffee a day had a 72 per cent greater chance of getting an ulcer than abstainers, and cola drinkers had a 48 per cent greater chance. I suppose if you drank coffee AND cola, the odds went right off the board.

Smokers had a one-third increase in their chance of developing ulcers, Dr. P. found. You get a lot to like in a dum-de-dum.

Most of the socioeconomic factors measured had little effect, ulcerwise — family income, occupation of father, pre-college schooling — except that students from large families were more apt to develop ulcers. (Students? What about the fathers? I know a guy with five children and his ulcer has an ulcer.) (Did you hear about the Eskimo who had a wife and 17 chilblains?)

Well, all the rich, successful people I know have ulcers, so I think I'll increase my coffee drinking and take up cigarettes.

I wonder if epidemiologists ever get ulcers?

College named after farm union leader

MT. ANGEL, Ore. (UPI) — A tiny, independent college faced with shortages in funds and students had a new name today —Collegio Cesar Chavez.

The renaming of the former Mt. Angel College in honor of the Farm Workers Union leader from California came Wednesday night at a program which included a special mass offered by the Most Rev. Robert Dwyer, archbishop of the Portland Catholic Archdiocese.

The faculty and student body is almost totally Chicano, and so is the board of directors. Its president is Ernesto Lopez.

Mt. Angel College had its accreditation taken away by the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools last spring. This brought the departure of most of its liberal arts students.

Lopez said the school, founded in the 1880s as a Catholic teacher's college for women, would revise its curriculum and apply for re-accreditation.

Spending money leads to trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The working wife has added a second check to family income but disagreement on how it is to be spent can lead to dissension.

So observes W. Scane Bowler, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., who said the second income "can actually determine how well a husband and wife get along, matrimonially speaking."

With 46 per cent of the adult female population now contributing to family income, Bowler says, "The husband and wife who both bring home the bacon both should have a say about how it is cooked."

Everybody writes carols

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most Christmas carols were written by clergymen or professional musicians, but quite a number of those sung today were the work of laymen from all walks of life, reports the American Music Conference (AMC).

WEEK-BEFORE SALE

A HOLIDAY ASSORTMENT OF STEREO GEAR SPECIALLY PRICED THIS WEEK ONLY

A Perfectly Matched System -35% Off

We selected these components for their exceptionally good sound at reasonable prices, and then we reduced the total price by 35%! The new TRANSAUDIO 5502 receiver delivers 16 watts (RMS) of clean power, and its AM/FM tuner section provides noise-free reception of any station within range. The 5502's controls include bass, treble, loudness contour, and a tape monitor switch; and its regular price of $149.95 even includes a walnut case.

$179 Save $95.30

AUDIO DESIGN 806 speakers can do a lot with very little power, and their two-way, eight-inch design produces clear, natural bass lines you can't get just by turning up the bass control on a portable phonograph. Surprisingly, their normal price is just $79.90 a pair.

The BSR 260A automatic record player has a built-in cueing control to help save records from scratches. Complete with a base and a Shure M81 cartridge (with a diamond stylus for extra long life), the 260A sells for only $44.45. This week, however, you can buy this entire system for a remarkably low price and fill a bedroom, dormitory, or den with fine music.

Four-Channel Sound-30% Off

Here's a chance to own a complete four-channel system for what you'd normally pay for stereo. The SANSUI QR-500 AM/FM receiver alone normally sells for $229.95, and its four separate amplifier sections deliver a total of 32 watts (RMS). Built-in decoding circuitry handles all matrixed records and broadcasts and even creates four-channel effects from your collection of stereo records. A walnut case is included in the regular low price.

The BSR 260A is the newest addition to a long line of value-oriented record players, and it's a good choice when price is an important consideration. For just $44.45, the 260A comes with a base and a Shure M81 diamond cartridge.

QUADRAFLEX MODEL 26 speaker systems are compact enough to fit anywhere, and their two-way acoustic suspension design produces satisfying, full-range sound. Our normal price is $89.90 a pair, and there are four in this four-channel system to put you in the middle of your favorite music.

Father of country

Bangladesh chief certain of success

By LEON DANIEL

DACCA, Bangladesh (UPI) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, the prime minister of Bangladesh, is like the proud father of a baby approaching its second birthday. The infant is kicking and yelling but still unable to walk unassisted.

The sheikh's severest critics say his baby may die, but that is unlikely. Mujib and his supporters claim the baby is as healthy as could be expected, which also has been challenged.

What appears to be indisputable is that the charismatic sheikh, disparately described as shrewd, naive, egocentric and down-to-earth, is the father of this new nation, which emerged 23 months ago in a war in which India detached Pakistan's eastern wing.

Lone ruler

No other political leader here really matters, whether he is for Mujib or against him. For better or worse, depending on the point of view, the sheikh alone runs Bangladesh.

Mujib governs the country from Gana Bhavan (People's House), which is aptly named. People constantly jam his outer office, waiting patiently to see him on problems great and small.

His critics say he sees too many people, and neglects the hard decisions that could get the country moving. But an official close to him insists the constant contact with the people is necessary, explaining that "the warmth of the masses sustains him."

And it appears that, despite rampant inflation, massive unemployment and a widespread breakdown of law and order, the sheikh is justified in his frequent boast that "my people love me."

In an interview at Gana Bhavan, Mujib noted his administration's achievements in occassionally flawed but forceful English.

He cited resettling 10 million refugees who fled to India and returned after the war, improving the law and order situation, rebuilding roads and bridges destroyed or damaged in the fighting and giving the nation a constitutional democracy.

Economy broken

"When the fighting ended our economy was broken," he said. "We had not one penny of foreign exchange or gold reserves. Our roads and bridges were destroyed. Sixty per cent of our transportation was in ruins. Then millions of Bengalis had fled to India."

As he warmed up, his English began to slip a little.

"Three million, they died," he said. "I say died. Not all killed. On way to India some died. On way back some died."

The sheikh apparently no longer insists that the Pakistani army killed 3 million Bengalis, a figure that has been disputed widely since the sheikh suggested it.

But his point was lodged securely and he proceeded to nail it down fast with the contention that a United Nations survey team had compared the destruction here to Germany after World War II.

Of all his achievements, Mujib is perhaps proudest of bringing what he considers constitutional government and free elections to Bangladesh.

"My own newspapers—government papers—even write against me sometimes," he beamed.

In fact, they very rarely do. The Bangladesh press is more likely to carry page one stories proclaiming how well nationalized industries are doing.
